Jordan Richard 1407, 12 June. Also on 12 June, in the year above, at London the bishop authorised an exchange between Sirs James Vynor, then rector of the parish church of Freystrop, and Thomas Broun, then rector of Cronwer, of his diocese, and the causes of such exchange having been found lawful and approved and their resignations because of the said exchange of the benefices mentioned having been duly made by Sir Richard Jordan, priest, of the said diocese of St Davids proctor of the aforesaid Sir James Vynor etc., as well as by the aforesaid Thomas Broun, then present there in person, and admitted by the bishop himself, the same bishop admitted the aforesaid Sir Thomas Broun to the aforesaid church of Freystrop at the presentation of the prior and convent of Pylle of the order of St Benedict of Tiron, patrons of the said church etc., and subsequently on the same day and at the same place, the aforesaid bishop admitted the aforesaid Sir James Vynor in the person of his proctor aforesaid etc., to the church of Cronwer aforesaid at the presentation of Sir Henry, King of England, etc., and vice-patron by reason of the temporalities of the priory of St Nicholas Pembroke, being in his hand on account of the war between him and his French adversaries, patron of the same church and instituted him as rector, etc.

Laugharnes --Acc to Old Pembrokeshire Families Henry Owen

In later Pembrokeshire story the Laugharnes were a family of great importance, but their origin is obscure it is probable that they took their name from the town, which was afterwards included in Carmarthenshire.

Fenton gives a legend that the original Laugharne came from Cornwall, was shipwrecked near St. Bride's, and found on the beach by the heiress of John de St. Bride who joined the standard of Henry VII at Milford, that he married the heiress and founded the Pembrokeshire Laugharnes.' It is a pretty story, but like many pretty stories, it is not true. The Laugharnes had been in the county long before the time of the Tudors. A John de St. Bride was a witness 1241-5 to Earl Walter Marshal's charter to Gilbert de Vale." Another John de St. Bride was a witness to the arbitration in 1345 between the Precentor and Chapter of St David's, and the tenants in Hayscastle of Sir Peter Russell this is worthy of note, as Richard, the son of the first authentic Laugharne, married a daughter of this same Sir Peter another daughter married John Cradock. We find several Russells witnesses to charters in the 13th and 14th centuries they held lands at Brimaston, Rhindaston and elsewhere, of the bishop and of the lords of Roch.

Richard Laugharne above mentioned, who married Joan Russell, was the son of Richard Laugharne, collector of the customs on wool at Haverford from 1304 to 1309 the audit of his accounts is extant.' In 1324 Richard Laugharne as also a John de Laugharne was on a jury at Haverford. In 1378 an enquiry was held whether it would be to the damage of the King, or of any other person, if Richard, the son therein described as of Haverford, gave £4 5s. of rent out of a tenement in Haverford, which he held of Sir Thomas, Felton Justice of Chester" and Elizabeth his wife, to certain chaplains to celebrate divine service in the chapel of the Holy Trinity over the gate at Haverford it was found that it would not, and Richard was allowed to make the donation.'

Thomas, the son of Richard the Younger, married Joan, daughter and co-heiress of Philip Crabhole, and is described in the pedigrees as of St. Bride's, which he acquired by his marriage he was a witness to a Malefant charter in 1444 and died before 1447, as in that year Nicholas Carew held of Joan, his widow, and Thomas, Wirriot, certain lands at Williamston,. The Laugharnes inter-married with the leading county families and acquired large estates. Thomas, left two sons, Philip and John, and several daughters.

The next step in the pedigree is proved by the proceedings taken in 1543 by Owen Laugharne to recover a messuage and two carucates of land at Little Marloes. Owen produced in court a charter, d 26th April 1482, by which Joan Herbord granted the tenement in question to John Laugharne and his heirs, with remainder to Thomas, the son of Phillip evidence was given that John died in the reign of the then King Henry

VIII, leaving an only child, Dorothy, who died without issue, and that the Property then descended to the plaintiff as the son and heir of David Laugharne, the son of the last-mentioned

Thomas. Owen Laugharne died in 1550 he married the daughter of Henry Wirriot, of Orielton, who is called in the pedigree Katherine, but in the above-mentioned proceedings, Matilda his inquisition is extant, with a long account of his possessions."

Francis, the son of Owen Laugharne, was sheriff of the county in 1568 and 1578, the probate of his will is d 12th November 1583, and is in the writer's possession. Rowland, the son of Francis, was sheriff in 1586, he died in 1587, having married Lettice, daughter of Sir John Perrot his marriage settlement" was executed in three parts, one part is among the Laugharne deeds in the writer's possession. Lettice brought St. Bride's to her second husband, Walter Vaughan, who was sheriff in 1594. Rowland had a younger brother, Thomas, who was the father of two sons William, described in the pedigrees as of LlwyrngWarren now corrupted with Llangwarren, and Francis, the ancestor of the Laugharnes of Laugharne. William married Ursula, the daughter of George Owen, lord of Kemes, and the widow of Thomas, Mathias, who brought Llangwarren" to her second husbandfor his life William was a member of the Committee of Safety for the counties of Pembroke, Carmarthen and Cardigan, nominated by the Houses of Parliament in 1644."

Rowland Laugharne of St. Bride's, had two children John, sheriff in 1631, who married Janet, daughter of Sir Hugh Owen of Orielton and Elizabeth Wyrriot and Dorothy, who married John Owen, the elder brother of Janet, from which marriage the baronets of Orielton were descended.

John Laugharne of St. Bride's had several children his youngest son Francis married Lettice, daughter and co-heiress of James Vaughan of Pontvaen, and was the ancestor of the Laugharnes of Pontvaen his eldest son, Rowland, was the famous Major-General, the most prominent soldier of the Parliamentary forces in South Wales during the Civil War. He began life as a Page, to Robert Devereux, the third Earl of Essex the General of the first army raised by the Parliament. Under such auspices Laugharne's rise was rapid in 1642 he was made Governor of Pembroke and Commander of the Parliament soldiers in the county he drove out the Earl of Carbery and the Royalists, and he besieged and took several strongholds in the three counties of Pembroke, Carmarthen, and Cardigan, for which he was made Major-General. In 1645 he defeated the Royalists under Stradling and Egerton at a decisive battle at Colby Moor in Wiston parish curiously enough Fenton,' although he found relics of the fight and had heard the local tradition about it, could ascertain no particulars of what happened another local tradition, also testified by relics, states that the Royalists, in their flight towards Haverford, held the ancient encampment at the Rath in Rudbaxton parish, and were driven out by Laugharne but in all these local traditions of the Civil War it is Cromwell who gets the credit. By an ordinance of Parliament d the 4th of March 1646, the Lords and Commons, taking into consideration the " great and faithful services" of the Major-General, granted the forfeited estate, at Slebech, of John Barlow to him and " his heirs for ever". These last words have in such times a doubtful value a few years later Laugharne had revolted from the Parliament, and all his estates were confiscated.

The reason he gave for this singular change of position was that his soldiers had not been paid, and that Colonel Horton had been sent down to interfere in his command but it is probable that his conduct was influenced by the circumstances of the resignation of his old friend and patron, the Earl of Essex.

In 1648, John Poyer, , "the fighting Mayor of Pembroke," had also revolted from the Parliament and set up the standard of the King at Pembroke Castle he was joined by Rice Powell, a soldier of fortune and another old Parliamentary hand, and by Laugharne Poyer, and his allies marched on Glamorgan were defeated with great loss by Horton at St. Fagan's where Laugharne was wounded, and fled home to Pembroke. They were there besieged by Cromwell in person, who took up his abode at Welston, and they surrendered to him on July 11th, 1648.

Laugharne, Poyer, and Powell were tried by court-martial and sentenced to death. They were, however, allowed to cast lots for life, a little child drew three pieces of paper, on two of them was written "Life given of God" the third was blank and fell to Poyer, , who was shot at Covent Garden. Laugharne was banished and fell on evil days, but he lived to receive a pension at the Restoration, and he sat in the Parliament of 1661 as M.P. for Pembroke he died in 1676." St. Bride's he had again, but Slebech, after being granted to Horton, who destroyed the books and manuscripts, was restored to the Barlows.

Rowland, the son of the Major-Geural, and according to some accounts, the M.P. of 1661, had two sons

John, who married Anne, daughter of Lewis Wogan, of Boulston, and died without issue in 1715 on the night of his re-election as M.P. for Haverfordwest for which borough he had sat continuously since 1702 and Rowland, who died without issue in 1691, and is buried in the nave of Salisbury Cathedral there is a Latin epitaph on his monumental slab. The St. Bride's estates, therefore, were ultimately divided among the three married daughters of Rowland Laugharne the second Philippa, who married as his second wife Charles Phillips of Sandy Haven Albinia, who married William, the son of Charles Phillips by his first wife Anne one of the four daughters and coheiresses of William Phillips of Haythog and Anne, who married David Allen, of Popston, whose younger son John married Joan Bartlett, the heiress of Cresselly.

From Charles Phillips and Philippa came the Laugharnes of Orlondon which Fenton' says was before their time called Humprey their grandson Rowland married Ann, daughter of James Laugharne, vicar of St Mary's, Haverfordwest, who had married his cousin, Katherine Laugharne Katherine was the sister of John Laugharne, of Pontvaen, who by his will, d 12th May 1742, devised his estates in the counties of Pembroke and Carmarthen to his niece Ann Rowland Phillips after his marriage took the name of Phillipps-Laugharne.

Rowland Henry, the grandson of this Rowland, inherited the Picton baronetcy upon the death of the first Lord Milford in 1823, and took the name of Laugharne-Phillipps he was succeeded by his brother. Sir William, and his nephew. Sir

Godwin the son of Sir William Sir Godwin died without issue in 1857, and the old Picton baronetcy passed to the heir of Richard Philipps Younger brother of Charles, of Sandy Haven, Governor of Nova Scotia from 1720 to 1730, and ancestor of Sir James Erasmus Philipps the twelfth baronet of Picton.

Charles Philipps the son of William and Albinia, had St. Bride's in his share of the Laugharne estates he left the old house of the Laugharnes, which Fenton" says, from the remains which were to be seen in his time, must have been the finest place in the county with the exception of the castles and the bishop's palaces, and built a house adjoining since rebuilt which he called Hill. St. Bride's Hill passed through the Aliens, a branch of the house of Gellyswick who took the name of Philipps to Harries, of Llanunwas, and thence to Lord Kensington.

1837 - 1913 , historian of Pembrokeshire , was the eldest son of admiral John Milligen Laws b. 1799 of Marchfield House , Binfield, Berks. , and Mary 1815 - 1899 , daughter of Mathias Charles , of Lamphey Court and Llangwaran, Pembs. His parents were married on 25 June 1836 and he was born on 17 April 1837 and christened in Lamphey church on 4 July . He was educated at Rugby and Wadham College , Oxford , where he matriculated on 28 May 1856 . His wife, who died on 8 May 1897 , was Georgina Elizabeth Laws , eldest daughter of the Rev. W. Nantes of Frome Vowchurch , Dorset . For some years he held a commission in the 35th Royal Sussex Regiment , before settling at Tenby where he was a notable public figure for half a century. He was a member of the town Council 1897 and mayor of the borough 1900 , a J.P. for the county of Pembroke , and chairman for a long period of the Tenby bench . In 1899 he was high sheriff of Pembrokeshire . He devoted much of the ample leisure, which he enjoyed as a gentleman of means, to the study of the history and archaeology of Pembrokeshire . His chief works are the county history, Little England beyond Wales , 1880 Church Book of St. Mary the Virgin, Tenby , 1907 in collaboration with his adopted daughter Emily Hewlett Edwards , A Short History of the Civil War as it affected Tenby and its neighbourhood, 1887 , and a number of articles in Arch. Camb. , 1882-1906 . He died 25 July 1913 after an accident while driving his horse and trap , and left one son, Edward Lucian Laws .

Lewis Herbert William 'Stokey' VC

1st May 1896. Private Lewis VC, 16224 11th Battalion, Welsh, Regiment.

“Stokey” Lewis was born in Milford on 1st May 1896. Soon after the outbreak of the 1st World War he enlisted in the 11th Battalion known as the Cardiff Pals as most of the members came from Cardiff of the Welch Regiment. After a short period of service on the Western Front the Pals were withdrawn and sent to the Mediteranean where they fought for the remainder of WW1 in the Salonika Campaign. It was while taking part in this campaign on the 22/23 October 1916 that the 20 year old “Stokey” Lewis’s actions lead to him being awarded the Victoria Cross. He was taking part in a raid at a place now known as Efzoni Macedonia Greece Although severely wounded Stokey Lewis eventually returned to duty and survived the 1st World War. In the 2nd World war he served in the Home Guard.

He died on the 22 February 1977 and is buried at Milford.

Vivian Llewellyn Lloyd author of “How Green was my Valley” always claimed he was born at St Davids but although he was of Welsh, parentage, according to Wikipedia, he was actually born on the 8th December 1906 at Hendon Middlesex and only after his death was it revealed that his claim to have been born in St David’s was false. He was educated in Wales and London and originally intended to make a career in Hotel management but when he visited Italy became involved with the film industry.

For his first published novel “How Green Was My Valley” 1939 which was also made into an Oscar winning film 1941 he spent a few months with his grandfather at and actually went down Gilfach Goch Colliery. During WW2 he served as a Captain in the Welsh, Guards.

Lloyd of Morril and Grove --

Acc/to - South Pembrokeshire - M. Mirehouse, .

Grove, a ruin between Stackpole and Pembroke, formerly belonged to Lloyd of Morril, in North Pembrokeshire. Thomas, Lloyd of Morril married Frances, daughter of Hugh Philipps of Jestynton, brother of Sir Richard Philipps . Hugh's father was Sir John Philipps eleventh Baronet, who was Sheriff in 1595 his mother was Anne, daughter of Sir John Perrott, who brought Jestynton as her dowry. Just south of Pembroke town. In the late 17th century Grove became the seat of the Lloyd's, descended from the ancient family of Lloyd of Morfil, Cilciffeth and Cilgelywen. After Thomas, Lloyd married Frances daughter of Hugh Philipps of Eastington, he settled at Grove as his main seat. He was High Sheriff in 1700, and died not Long afterwards, being succeeded by his son and heir, also named Thomas, Lloyd . The second Thomas, served as High Sheriff in 1709, and died in 1711. His widow Mary then married Morgan Davies of Cwm, Carms., and enjoyed Grove until Mary died in 1752, aged 70. Thomas, Lloyd left daughters and co-heiresses, one of whom, Elizabeth Lloyd married in 1725 Sir William Owen, 4th Baronet of Orielton. Fenton wrote in 1811 Grove as well as Morfil, in consequence of the late Sir William Owen becoming entitled to a share of this Property by his marriage with one of the co-heiresses, and having purchased the shares of the others, form part of the vast possessions of Orielton.

Grove thus passed to the Owen family who abandoned it as a residence, and it became a farm. By 1786, Sir Hugh Owen, the then owner had let the Property to three tenants.

Lloyd Vaughan about 1738-1817 , a soldier, was the third son of James Lloyd of Ffiis-.y-Bleiddiaid, in Cardiganshire, by Mary, daughter of James Philipps , of Penty-Park, in Pembrokeshire. He entered the Royal Regiment of Artillery, as a second lieutenant, and fought at the battle of Minden, in Germany, on the 1st August, 1751. He became a Captain lieutenant in 1764, and Captain in 1772, and distinguished himself at the memorable defence of Gibraltar by General Elliot in 1781. He was promoted to major in 1782, and lieutenant-colonel in 1793, and honourably distinguished himself in the campaigns in the West Indies under Generals the Hon. Sir John Vaughan and Sir Ralph Abercromby, being granted the local rank of brigadier there in 1795. He became colonel in the same year, major-general in 1798, lieutenant-general in 1805, and general in 1814. He was commandant of the garrison of Woolwich upwards of 20 years, and died at the Royal Arsenal on the June, 1817, after an honourable service in the Artillery. Eminant Welsh, men

Lort Sampson 5 October. 1652 Erasmus Phillips, Sampson Lort and William Phillips, Pembroke Town to the Committee for regulation of Markets, the Inner Exchequer Chamber, Westminster

Having received their order of 15th June 1652 concerning the regulating of markets, enclosed in a letter from Mr Blackgrave, the writers caused it to be published at the public sessions holden for co. Pembrokeshire at the town Hall of Pembrokeshire on 5 October. They made known such fit places within the county where markets may be directed, viz. , Moun-ton in the hundred of CastleMartyn on Tuesday, Fishguard in Kemes on Wednesday, Lawhadden in Dungleddy on Thursday, St Florence in CasteMartyn on Thursday, and Narberth in the hundred of Narberth on Wednesday. The reason of their certificate herein is that there is no market in the county but in the corporate towns of Pembroke and Tenby and the county town of Haverfordwest. Calender of the Records of the borough of Haverfordwest 1539 - 1660

Love Steven 26th December 1636 the sonne of Robert Love smith was baptised on St Steven day St Mary's Church Register Haverfordwest

Love Stephen and Deborah 1650 London Puritan Preacher Londoner Stephen sometimes spelt Steven Love and his wife Deborah arrived in Pembrokeshire. He had been appointed to the living of Cosheston, the Rector of which at that time was Peregrine Phillips, as a result of his work with the Propagation Committee. I could find no evidence that he had taken Holy Orders. He would have lived in the Rectory just down from the Church which is now the site of a private house. The area was just recovering from the effects of the second Civil War but in that year Tenby was visited by an even greater disaster. In the town an outbreak of plague had occurred. Haverfordwest records show that there was a house to house collection in the town for the relief of the sick and distressed in Tenby. How many died we do not know but the Mayor of Tenby gave a shilling for a shroud for each poor person and it is recorded that that sum came to 113 shillings. 113 poor people died how many more affluent townsfolk died as well? The next year a ship arrived and berthed at Haverfordwest. To avoid being quarantined it is believed to have anchored in the Haven down near the present site of the Cleddeau bridge. The bodies of several young seamen wrapped in their hammocks were hastily buried in the mud below the high tide mark. So hastily that one had a coin of 1650 buried with him. It is believed that they died from bubonic plague. These bodies were found during the construction of the Cleddeau Bridge. This ship which berthed in October 1651 is believed to have carried the plague to Haverfordwest as in the first nine months after that 207 people died of it. A tenth of the town's population.

Meanwhile in 1651 Stephen Love had been moved from Cosheston to St Thomas's Church Haverfordwest as, according to records, Puritan Rector and on May 13th 1652 "Love Stephen Cleric? "Minister of the Gospel was appointed Vicar of St Mary's" He and his wife worked unceasingly to help the victims while many of the town authority and Merchant s fled. HW Corp MS 584 I

Loveling - 4 generations of Vicars same parish

Loveling William 1613 was the first of four members of the same family who served this church as vicars over a period of one hundred and forty seven years Is there any other church that can say the same

William only was vicar for 16 years and was succeeded by his son

Loveling Mathias 1629 who also held the living of Castlemartin as did many of the succeeding vicars Mathias although had problems because he was turned out of the benefice for insufficiency by the Commissioners for Propagation in 1650 and the profit's what they were sequestered a successor was not appointed He seems to have regained the living in 1662 when many puritain ministers left their livings rather than give assent to the rites and rituals of the Church under the Act of Uniformity

The Land Tax records give us a picture of the size of the parish at that time of thirty households ten were classed as paupers and only six had more than one hearth the biggest house in the area has occupied by Thomas, Gough and had five hearths. not very big when compared to some of the houses in other parishes.

Mathias Loveling 1671 died in 1671 and was succeeded by his son

Loveling William 1718 during his time Erasmus Saunders described the living of Warren as one of the poorest in the area and says of the churches generally in the area that there were many which "" we are but rarely if at all to meet with Preaching Catechising or Administering of the Holy Communion In others the Services of the prayers is but partly read, and that perhaps but once a month or perhaps once in a quarter of a year Curates were submitted to serve three of four churches very often ten of twelve Miles from one another for an annual stipend of 10pounds. William was in 1718 followed by his son

Lovering Thomas 1760 Thomas, died in 1760 but his wife lived to be 104 according to Fenton she was mother to Loveling of Trinity College Oxford who published a book of poems, "elegant specimens of classical latinity, but more honourable to his muse than his morals" unfortunately I have not been able to obtain a copy so I cannot comment.

Acc/to Henry Owen --Old Pembrokeshire Families

The place was anciently called Ucceton, Ucton, Ockton, and Octon it is frequently mentioned in the records.' Of the original castle, part still remains, together with the chapel, once used as a parish church, which has some interesting monuments. It is said that the 13th century effigy, the oldest in the county, which used to be at the mother church of Nash and is now at Upton, is that of the founder of the castle and the builder of Nash church. Fenton, who commented upon the disgraceful neglect of this monument, gives a tradition that this first lord of Upton was a man of gigantic stature, that he died at sea, and that his body was brought home and landed at Cosheston Pill. He was probably a Malefant but there is nothing to show it. The first Malefant recorded was

Malefant Walter c1244 , who married de la Roche Avice, and as Upton was part of the great possessions of the de la Roches, it may have come to the Malefants by this marriage. Malefant Walter was a witness to the charter of Thomas, Bishop of St David's 1244-1256 to John de la Roche, and according to the Annales Cambrice he was killed fighting the Welsh, at Kilgerran in 1258,

This Walter was succeeded by a son and a grandson of the same name,

Malefant Eleanor Daughter of Sir Walter Malefant
Married Robelyn William of Kestington Keeston Arch Camb

Malefant Walter 1268&1278approx, 1290 November 6 the son of Malefant Walter married FitzHenry Joan, daughter of Henry Fitz Henry the son was, about 1268, a witness to the grant of Fishguard" by William de Cantinton to St. Dogmael's Abbey, to Roger Mortimer's charter to Thomas, de la Roche," and some ten years later, to Thomas, de la Roche's charter to Pill Priory. charter roll 18 Edward 1 m 1 Cal p 373 1290 November 6 Clipston.

Malefant Walter 1323 the grandson son Malefant Walter married Elizabeth, daughter of John de Londres was in 1323 a witness to the agreement between Earl Aymer de Valence with the Commandery of Slebech, which is set out in Fenton's Appendix, in the next year to a charter by that Earl to Tenby, and to the further charter to Tenby by Earl Lawrence Hastings in 1342 in 1327 and 1331 he was a juror at Pembroke, and in 1324' and 1348 he held half a Knight's fee at Esse, or Nash, of the value of 10 marks. Malefaunt Walter Esse Nash held half Knights' fee held by worth yearly 10 marks. Malenfant Walter Inquisition on August 20 1324 before John de Hamptona, King's Escheat, at Pembroke, Patent Roll 27 Pt 1 M 27d Cal p 447 1353 Feb 8 Westminster. 1324 Aug 20 Esse Nash I P M Edward II files 84 & 85.

This last Walter was succeeded by his son

Malefant William died 1362 who married Margaret, daughter and co-heiress of John Fleming of St. George's in Glamorgan he died in 1362 seised of the manors of Over Ash and Nether Ash, worth 60s., and one and a half carucates of land at Critchurch, worth 30s., which, jointly with his wife, he held of the Earl of the manor of Llandethauk Llandawke? worth 50s., held by military service of John Wogan of Picton and Isabel de Londres his wife of the manor of Milton, worth £7 10s., by the like tenure, of John de Carew of a rental of £4 at Cadygansford in Whitchurch Dewisland by suit of court of the bishop, and of lands at Dennant, worth 40s., of de la Roche " it is probable that it is his effegy and that of his wife which are at Upton Castle." Juror 32 31 May 1358

This William had a son also called

Malefant William born 1347 . William the younger was one of a jury at Dale in 1375, and at Pembroke in 1383.

Malelefaunt William 1403, June 16 . Commission of array in the county of Pembroke and the lordships and county of Rous to Thomas, Earl of Worcester Thomas, baron of Carrew, John Organ, John Joce, William Malelefaunt, Thomas, Roche, Richard Wiriot, John Eynor, and Thomas, Rede, on information that Owen Glyndourdy and other rebels of those parts for want of victuals intend to come suddenly with no small posse to the marches of the county to seek victuals and waste the county. Patent Roll 4 Henry IV pt 2 m 19d Cal p280 Patent Roll 3 Richard II pt 3 m 23d Cal p 509 1380 April 20 Westminster. Patent Roll 51 m 3d Cal p 501 1377 February 16 Westminster.-----

Malenfaunt William 1377 February 16 Westminster second entry on m 3d. Apparently he died without issue, and was succeeded by his brother Henry.

Malefant Henry 1405 was one of the three commissioners appointed in 1405 to raise funds to buy a truce from Owen Glyndwr " Fenton gives the commission as including the rectory of St Giles at Picton," but in the original it is clearly Octon, i.e., Upton and four years previously we have a grant of a burgage in Tenby to Henry Malefant of Octon, Esq."

Malenfant Henry 1407, November 24 . On the 24th day of the same month etc. he admitted Sir John Malenfant, priest, to the free chapel of Hodgeston of the diocese of St David's , vacant by the free resignation of Master John Smyth last rector of the same on the presentation of Henry Malenfant and Thomas, Sturmyn, lords of Hodgeston, true patrons of the said free chapel for this turn, and instituted him as rector etc. Malenfant Henry Patron lord of the manor of Ogeston Hodgeston 1487 Pembrokeshire parsons

The successor of Henry was his son Sir Thomas,

Malefant Sir Thomas died 8th May 1438 and was buried in the Church of St. Bartholomew the Less in Smithfield. In the epitaph on this tomb, preserved by Stow," he is described as Lord of Wenvoe and St. George's in the county of Glamorgan and of Ockeneton Upton and Pile Pill in the county of Pembroke, but he seems to have been a Glamorganshire magnate rather than a Pembrokeshire one.

Upon the death of Sir Thomas, Wenvoe and the Glamorgan estates passed to his son Edmond upon the death of whose grandson John Malefant without issue, in the reign of Henry VII, they were escheated to the Crown.

In the same tomb as Sir Thomas, was afterwards buried his wife, Margaret Astley, of whom a curious story, illustrative of the lawlessness of the times, is told in the Rolls of parliament." Margaret, in her petition in 1439, sets forth that immediately after her husband's death, of which she was then in ignorance, Lewis Leyson, a Glamorgan man and trusted servant of Sir Thomas, enticed her from Upton by forged Letters stating that Gruffydd ap Nicholas and other enemies were lying in wait for her. Leyson conveyed her to Tythegston, near Bridgend, and after failing in his attempt to marry her in the church, imprisoned her in the fortified manor house there, whence she escaped to her mother in London -----Leyson appears to have fled from the country."

It was a second Edmond the father of John to whom William Earl of Pembroke beheaded in 1469 desired by his will that his daughter Jane should be married," but Edmond married elsewhere.

From a charter of 1441 it appears that

Malefant Margaret 1441 nee Astley held the Malefant Pembrokeshire estates of Upton, Pile, one fourth of the manors of Hodgeston and Burton for her life " how they descended afterwards is not clear.

According to Sir S Meyrick Heraldic Visitations Ap Nicholas Owen second son of Griffith ap Nicholas of Newton or Dinevour married

Malefant Alice daughter and co-heiress of Henry Malefaunt. Fenton states that Henry was the last of the Upton Malefants, and that his daughter Alice married Owen, the second son of Gruffydd above mentioned, who was slain in the 1460's" Sir Thomas, had a son Henry, who was buried with him, and who seems to have died under age. But it is more probable Acc/to Henry Owen that Alice was the daughter of Malefant Stephen brother of Sir Thomas and of his wife Alice Perrot.

Malefant Alice 1564 Upton Castle daughter of Stephen married Owen ap Gruffudd ap Nicholas of Dinefwr

1564. Ap Owen Rhys of Upton Castle 1564 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

Ap Nicholas Owen second son of Griffith ap Nicholas of Newton or Dinevour married Alice Malefant daughter and co-heiress of Henry Malefant Sir S Meyrick Heraldic Visitations

Malefant Henry daughter and co-heiress Alice????
Married Owen ap Nicholas Rhys ap Owen, sheriff in 1564, took the name of Bowen.

The castle passed from the Malefants to Owen ap Gryffindor a descendant of whom took the name of Bowen in 1564. It remained in the Bowen family until the latter half of the 18th century when it was purchased by John Tasker and upon his death passed to his niece Maria, who married as her second husband the Rev. William Evans. In 1927 an Admiral Evans sold Upton to Mr Stanley Neal who undertook the main landscaping and planting of the Gardens. In 2006 Upton was sold for only the third time in 750 years by Mr Neale's daughter and her husband, the Reverend Canon Skelton, to Stephen and Prue Barlow who are undertaking the present restoration work.

Malefants of Ludchurch

A younger branch of the Upton Malefants settled at Ludchurch. We hear of a Malefant David 1298 and again in 1324 he was a witness in 1300 to John de Barri's charter to Richard Simond.

Marychurch of Norchard . Manorbier.

Just south of The Ridgeway, and north of Lydstep. Formerly a commodious residence of an ancient landowning family, built over a continuous vault. It is now a farmhouse. The earliest residence of which we have any record was that of Looney, also spelled as Lymy and Lang.

Looney Thomas, left no sons and Norchard passed to his daughter and heiress

Looney Isabel who married

Marychurch Lawrence 1400 who settled at his wife's home. Between 1400 and 1600, eleven generations of his descendants lived at Norchard. The origin of the family is unknown, and the name was often rendered as St. Marychurch by Dwinn. Five of the name served as Mayors of Tenby in the period 1501-1526. When Dwinn recorded the pedigree and arms on 10 November 1591, Marychurch John 10 November 1591 signed, and gave five shillings to the herald for his travail.

The family remained at Norchard until the latter half of the 19th century. In 1670

Marychurch William 1670 was assessed at seven hearths for Norchard, and

Marychurch Maud 1670 one hearth

Marychurch Francis 1670 one hearth apiece. The male line seems to have failed shortly afterwards, and when

Marychurch Mary 1673 ,married Williams John of Gumfreston, and Pant Howel Carms, who then settled at Norchard which passed to Mary's descendants. Williams

Mary nee Marychurch had two daughters who married two brothers – Williams Mary to Meyrick John d. 1732, and Williams Alice who married Meyrick Francis d. 1741
In 1786 Norchard was owned by Meyrick John Esq. of Bush, with Nicholas Roch as tenant.

Marychurch of Haverfordwest

A family of Marychurch lived in Haverfordwest from the 17th century, where they were successful tradesmen, mercers and glovers.

Marychurch William 1653 ,a Royalist, was elected Mayor of the town in but was fined and ousted from the post at a suite in Haberdashers Hall, London.

Marychurch William 1694 was Sheriff of Haverfordwest, and Mayor in 1694

Marychurch Joseph 1829 was town sheriff, and in 1865, Mayor of the town. The family also owned Property at Llawhaden.

One square tower and a few walls are all that remain of Jestynton, now called Eastington, and converted into a farm. It is well situated at the east end of Angle Bay, and must have been a fine place in its day its moat can still be traced, and the one remaining tower is immensely solid and strong. Some think that there is Roman pavement under the turf, but no excavations have so far been made. Eastington was purchased from Meares John March 25, 1842 of Plas Llanstephan, Carmarthen, sold Eastington to Mirehouse John, Common Sergeant of the City of London, and owner of Angle and Bangeston, on March 25, 1842. South Pembrokeshire M Mirehouse, .

----Old Pembrokeshire Families – Owen

— Fenton attributes one of the efigies in Carew Church to a Melyn, but it may be of a Carew.

In 1324 a John Melyn held of Aymer de Valence, with John de Porta and Alexander Robelyn , one fee and a half at Hambroth in the lordship of Haverford" Honeyborough in Llanstadwell ?, and in 1326, one stang of land at Lamphey of the bishop."" In 1362 John Melyn held one fee at Carew Churchton and Lanteg Lanteague of John de Carew, worth 100s. In 1447 John, son of John Miln, granted to Sir Thomas, Perrot a burgage in Rosemarket. Fenton also mentions a Roger Melyn.

The family of Miles of Meline, mentioned by Lewys Dwnn, does not appear to have any connection with these Melyns.

Meryck, John Dr. 1550's a learned prelate, was the illegitimate son of Owen ab Huw ab Owen ab Meyric esqr. of Bodeon, in the isle of Anglesey, by Gwenllian the daughter of Evan, of Penrhyn Deudraeth, and half brother by the father to the first Sir Hugh Owen, knt. of Orielton in Pembrokeshire. He was sent for his education to the school founded by William of Wykeham at Winchester, whence he was elected on the foundation of New College, Oxford. In the year .1557, he was made Perpetual Fellow, and in 1558, admitted to the degree of B. A. In 1561, he took the degree of M.A. and in 1565, served the office of Junior Proctor. Five years after this he was presented to the vicarage of Hornchurch in Essex, being a peculiar in the gift of his college. Distinguished for his literary attainments, he attracted the notice of Henry earl of Derby, under whose patronage he was recommended in 1575, as a fit person to succeed his countryman John Salesbury, as bishop of the Isle of Man. He was consecrated bishop of Sodor and Man, in April 1576, by Grindall, archbishop of Canterbury

' for Though," says Le Neve, " the diocese of Man was in the province of York, yet York being now vacant, the archbishop of Canterbury- performed the consecration by special licence from the Queen." The documents which were issued on these occasions will be found in Rymer's Fredera. The bishop held his dignity for twenty-three years, and died, according to Wood, in Yorkshire, in 1599, and was succeeded in the see by another Welsh, man, The bishop had several brothers, one of whom Maurice Meryck was the father of Sir William Meryck, judge of the Prerogative Court before Sir Leoline Jenkins. *Wood's Athen. Meyrick John 1632 - Sir third son of Sir Francis Meyrick was one of the military officers of the third Earl of Essex and fought in the thirty years war. He was wounded in 1632 at Maastricht. In 1640 commanded a regiment in which his brother Sir Gelly Meyrick served as an ensign. Later he became an MP for Newcastle-under-Lyme. During the Civil War he was a military adviser to the Earl of Essex and president of the Earls council of war. He married one of the daughters of Powell Morgan and Maud his wife

Meyrick John 1641 Sir of Fleet was on of the officers appointed by parliament for service against the rebels.

Meyrick John 1642 - Sir of Fleet was a supporter of the parliamentary cause.

Meyrick Francis 1660 also referred to as Captain Meyrick was tenant of BoughWood Bowett farm near Hundleton the Property of Leister, 6th Viscount Hereford. This he held on an annual tenancy but was trying to obtain a lease of either three lives or one and twenty years. There was also at the same time a land dispute in progress between William Holcombe of Brownslade who acted as local agent and Captain Meyrick quoting threats alleged to have been made by Meyrick Mr Esix. In 1661 Francis Meyrick had financial problems, he was unable to pay his rent but hoped to be able to do so in the near future as he was owed £20 by his nephew. The Hearth Tax of 1670 records that Meyricke John 1670 of Mouncton paid tax on 2 hearths.

In 1680 there are records relating to Meyrick Dorothy 1680 as daughter/heir of John Meyrick of Bowett.

Meyrick of Bush

Meyrick Dr. Rowland Bishop of Bangor married Barrett Katharine, daughter of Owen Barrett of Gellyswick had four sons and two daughters Barrett Katharine, daughter of Owen Barrett of Gellyswick, who married Dr. Rowland Meyrick Bishop of Bangor, and died 1593, tomb Hasguard Church, near Milford Haven eldest son

Meyrick Sir Gelly, Knt faithful adherence to the unfortunate Earl of Essex, they were boys together and firm friends through life, sharing the fate of the Scaffold on Tower Hill in 1601. It was from Sir Gilly that the Meyricks of Fleet, near Pembroke, were descended, who took so active a part in Cromwell's siege of that place in 1648 and also the Meyricks of Bush, near Pembroke.

Meyrick Essex 1696 of Bush was one of the gentlemen presented for refusing oaths of allegiance to William III. By that year Meyrick references give the family home as Bush when in that year

Meyrick Frances 1595 November 8. Carmarthen was one of the signatories of a letter addressed to Sir John Puckering, Lord Keeper, Lord Burghley, Lord Treasurer, The earl of Essex, Lord Buckhurst and the Earl of Pembroke. requesting ships of war and fortifications to defend the harbour of Milford bronwydd MS 3, fos.96-7.

Meyrick Francis 1600 October 1 was one of the signatorise of a letter to the Mayor and Aldermen of the Town and County of Haverfordwest billeting 200 soldiers stranded by bad weather in the Haven, on their way to Ireland, in the town and County of Havefordwest until the wind changes.

Meyrick Johannes 1615 genr. pro pauperbus was mentioned as one of the treasurers of the poor and mained soldiers within the county of Pembroke the funds appear to have been misdirected £200 to a house of correction which was never made, £40 per year towards the relief of mained soldiers but only two paid in the county and they received £11 between them per annum, £12 yearly levy for the relief of poor persons --only £6 distributed. Money raised to repair St Katherins Bridge and other bridges and the money converted to their own use. Bronwydd MS 399

Meyrick John died 1659 Sir married first Alice daughter of Sir Edward Fitton of Gawsworth, in the county of Chester, knt. by whom he had a son named Essex Meyrick, and two daughters and secondly Jane relict of Sir Peter Wyche, knt. ambassador at Constantinople, and daughter of William Meredith of Wrexham, Denbighshire, by whom he had no issue, and who survived him one year. Dying in 1659, he did not live to see the restoration. His portrait in armour was still preserved at Bush, the seat of his descendants.

Meyrick John 1732 chief justice of North Wales, was the eldest son of Essex Meyrick, whose name appears as one of the intended Knights of the Royal Oak, by Jane daughter of Robert Corbet, of Ynysymaengwyn, in the county of Merioneth, esq. He married Mary daughter and coheir of John Williams, of Norchard in the county of Pembrqke, by whom he had two sons, The chief justice died in 1732

Essex Marychurch Meyrick, who died without issue, and Meyrick John, who married Miss Adams, the heiress of Patrickchurch, now known by the name of Pater, in the county of Pembroke, whose son sold to the government the ground since converted into one of the royal dockyards..

Meyrick, Rowland 1505 LL.D was the second son of Meyric ab Llywelyn of Bodorgan in the Isle of Anglesey, by Margaret daughter of Rowland ab Hywel, rector of Aberffraw in that county, after whom he was named. He was born in 1505, and according to Wood was educated at St. Edward's Hall, near St. Edward's church, Oxford. He lived in the eventful times of the reformation, the doctrines of which lie early imbibed. His first preferment was in the reign of Henry VIII. when he obtained the rectory of Stoke by Neyland in the county of Norfolk, soon after which he was made precentor of Llanddewi Brevi, in Cardiganshire. About the year 1533, he was admitted to the degree of bachelor of civil law in the university of Oxford, and in a short time became principal of New Inn Hall. In January, 1538, he took his doctor's degree. He was next appointed chancellor of St David's and then of Wells, of which he was also chosen official principal. This rapid career, however, experienced a temporary check in 1549, when Edward VI. was prevailed on to order a writ of praemunire to issue against him and his bishop, with others. Yet as he was not personally concerned in the alleged defence, the sheriff never enforced it against him. He resigned his offices in the diocese of Wells, and in 1550, we hear of him as chancellor of St. David's, Canon residentiary, and precentor of Llanddewi Brevi, and rector of his native parish Llangadwaladr in the Isle of Anglesey. In 1554, he married Catherine daughter of Owen Barret, of Gellyswick and Hascard in the county of Pembroke. This became a pretext for his deprivation, and he was immediately removed by the councils of that period. On the accession of Elizabeth he was appointed one of the commissioners to visit the cathedrals and dioceses of St David's Llandaff, Bangor, St. Asaph, Hereford, and Worcester. Dr. Glyn dying this year, the queen recommended him for the vacant bishopric of Bangor, and at the age of fifty-four he was consecrated accordingly, on the twenty-first of December, 1559. With the see he held the prebend of Trevlodau and the rectories of Llanddewi Brevi and Llanddewi Velfre. He was also nominated one of the council of the Marches of Wales. He died on the twenty-fifth of September, 1565, and was buried on the south side of the altar in his own cathedral, leaving a widow, four sons, and two daughters.

Morgan William d1872 , a Baptist minister and author, was a native of Pembrokeshire. He began to preach at an early age, and after spending two years at college, was ordained at Holyhead in 1825. He was the first settled minister of his denomination in Anglesey. His fame as a preacher became known far and wide, and during his forty-seven years' ministry at Holyhead, the Baptists in the island greatly increased in number and power. Eminent Welshmen

Newton's of Llanstawell and Angle

Fenton Tour of Pembrokeshire 1810

p276 "This road extends from Llanstadwell to Newton Weare. Newton was once the residence of the princely family of Craddock, linearly descended from Howel Dda, Lords of this place , whose descendent Sir Richard married Emma , daughter and co-heiress of Sir Thomas Perrott of Eastington and dropped the name Craddock, took the name of Newton, and was Chief Justice of Common Pleas. This led him to settle in England and dispose of his Property in Wales. He died December the 14th 1444, and lies buried in a chapel on the south side of Bristol Cathedral.....

I visited the churches of Lanstadwell and Burton, but they contained nothing worthy of note "---

Fenton suggests p277 that some of the Family were buried at Llanstadwell although also mentioning a that the grave of a Mr Bowlas at Burton was on the site were laid a sculptured tombstone with an effigy almost effaced and that this was removed to make place for the internment and that Mr Bowlas , who was the late proprietor of Newton understood that this was the traditional burial place of the owners of Newton.

Page, 400 In Bristol Cathedral at the lower end of the south aisle against the east wall is an ancient tomb of grey marble, on which once were placed the effigies of two persons kneeling, and an inscription on brass beneath them, and their arms behind their heads but to whom they belonged was unknown till from a MS. in Benton Coll. Library Cambridge, it was discovered that the monument had been erected to the memory of Sir Richard Newton Craddock, who died Dec 13th 1444, chief justice of the common pleas. This with the founders grave stone, are the only monuments that had brass inscriptions and effigies belonging to them.

It is alleged that the Newton Family originally came from Llanstadwell and then moved across the water to the Angle area

Shirburn Nicholas 1350 died his wife's name was Margaret and his son was John who was then 18 years old. he owned in Angle 2 1/2 carucates worth 100s., and 100s rent.-details given in following document also details of the land held by John Craddok of Neuton whose daughter whose son Roger age 17 married the daughter of Nicholas Schirbourn

1353 June 6 Chancery Misc. Inquisition No 168

Writ d 6 June Edward III, touching the Knight's fees held by the late Laurence de Hastings, Earl of Pembroke.

Inquisition at Pembroke 6 April 27 Edward III, before Thomas de Aston.

Nicholas de Shirbourn, on his death, held of the demesne of Pembroke 50s 4d of rent in Scurlageston, of which Margaret, his wife, held one third in dower. Also he held 21/2 carucates of land in Angle of the Earl of Gloucester conjointly with Margaret his wife who survived him and worth 100s yearly John son of the said Nicholas is his next heir, and was 18 years old on the death of his father. Also he held 12s rent in Angle of the Earl of Gloucester, of which the said Margaret receives one third by way of dower. His marriage is worth 20 marks.

John Craddok, at his death Monday after the Feast of the Assumption of Holy Mary, 24 Edward III, held of the demesne of Pembroke, 6 bovates of land in Neuton, worth 20s yearly. Roger, his son, is next heir, age 17 years. The said Roger married the daughter of Nicholas Schirbourn, et dispensati fuerint in crastino post obitum patris. His marriage is worth 20s.

Roger Cradock of Newton aged 17, married in 1350, the day after his father's death Marjory daughter of Nicholas Shirburn. Roger is reputed to have been buried at Angle and was referred to as Lord of Newton of Newton in Roos Roose in Landstadwell parish Pembrokeshire though Henry Owen says the family originally came from Ystrad Towy Richard Newton was the last of the male line, he left two daughters. see 1500

1357 John Shirburn was a juror in Pembroke

1358 Sir William de Carew held of John Shirburn, by military service, ten messuages, five carucates and three bovates of land at Angle

1362 John Shirburn died his daughter and heiress, Alice, was ten years old. He held of the Earl of Pembroke 30 acres at Coydrath, 3 burgages in Pembroke, of Edward Lord le Despenser, the rent of Scorlageston and half a Knights fee. presumably for the Craddocks to inherit from their niece she must died without issue

1377 John Cradock son of Roger was a Juror in Pembroke He married the daughter of Peter Russell who held lands at Hay's Castle according to Henry Owen

1378 - David Craddok - son of Roger and brother of John - Justice

Commission to David Craddok and to Walter Mille, as justices for holding the Sessions in the County of Pembroke.

1379 David Craddok - seneschal of Haverfordwest

Newton Richard 1426 - 7 Sir - grandson of John Cradock appointed Justice Itinerant of Pembroke ,1430 Sir Richard Newton recorder of Bristol,1438 Sir Richard Newton Judge of the Common Pleas 1439 Sir Richard Newton Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas,1448 Sir Richard Newton died and was buried at Yatton in Somerset. - he was married twice - first to Emma daughter of Thomas Perot of Haroldston in the county of Pembroke - second to Emmota Harvey of London - she is buried at Yatton - He had children by both wives.

*But the story of the Newtons and Angle does not finish there.
because there where still members of the Newton family residing in the County of Pembroke -*

There is a will which transfers endowments which had belonged to the Chapel of St Anthony, then recently washed away from the shore of West Angle Bay ,
-- in a field on the West side of Pill Bay can still be traced the site of a Church the field is called Church Meadow and coffins and bones were said to have been found there.

Prerogative Register of Canterbury, the will of Richard Newton, a resident in the parish of Monkton, near Pembroke, in which he bequeaths " to the chapel of St George the Martyr of Nangle four tenements in Haverfordwest and Pembroke, which lands of late appertained to the chapel of St Anthony in the Nangle, and to the augmentation of the stipend of a priest always to sing for the souls of the founders of the chapel of St Anthony, that is to say...Shelborn and his ancestors and for me and Elinor my late wife" He also directed that" the principal window in the chapel of St George above the altar shall be renewed and barred with green bars, and that the history and life of St George shall be pictured upon the glass"

As to which bequest Dr Henry Owen remarks " The chantry chapel of St George was in the parish churchyard. Of the other two chapels in the parish, the remains of St Mary's on the Bay were destroyed upon the erection of the modern fort and St Anthony's in West Angle Bay had been washed away by the sea not long before the of this will"

It would appear from the will of Richard Newton that there had been a chapel of St Antony in the parish of Nangle but the words of the bequest to the chapel of St George of lands " of late appertaining to the chapel of St Anthony" point to the disappearance of the latter, and its practical substitution by that of St George. The restoration of 1853, of which no account is now procurable, has removed all possibility of discovering whether the donor's desire to have the exploits of St George depicted on the window above the his altar had been fulfilled in either the church or a chapel near by.

It would appear that there is some difficulty about fixing the correct position of the altar and Chapel of St George. The chantry certificate specifically states that the chantry altar of St George was " within the parish church" 1547

The Chantry records contain an interesting record of this church in 1 Edw VI 1547 3,17PRO Chantry Certificates

Certain lands and tenements which were in the hands of feoffees to the intent to find a priest to celebrate mass at the altar of St George within the parish Church, by reason whereof it was called St. George's Chauntry, the priest being removable at the will and pleasure of the said feoffees.

Newton Elinor 1500 . late wife In the will of 1500 of Richard Newton, a resident in the parish of Monkton, near Pembroke, he bequeaths "to the chapel of St George the Martyr of Nangle four tenements in Haverfordwest and Pembroke, which lands of late appertained to the chapel of St Anthony in the Nangle, and to the augmentation of the stipend of a priest always to sing for the souls of the founders of the chapel of St Anthony, that is to say...Shelborn and his ancestors and for me and Elinor my late wife" He also directed that "the principal window in the chapel of St George above the altar shall be renewed and barred with green bars, and that the history and life of St George shall be pictured upon the glass". Prerogative Register of Canterbury

Nichol William d. 1558 from Haverfordest one of the three Protestant martyrs burned in Wales during the reign of Mary Tudor.

William Nichol Very little is known about this Martyr of Queen Mary's persecution who was burned to death near St Mary's Church in Haverfordwest. I could find no records – it is as if the town after the event wanted to forget it. Reading Foxe's Book of Martyrs I can understand why.

"William Nichol of Haverfordwest, Wales was a person of humble estate and very simple in intellect, yet, lightly gifted as he was, he knew the necessity of holding fast the blessed hope of eternal life and that the path to this blessed possession lay through the Gospel. He was taken up for reprobating the practices of the worshippers of the antichrist and April 9th 1558 bore testimony to the truth at Haverfordwest, in Wales, by enduring the fire.

Had the sanguinary bigots of Rome possessed the least bowels of compassion the imbecility of this martyr might have stepped in to save him. Unlike the Redeemer, who came into the world to SAVE, their delight to DESTROY. Should the Deity mete out to them, at the bar of judgement, the measures they have bestowed on the persecuted protestants, then will the distinction be realized which Dives experienced when in hell he lifted up his eyes, and beheld afar off Lazarus in Abraham's bosom-----“ Now he is comforted, but thou art tormented”
Foxe's Book of Martyrs 1563

I did find that at least memorials have been erected on the site before the road widening which has necessitated a memorial near but not marking the actual site
 These stones have been preserved at Dale Castle and I quote J Wiles 03.09.04

1. Rounded boulder 50in high 20in by 7in. Once stood in Haverfordwest SM95251560, to mark the site of the martyrdom of William Nichol 1558.

2. A red sandstone pillar, 1.2m high by 0.5m by 0.2m, bearing undefinable marks said to be remaining traces of an early Christian inscribed cross, now flaked away the stone previously stood at the High Street & Dark Street intersection, Haverfordwest, & is said to have marked the site of W. Nichol's execution by burning removed to current site, 1840-8 a feature of Dale Castle grounds

Owen, Benjamin , b1810 , a Congregational minister, was born at Trefdiaeth, Pembrokeshire. His father, William Owen, died leaving a number of very young children, and at eleven years of age Benjamin had to turn out to work. In his leisure hours he diligently applied himself to self-improvement, and in 1837 he was ordained at Soar, Merthyr Tydiil. His congregation rapidly increased, and a new chapel became necessary. This was built to plans prepared by Mr. Owen himself, who had worked for years as a joiner. Eminent Welshmen

George Owen MSS1591 Jan 12 Arch Camb 1854

Owen William 9th of March, 1574 was buried at Nevern the day after his death.'

George Owen's father, William, was directly descended in the male line from Lucas de Hoda. He married Elizabeth Herbert, who was descended from William, Earl of Pembroke, the first Welsh, man that was ennobled. William Owen was the first in his family to follow the English fashion of having surnames, and to assume the name of Owen. He lived to a ripe old age, dying, on the 9th of March, 1574, when he was 105 years old, and leaving behind him his son and heir, George Owen, who thus writes on the matter" Forexpierience whereof my dearest ancestor at his death was accounted to have lyved 105 years, and was at his latter dayes lustie of body and always in health, well able to travell and dayly used to walke a good swift pase, 4, 5, or 6 myles a morning for his pleasure and lesse then six yeares before his death, he, taking his journey from the towne of Pembroke towards his house in the country, began his journey a foote, willing his man to bring his horse after him, for that his horse was not then taken (and indeed was not that daye, he having began his journey a foote was forced soe to ende the same and come to his house by one of thte clock e, being 20 Miles he carried all his teeth with him to the grave, and a fewe yeares before his death would eat a handfull of nuttes, shells and all he was the yongest of his ancestours that died the last two descents before him.

My mother, alsoe, yet living (God grant it Long (died in 1603. , and two other gentle-women of the same parish, all three in perfect memory, can reckon between them at least 260 yeares, soe helthful is the ay re and soyle.*

Owen George of Henllys Kemes

wrote Discription ofPembrokeshire

Owen George 1552 born at Henllys, in the parish of Nevern, near Newport, Pembrokeshire, in 1552, and died there on 26th August, 1613. It was from Meredydd (who died 1188 , ap Gryffydd ap Rhys ap Tewdwr, who lived at Henllys, that the Property descended to Nesta, the spouse of Philip, son of Richard de Hoda, and so on in the direct male line to George Owen. Thus he could truly write of Henllys, as he did* It did not appear that any other family or person than my ancestors had ever lived there.* The Owens ,continued to live at Henllys till the death of William Owen, the great grandson of George Owen, in 1721. Some time between this and the end of the century Henllys was pulled down, and there is now only part of the foundations, overgrown with grass, that can with difficulty be traced.

George Owen married, in 1573, Elizabeth, daughter and co-heiress of William Phillips of Picton, Pembrokeshire, by whom he had ten children, the eldest and only surviving son being

Owen Alban 26th August, 1613 who succeeded him as lord of Cemaes.

About his second married there is some confusion. Fenton states in his Pembrokeshire (p. 563 , from a MS. alleged to have been written by George Owen himself, that his second spouse was  Ann,

"daughter of John Gwillim, a French gentleman of Norman descent."

But according to a pedigree signed by Owen himself, his second spouse was *' Ancred, daughter of Obiled, William of Carmarthen, gent."

According to this pedigree, Owen had seven children by her, but Owen himself states that there were twelve children of his second married.

This married with Ancred is corroborated by the Inquisitio Post Mortem of George Owen, in which the jurors further say that  certain lands were granted by George Owen by deed d 18th August, 1613, to John Owen of Trecwn and Henry Bowen of Cilgwyn to the use of George Owen and Ancred his spouse and the survivor for life, with remainder to the use of their son Thomas Owen and the heirs of hisbody, with remainder to the use of their son Rhys Owen, his heirs and assigns." By Ancred George Owen had five sons George, the York Herald, Evan, Chancellor of St David's, William, Thomas and Rhys. The jurors further state that George Owen died on the 26th day of August last (1613), and that Alban Owen was at the of that Inquisition of the age of thirty-three years. They also further state that Ancred is yet alive."

Alban was the only son by the first spouse who lived to maturity there were also several daughters. According to this Inquisitio Post Mortem taken at the GuildHall, Haverfordwest, on the 4th day of

May, 1614, Alban Owen, his son and heir apparent, was on the 24th September, 1596, betrothed to Lettice, daughter of Johanna, and her late Husband William Mercer deceased, and George Owen

then covenanted to grant certain houses and lands, etc., to their use for either or both their lives and then to their sons successively in tail male with ultimate remainder to the right heirs of George Owen, before *'the Feast of All Saints then

next." . . . "The jurors find that this "married was duly solemnized and George Owen performed his covenant by a deed of feoffment d the 24th October, 1596, to "the effect that (i lands at the Bury, formerly the grange of the " Castle of Newport in the occupation of various persons and "the manor house or dairy, called The Court, in the parish of  Eglwyswrw, with lands extending West of Pencelly Forest, by Berllan

"to Pencelly Fawr, thence by Blaen Palley Vychan to the Queen's "highway, leading from the church of St. David, at Llantood, to " Bwlch y Garreglwyd, thence by Gwaun y cyver to George Owen's

" new hedge at VRoches," were to be held for the use of Alban Owen and his spouse for life and to their sons successively in tail male, "the " Castle and Town of Newport and the Barony or Lordship of Kemes, "and the manors of Eglwyswrw, Newcastle, Redwalls, Bayvill and " Moylgrove, parcel of the barony," devolving on Alban on the death of his father. The pedigree attached to the Baronia de Kemes states that Alban married in 1591 Joan, daughter of William Bradshaw of St. Dogmaelspossibly Joan died early and Lettice may have been his second spouse .

According to the same Post Mortem Inquisition before, among others, William Bradshaw of St. Dogmaels, Esquire, the jurors present, " that George Owen was in his lifetime seised in his demesne. '* as of fee, of the Country, Barony or Lordship of Kernes, the Castleand Town of Newport, with a close called The Park, the manors of Newcastle, Bayvill, Eglwyswrw, and Moylgrove, PenKelly Forest, certain lands called Henllys Ucha. Henllys Issa. and Henllys Vorganand four water grain Mills called Jordan's Mill, NewportMill, Moylgrove Mill, and Velindre Marchog Mill, all parcel of the Barony."

Owen George 1573 Augusti 5 Henlis "being ye married was admitted to be of Barnards Inne in Holboren and fistt came to dwell at Henlis with his wife on Tuesday 9th Febr 1573/4, his father and dwelling at Henlis. He was about 22 years old when his father died but his mother Eliz (daughter of Sir Geo Herbert o fSwansey) lived till 1603.

Perrot - According to Old Pembrokeshire Families --Henry Owen

The name is Norman-French, and is spelt in various ways, but the authentic spelling is as above given, which was followed by Sir John Perrot, the Lord Deputy, in his signature to the marriage settlement of his daughter Lettice with Rowland Laugharne, the duplicate of which is in the writer's possession curiously enough in the body of the deed the name is spelt Perrott. It is still found in France and in disguised forms in many parts of England and Wales. Most of the families of repute who bore it have tried to fasten their pedigrees on to the Pembrokeshire line an interesting and impudent example of this is to be found in the "Pedigree of the late Sir Richard Perrott, Bart.," which Fenton published in his Appendix.' Even the great William of Wykeham has been claimed for the Pembrokeshire Perrots, apparently because his niece Alice Champneys married one William Perrot, whose son took the name of Wykeham.' Robert Perrot, a famous musician and man of affairs at Oxford, who died in 1550, is said, on his monument in St. Peter's Church in that city, to have been the son of George Perrot of Haverfordwest, and from him came the Oxfordshire Perrots, who continued at North Leigh until 1765. They set up a doubtful claim to be descended from the Perrots of Haroldston but from the latter were probably derived the Perrots of Yorkshire, the most distinguished of whom was George Perrot, a baron of the exchequer, who died in 1780.

The three leading branches of the Pembrokeshire house were those settled respectively at Eastington afterwards at Haroldston, Scotsborough and Caervoriog. The founder of the house is said to have been

Perrot Stephen 1183 who in the reign of Henry I acquired lands at Narberth, and married the heiress of Jestynton Eastington, but the earlier descents in the pedigree cannot be adapted to this, and furnish another proof that little reliance can be placed on any Welsh, pedigree before the 14th century.

According to Fenton, Andrew, the son of Stephen, founded the castle and church at Narberth which latter he dedicated to St. Andrew, and married Janet the daughter of Ralph Mortimer, whom Fenton describes as Earl of March. Ralph, who died in 1246, was the great-grand- father of Roger the first Earl of March but this much is certain, that Narberth Castle remained for many generations the heritage of the Mortimers. Andrew's son was William, who married the daughter of Sir Walter Herford, and William's son was Peter, who married the daughter of Harry Canaston of Canaston.

With

Perrot Stephen 1307 son of Perrot Peter, he married Mabel, the heiress of Castleton in 1307 he was a juror at Pembroke, in 1324 he held of the Earl half a Knight's fee at Popetovsm" Popton, and in 1327 was indicted for a conspiracy against Richard de Barri, He had,

Perrot John the heir who married Jane, the daughter but not the heiress, as Lewys Dwnn states of John Joce of Prendergast, and died on the 13th January 1349 he held lands at Pennar, Walwaynston Wallaston in Pwllcrochan, Osvameston Yerboston in Monkton, and apparently at Coedrath.

Perrot Richard 1349 to whom he granted nineteen acres of land in Gravelhill' Greenhill?.

Perrot Thomas 1349 who founded the Scotsborough line of Perrots, probably by marriage with the heiress.

Perrot Peter 1349 the successor of John, kept up the family tradition of well-dowered wives his wife was Alice, daughter and heiress of Sir Richard Harold of Haroldston by Haverfordwest, and after the death of Sir Richard, Haroldston became the chief residence of the Perrots of Eastington. In 1373 Peter Perrot brought an instructive lawsuit against William Beneger and Isolda his wife for certain profits of a messuage and a carucate of land held by socage tenancy at Eastington, which Isolda, his father's sister, as his nearest relative who could not inherit, held as guardian during his minority. William and Isolda pleaded that the land was held by military service, under which the guardian was not accountable for the rents and profits, but a Pembroke jury came and said that the land was held in socage and gave Peter 111 3s. damages." This is a good instance of the advantages of the ancient tenure of free and common socage, to which all tenures by Knight service were converted after the Restoration. Peter Perrot died in 1378, and his heir was his infant son Stephen Perrot Stephen 1378 Infant son of Peter wardship granted to John Harold, clerk, apparently the uncle." Of this Stephen we know little, except that he married, as his first wife, Ellen the heiress of John Howel, of Woodstock in Ambleston, who brought some North Pembrokeshire estates to the Perrots of Haroldston.

Perrot Thomas 1422 son and successor of Stephen-married Alice, the daughter of John Picton, who in 1422 granted him and his wife Alice the daughter of the grantor lands at Picton in Roose at a yearly rent of two greyhounds. There is also extant a grant by Thomas, Picton of Carew and his wife Margaret to Thomas, Perrot and Alice of six messuages, a water mill, and a carucate of land at Glinbigh' and Savilageston Sageston in a deed of gift to her son in 1463, his widow was called Joan — if this is not an error she must have been a second wife." He is probably the "Sir Thomas, Perot de-Harfordwest" who is mentioned by William of Worcester as fighting on the Lancastrian side at the battle of Mortimer's Cross in 1461.' He was succeeded by another Thomas, his son the marriages of his daughters shew the position to which the Perrots had now attained

Perrot Jane to Philip Elliot of Earwere,

Perrot Ellen to Richard Wryiott of Orielton,

Perrot Margaret to Gruffyd ap Nicholas grandfather of Rhys ap Thomas, and

Perrot Emma to Sir Richard Newton of Newton Weare by Lanstadwell, Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas."

Perrot Thomas 1464 . son of Thomas an award was given in a dispute which had arisen between his father and the Priory of Haverfordwest touching the services at the church of Haroldston, which had been given to the Priory by Sir Richard Harold, and in the next year he had a successful suit for lands at Polcaston and High Hilton in the Lordship of Haverford. His second wife was Isabella Wogan, as appears by a grant, made to her by his son and heir William in 1474, of certain lands in the episcopal lordship of Pebidiauk for her life.

Perrot William 1487 appointed John Perrot of Haverford to be his attorney to take seisin for the Lordship of Laugharne" in 1496 he was appointed by Henry, Duke of York, Earl of Pembroke, and Lord of Haverford to be sheriff within the Lordship of Haverford" then an office for life, and in 1502 there was an award made by arbitrators in a dispute between him and John Waryn of Llawhaden as to the lands of Henry Perrot of Caervoriog, to which his younger son Jenkyn succeeded." He also married a Wogan, Johanna, , and the wills of himself and his wife are extant and were proved in 1503 and 1504 respectively. They were both buried in the Priory Church of St. Thomas, the Martyr at Haverford.

Perrot Owen 1503 Sir his son succeeded, Sir William Perrot ,but did not survive long. There are several deeds by him, the latest Owen found is dated 1522. In 1516, the King, as Lord of Haverford, granted to him and his wife Catherine a lease for 21 years, at a rental of £15, of the King's Mills at Haverford, with the weir and Fishery." He must have been dead in 1524, as in that year the custody of his son Robert, during his minority, was granted by the King to two Knights." Perrot Robert 1524 younger son of Sir Owen Perrot and Catherine would seem to be the Robert Perrot who was afterwards reader in Greek to Edward VI
Perrot Thomas 1524 eldest son of Sir Owen Perrot and Catherine succeeded to Haroldston and married Mary Berkeley, the daughter of a gentleman of the bed-chamber to

Henry VIII and granddaughter of Lord Berkeley. Mary Berkeley was the mother of the most distinguished man of the name of Perrot, but he had little right to bear the name, for he was the son of King Henry VIII, whom he much resembled in person and character. This was Sir John Perrot. As a second husband

Mary Berkeley married Sir Thomas, Johns, of Abermarlais, co. Carmarthen, who occupied Haroldston in right of his wife, and was in 1641 the first of the annual sheriffs of Pembrokeshire. He was also Knight of that shire Perrot John 1592 Sir made a Knight of the Bath at the coronation of Edward VI, Queen Mary granted him Carew in 1554 he was President of Munster from 1570 to 1573, and Lord Deputy of Ireland from 1585 to 1588, that in 1579 he was appointed Admiral of a fleet raised for the defence of Ireland, that he was condemned for treason in 1592, and died in the Tower of London in that year.

There is an excellent sketch of him in the Dictionary of National Biography.

Perrot was twice married. His first wife, Ann Cheyney, came from Kent the only issue was a son, afterwards Sir Thomas, Perrot. The second wife, Jane Pollard, came from Devonshire her mother was a Prust a well-known name in Haverfordwest and her younger sister married Sir John Wogan of Boulston. The issue of this marriage was William, who died without issue in Dublin in 1597 Lettice, who married Rowland Laugharne of St. Bride's, which she brought to her other Husbands, Walter Vaughan, of Golden Grove, and Arthur Chichester, another Lord Deputy of Ireland and Ann, who married Sir John Phillips, the first baronet, of Picton.

Perrot Thomas 1583 Sir -Sir John Perrot's son,,

married in, under curious circumstances, Dorothy, daughter of Walter Devereux, Earl of Essex, who held Lamphey in this county, and through the influence of his brother-in-law, the Queen's favourite, had the estates, which had been forfeited on his father's condemnation, restored to him. Sir Thomas, lived at Haroldston in his father's life-time he was M.P. for the county in 1593, and mayor of Haverfordwest in 1586 and he and George Owen were the two deputy lieutenants for the county. He did not long survive his father, for his widow in 1594 married Henry, Earl of Northumberland.

There were two children of the marriage, a son who died young, and a daughter, Penelope, who married as her second Husband the famous Sir Robert Naunton, but left no issue. The vast Perrot estates, were resumed by the Crown on the death of Sir Thomas.

Perrot James 1571 Sir died at Haroldston without issue in 1636, by what title is not certain he never acquired it. He was buried in St Mary's Church. He sat in five Parliaments for Haverfordwest and in one for the county, and was a distinguished Parliamentary orator, and was also an author of no mean repute he was custos rotulorum of the county in 1603, and mayor of Haverfordwest in 1605, his name stands first in the roll of common council in King James ' charter to the town."

By his will, d 26th January 1636, he observed the ancient custom of a bequest to the Cathedral Church of St David's he left several legacies for the poor of the town, and devised Haroldston to

Perrot Herbert 1636 son and heir of Robert Perrot of Moreton, co. Hereford, charged with an annuity of £3 to John Jessop, "preacher of the word of God" at Pembroke. These Perrots had been settled at Moreton for about a century there is nothing to show that they were descended from the Pembrokeshire family, and when Herbert and his father assumed the Haroldston arms, proceedings were taken against them in the Herald's Court by Thomas, Perrot, a London Merchant , who claimed direct descent.

Perrot Herbert 1660 he was knighted at the Restoration lived partly at Haroldston, he was sheriff of the county in 1666, and M.P. for and mayor of Haverfordwest in 1677. He had three wives 1 Sibyl, daughter of David Lloyd of Kilkiffeth, and grand-daughter of the founder of the Haverfordwest Grammar School. By her he had a son Herbert, who was stabbed in a tavern brawl in Fleet Street, and was buried " in the Middle Temple Church in the Round within the City of London." 2 Hester, daughter of William Barlow of Slebech, by whom he had a daughter, Hester and 3 Susan, daughter of Francis Morris. Sir Herbert died in 1683. In his will he states that he had lately rebuilt the decayed church of St. Ismel at Haroldston, and he maintained the Perrot tradition of benefactions to Haverfordwest, and gave his lands in the counties of Hereford, Pembroke and Haverfordwest to his daughter Hester.

Perrot Hester 1683 married, as his second wife. Sir John Packington, the fourth baronet and the original of Addison's Sir Roger de Coverley.

Acc/to - South Pembrokeshire - M. Mirehouse, Jestyn ap Owain ap Hywel Dda decended from the King of South Wales, who died in 948 lived at Jestynton, which he called by his own name, and probably built he is called Prince Jestyn, and was King Hywel Dda's favourite grandson. King Hywel Dda acquired South Wales, or Dyfed, through his wife Elen, daughter of Llywarch ap Hwfaidd, King of Dyfed. Hwfaidd died in 892, Llywarch in 905.

When the Normans first overran Pembrokeshire under Arnulph de Montgomery in 1090, Narberth fell to the share of Sir Stephen Perrott, Knt., who built a castle there, but not the one whose ruins we now see Sir Stephen's Castle was razed to the ground by Grufudd ap Rhys in 1183.

About this time Sir Stephen, by his marriage with Eleanor, daughter and sole heiress of Merchion ap Rhys ap Rhydderch ap Jestyn of Jestynton, acquired a great increase to his Property, and appears to have gone to reside at Jestynton. His wife's name is given in some chronicles as Elen, in some as Eleanor probably in those days it was the same name. His son, Sir Andrew, rebuilt the castle of Narberth, whose ruins still remain his daughter Catherine married Caradog or Cradock of Newton the family later took the name of Newton and have connections with Angle and Llanstadwell.

The Perrotts continued to reside at Jestynton for several centuries, until their union with Haroldstone by Peter Perrott's marriage with Alice, heiress of Sir Richard Harold

Catherine, the daughter and heiress of John Perrot, the last of the line, brought Scotsborough by marriage to John ap Rhys, of Rickerston in Brawdy. This John Perrot was sheriff in 1551, the year before his great namesake, with whom he has been confused. In 1545 he brought an action against John Wogan of Wiston, who had the custody of his estate during his minority, for waste of his lands at Scotsborough, Knightston, Cornydown Cornish Down and Canaston." Among his other mis-deeds, Wogan had cut down two "avelanos called wall nuttrees". Thomas, Perrot, the second of the Scotsborough line, was one of the three commissioners appointed in 1405 to buy off Owen Glyndwr."

How long the Perrots had been settled at Caervoriog, and how they came by it, cannot be ascertained, they probably belonged to the Haroldston branch . Jenkyn Perrot, mentioned above, had three daughters 1 Jane, married the well-known Sir James ap Owen of Pentre Evan

2 Alice, married John Lloyd Vaughan of Tenby, whose only child Jane married John Perrot, the last of the Scotsborough line and 3 Ann, married Thomas, White.

Apparently Caervoriog went back to the Haroldston family, as it is mentioned among the possessions of the Lord Deputy.

Besides the main line, we find several individuals of the name, which must have been at one time pretty widely spread over the county.

although in the family traditions he was of minor importance, being a younger son, the whole future of the Picton Estate stems from him. He had no children from his marriage but after the death of his wife he was reputed to have adopted an illegitimate daughter by a woman named Maria Philippa Artemisia and gave the young girl the surname "Philipps".

Her real name was Mary Philippa Artemisia. Bulkeley Philipps he died in 1776 and after his death she married James Child of Begelly and she herself had a daughter whom she named Maria Artemisia. She died in 1786. Her daughter Maria Artemistia, married the son of the Vicar of Roch and Nolton, the Rev. John Grant, who succeeded his father in these livings. The father, the old Vicar, had been mad for some years.

This John Grant was said to have been the man who invented what was called the yard wheel for measuring distances and he was looked at askance in the Haverfordwest of that time running behind his peculiar wheel.

Their son was named Richard Bulkeley Philipps Grant. This boy's father, the Rev. John Grant, in addition to inventing the measuring wheel gained a great deal of notoriety because of his condemning those of his parishioners from Roch and Nolton who, whilst looting a wrecked ship containing a cargo of Gunpowder on Druidston Sands caused it to blow up, killing many and blinding others. He was said to have declared openly that it was an act of God punishing them for their wickedness.

Maria Artemisia, upon the death of her first husband, the Rev.

John Grant married as her second the Rev. Alexander

Gwyther, the Vicar of Yardley in Worcestershire. By him she had a second son who later became the Rev. James Henry

Alexander Gwyther, Vicar of St Mary's Church

Haverfordwest.

Richard Burkley Philipps Grant and his half brother, the Rev.

James Henry Alexander Gwyther, in turn, inherited the vast Picton castle estates, both changing their surnames to "Philipps

", thus causing those of closer relationship to become disinherited.

Philipps Ethel Philippa 10 September 1916 the eldest daughter of Sir Charles and Lady Philipps of Picton Castle. Husband Harry Hickman Bromfield, DSO, Major, Welsh, Guards.

Harry was the son of Henry and Mary Elizabeth Bromfield. He had served in the South African War as Captain in the South Wales Borderers, and had gained the Distinguished Service Order in South Africa for his gallant leadership. He Volunteered to serve with the newly formed Welsh, Guards in 1915, joining the battalion at Esher. The 1st Battalion, Welsh, Guards was attached to 3rd Guards Brigade, Guards Division, which had been formed in France in August 1915. The various Guards units that had been with other Divisions were withdrawn to be brought together to create this fine formation. It remained on the Western Front throughout the war and saw its first major action during the Battle of Loos on 25 September, 1915, remaining in the area during the coming months, where they also fought in the subsequent Action of Hohenzollern Redoubt. In July, 1916 the Division moved to the Somme, and Harry joined it here, when he took command of Prince of Wales Company from Viscount Clive, who had been promoted. On 14 August the battalion was relieved by the 2nd Battalion Scots Guards, and went into a variety of rest-huts, ruins, and trenches round Colincamps. The Guards then moved back into the line, taking over from 48 Brigade a line along the outskirts of the Wood at the end of Ginchy. The situation at the time was a mess. The Welsh Guards were facing the wrong way, as they did not know what had happened during the previous attack, and in the ensuing fighting, Harry was killed while leading his men gallantly on 10 September 1916. He was 47 years old, and is commemorated on the Thiepval Memorial, France.

Master Thomas, Picton, last rector of the same, to which he is presented to the bishop by the most excellent etc. , Henry etc., King of England, as pertaining to his gift by reason of the temporalities of the alien priory of Pembroke being in his hand on account of the war between himself and his adversary of France, and instituted him etc. And he took the oath etc., And it was written to Sir Waleys, vicar of the said church etc., And he had Letters etc.

Picton Thomas August 1758-1815 Lieutenant-General Sir, G.C.B

Originally I envisage this as a short essay taking me a very short time as I already had information from Pembrokeshire authors especially those writing on Haverfordwest but I was wrong again I have incorporated it in its entirety.

The picture that I always had of Thomas, Picton was that of a smartly dressed military gentleman as portrayed in the picture by Snee and in the History of Haverfordwest by Brown but then when looking up the portrait of Sir Thomas, I came across Faces of Wales on the National Museums of Wales Web site where, in the information attached to the portrait I found “Sir Thomas, Picton was born in Poyston, Pembrokeshire and joined the army in 1771. A life-long soldier, he saw action in the American War of Independence, served in the West Indies and became a somewhat controversial Governor of Trinidad. He was described as a 'rough foul-mouthed devil' by Wellington who also conceded that he 'always behaved extremely well no man could do better in the difficult services I assigned him'”
A very different picture and is it accurate as I cannot find any evidence that he actually saw action in the American War of Independence?.

Brown in his History of Haverfordwest late in the 19th century gives the picture I have always accepted. "He states that what is now the "Dragon Hotel" in Hill Street was then the town house of the Langharne family of Orlandon and that General Picton's mother was staying there as a member of a house party. It is further added that a dance took place in which the good lady took part, whereupon she was suddenly taken ill and the future great soldier and national hero was born. In later years he resided at Poyston near the town which had for generations been the home of the Pictons, and went out into the hayfield to bid the haymakers farewell before he left for Waterloo". To me the picture of a country squire and soldier telling his workers that he was going to do his duty. There is no mention in Brown's book of other events which shed a different light on the man. But he was not living at Poyston when he left for Waterloo.

There seems always to have been doubt about where he was born.

I always understood the Haverfordwest was his birth place going by various histories of the town that I have read, and this is confirmed by the entry in A Topographical Dictionary of Wales 1839 by Lewis which states, under Rudbaxton, "Lieutenant-General Sir Thomas, Picton, G.C.B., Knight Grand Cross of the Most Honorable Order of the Bath who fell in the battle of Waterloo, is generally supposed to have been a native of the parish, but, really, was born at Haverfordwest the family mansion, Poyston, being in course of erection at the time."

However the Faces of Wales Web Site and other recent articles

all suggest Poyston as his birth place. A biography of Sir Thomas, entitled Memoirs of Lieutenant General Sir Thomas, Picton GCB including his Correspondence from the originals in the possession of his Family by H B Robinson publishes in 1835 uses information and documents provided by Sir Thomas's brother, the Rev Edward Picton of Iscoed near Ferryside Carmarthenshire and states that “Thomas, Picton was born in the month of August 1758, at the residence of his father Thomas, Picton Esq. of Poyston in the county of Pembroke. Thomas, was a younger brother”

As Brown's account is second hand told him by Mr. Win. John, J. P., Merchant of Quay Street, and an old inhabitant. I am forced to accept that of Rev Edward Picton. There is though the problem that Brown states his father was John Picton Esq. of Poyston Sir Thomas, Picton G.C.B. was the second son of John Picton Esq. of Poyston while H B Robinson presumably quoting Rev Edward Picton says the father was Thomas, Picton Esq. Someone once said – It is a wise man who knows his own father.

As part of his education before entering the army, which was his ambition, he went to a military academy run by a Frenchman and at the age of 13 in December 1771 he became an ensign in the 12th Regiment of Foot commanded by his uncle Lieutenant Colonel William Picton. The of his first Commission appears as 22nd January 1772 and his name appeared in the Gazette as appointed Ensign to the 12th Regiment of Foot in February 1772.

The Regiment was on garrison duties at Gibraltar when Ensign Picton left the military academy and joined it two years after being commissioned. While there he made many trips into Spain learning the language. Another pastime of his was studying the various fortifications of Gibraltar. In March 1777 was promoted to Lieutenant in the 12th Foot and in January 1778 the influence of his uncle enabled him to obtain a transfer to the Seventy Fifth of Prince of Wales Regiment of Foot where he was gazetted Captain and had to leave Gibraltar to serve in England.

He spent the next five years on garrison duty in England until the Regiment was disbanded at Bristol in 1783 after the American War of Independence. As the senior officer present he had to read, the notice out. The men were assembled in College Green Square when he read, out the instructions he had received. At first there was only a little discontent displayed but then the men refused to surrender their arms or obey the orders of their Officers. There were several other Regiments and the town authorities were very worried that this discontent and mutiny would spread, . Officers of the 75th were threatened with violence but then Captain Picton drew his sword and pushed into the centre of the mutinous men and caught hold of the ringleader dragging him out to where some non commissioned Officers could put him under arrest. The rest of the men were persuaded to disperse “by the torrent of Billingsgate language” used by Captain Picton. A report of the matter was made to the War Office and to the King who commended him for “the courage and true military spirit he displayed in quelling the mutiny in the Seventy Fifth Regiment” Field Marshall Conway also promised him the first vacant majority but this was not to be which angered him.

Captain Picton was on the half pay list of Captains for twelve years and spent that time at the family home of Poyston according to his brother, the Rev Edward Picton in “the enjoyment of the sports of the Field, in studying the classics, but more particularly in perfecting himself in the art of war”

Memoirs of Lieutenant General Sir Thomas, Picton GCB

In February 1793 came the start of the Napoleonic war, Captain Picton repeatedly wrote to the War Office hoping for an appointment but always received the same polite replies and assurances. According to his brother he soon became convinced “that interest and nothing but interest, would obtain for him his wishes. Of this he had not much”. He had no friends at Court who could procure a post for him and he became a little bitter.

After trying to no avail for a year to get an appointment towards the end of 1794 he sailed for the West Indies. although he had no appointment but he did know Sir John Vaughan the Commander in Chief slightly. Sir John’s family lived at Trawsgoed Crosswood Cardigan. The eldest son was Wilmot Vaughan earl of Lisburne created 1776. The second son was Lieutenant General Sir John Vaughan 1748-95 KB. He had served previously in Germany, America and then in the West Indies as commander-in-chief. Sir John made him his aide-de-camp and gave him a captaincy in the 17th foot Sir John was pleased with the way that Captain Picton carried out his duties and promoted him to a majority with the Sixty Eighth regiment as well as appointing him deputy quarter master general which entitled him to the brevet rank of Lieutenant Colonel. It is to be remembered that promotion was quick in the West Indies as so many military personnel died of fevers. According to Geggus, Slavery, War and Revolution 1982 more than 45,000 British Soldiers died in the Caribbean during the 1790’s mainly from disease. Shortly after in 1795 Sir John became sick and in August died on Martinique. Major Picton carried on as deputy quarter master general until replaced by General Knox and he then considered returning to England. While he was making arrangements he was ordered by General Leigh who was the senior officer in the area to assist with arrangements to welcome Sir Ralph Abercrombie who had been appointed to replace Sir John Vaughan. Sir Ralph although he did not know Major Picton did know his uncle who had served under him and who requested Major Picton to serve under him as Volunteer aid-de-camp at the attack and capture of St Lucia. At the conclusion of the capture Sir Ralph Abercrombie issued a public order which stated "All orders coming through Lieutenant-Colonel Picton shall be considered as the orders of the commander-in-chief", and he was appointed

Lieutenant-Colonel of the 56th Regiment. On the 7th June he was in the force that accompanied Sir Ralph to attack St Vincent which capitulated after a short period of resistance. Colonel Picton then accompanied Sir Ralph to Martinique from where they sailed to England in the Arethusa. After a two months stay in England, Sir Ralph accompanied by Colonel Picton returned to the West Indies arriving at Martinique in January 1797.

Shortly after their return an attack on Trinidad was organised. The Spanish were expecting an attack and besides the fortifications had reinforced the island with four ships of the line and several frigates which were moored in the harbour under the defence batteries. During the night of the 16/17th of February there was a fire on one of the Spanish ships which quickly spread, destroying them all except for on ship of the line which was captured by the British boats. The following day after the British troops had landed and marched into Puerto de Espagna the island was surrendered to the British forces. Almost Sir Ralph's first action was to appoint Colonel Picton governor and Commandant of the island. Sir Ralph sailed on 25th February leaving Colonel Picton in command with a small garrison and instructions regarding Justice on the island for him and John Nicholls who he appointed chief judge and auditor. According to the instructions the Spanish laws that had previously been used in the island were still to be used.

To Colonel Picton he gave some additional instructions.

“I have placed you in a trying and delicate situation,- nor, to give you a chance to overcome the difficulties opposed to you can I leave you a strong garrison but I shall give you ample powers execute Spanish law as well as you can do justice according to your conscience, and that is all that can be expected from you. His Majesty’s government will be minutely informed of your situation, and no doubt, will make all due allowances”

Picton was left with what he considered a totally inadequate garrison 300 men of the Fifty Seventh Regiment, about 100 of Hompesch’s detachment. These were all foreigners and Picton had little confidence in them, twenty Artillery men and a hundred of locally recruited French negro’s.

There was within days a problem with Hompesch’s detachment and about ten deserted but the offer of a reward of sixteen dollars for their apprehension of death resulted in the capture of five and another one who had suffered the consequence of his actions. In the British army desertion in time of war was always right up until WW1 punishable by death. Picton had been authorised by Sir Ralph to execute the most extreme civil and military punishments without reference to any tribunal.

This was not unusual as looters and deserters when caught in the Peninsular War were hanged from the nearest beam or tree. The other five were sent to Sir Ralph.

The island was under constant threat of attack and a French schooner with some small boats was attacking the shipping. It was impossible to maintain garrisons at vulnerable points and use the troops for policing as well so Picton formed a militia of local inhabitants to assist with policing and defence. Within just over one month of his appointment he was able to write to Sir Ralph on April 4th to say that “A very exact police has been established in the town and is gradually extending itself over the whole island. We are getting through the press of undecided processes as fast as we can. The colony is everywhere quiet, and the inhabitants pay prompt obedience to the orders of government”.

In November there was an attempt by the coloured inhabitants of Trinidad to bring about a Revolution. Many of them were French. They were to be reinforced by refugees who had collected arms and ammunition on a near island and sailed to join their friends. Colonel Picton sent a force against them and their arms, stores and homes were destroyed. The leaders on Trinidad were arrested and according to Colonel Picton “by the immediate execution of one of the principles and the imprisonment of several others the remainder were overawed and led to see the futility of their designs”

According to “Brutality of Picton past examined BBC News 20th March 2007” He then introduced new very harsh slave laws which increased the number of lashes of the whip a slave could be given from twenty five to thirty nine, they would also receive twenty five lashes for Breaking the nine o’clock curfew and they were no long allowed to have Saturday off. Any owner who allowed this would be punished also. For minor criminal offences the first time they would slit the slave’s nose and the second cut the ears off. Torture, beheadings and hangings were common the program records. Picton himself had invested in both slaves and land to the extent of between £80,000 and £100000 Maitland Papers

There was no doubt however of the Government approval. In March 1798 he received a letter from the Right Hon. H Dundas saying "his Majesty had been graciously pleased in consideration of the extraordinary expense attending the civil and military command of the island, to order that an allowance of one thousandtwo hundred pounds per annum should be made to the commandant with authority to charge that sum against the revenues of the island"

Admiral Harvey commanding the West Indies fleet sent some small vessels at the beginning of 1799 to destroy the batteries and vessels which were harassing the trade from Trinidad to the annoyance of the Governors of the nearby Spanish colonies. They put a price on Picton's head of 20,000 dollars. Colonel Pictons reply was to invite them to come and try to take his head.

In 1801 June 29th Colonel Picton received another letter from Lord Hobarth announcing his Majesty's confirmation of the Governorship of Trinidad. It also stated "The ability and zeal which you have shown in administering the affairs of the island of Trinidad and the honourable testimony borne to your conduct by the Commander in chief of his Majesty's forces in the Leeward and Windward Charibee Islands on every occasion have induced his Majesty to appoint you to the civil government of that island and I have the satisfaction of enclosing herewith your commission and the instructions under his Majesty's sign manual for your guidance in executing the duties of that office". He was at the same time notified that the Courts of Judicature which existed before the capitulation should be continued in the exercise of all the judicial powers belonging to them in criminal and civil cases, and that he was vested with all such judicial powers as belonged to his predecessors, and should exercise them in like manner as they were exercised previously. His predecessors were Spanish using Spanish laws

Later that year, on October 22nd 1801 Colonel Picton's promotion to Brigadier General was promulgated in the Gazette.

Shortly after there was a change of government in England.

William Pitt resigned and was succeeded by Henry Addington, who made peace with Napoleonic France. War was soon resumed however. This government was not favorable to the previous government's policy of colonial administration. A letter was sent to General Picton d July 9th 1802 stating that His Majesty has thought it expedient to place the government of the island in Commission judging that, from the union of civil, military, and naval talents combined in the persons selected for this service, advantages must arise which cannot be expected from the labours of any one individual. The experience of your conduct from the time the island was first placed under your charge has induced his majesty to select you as one of the persons to whom this important trust shall be confided". Then follows the list of Commissioners in order of authority.

1 William Fullarton Esq. Colonel in the Indian army

2 Samuel Hood, Captain in His Majesty's navy

3 Thomas, Picton, Brigadier General.

This meant that although Brigadier General Picton who was a career soldier was senior in rank to Colonel Fullarton he had to take orders from him. As well Colonel Fullerton had only be awarded the rank because he had raised a regiment to fight in the American War of Independence and then in India.

Fullerton who had studied at Edinburgh University had been a junior diplomat. He came from a wealthy land owning family and was a Whig Member of Parliament and as such had the ears of many in the newly formed Government especially Lord Hobart the new Secretary of State for the Colonies who agreed with the views that Fullerton had expressed in his pamphlet arguing against the East India Company's policy with regard to the native people and princes of "Let them hate so long as they fear" The policy adopted by my Flt Sgt at Square Bashing Bridgenorth 1957 At this time reports from Trinidad had led to humanitarians in England and disgruntled Merchants on Trinidad of the authoritarian governorship of Picton seeking his removal. Colonel Fullerton procured the appointment of a commission to govern the island of which he would be senior member to prove the theories he had set out in his pamphlet. Fullerton came to Trinidad to find that Picton's policies were totally at variance with his views. Picton of course had no "friends at Court" and was just the second son of a country squire. In Trinidad Picton, according to P. F.

McCallum's Travels in Trinidad after consorting with several native women, had formed a relationship with Rosette Smith a young married lady of 21 whom he installed in his quarters as his mistress. She was awarded the fuel contract for the British forces on the island which gave her a good income. Thomas, Smith a British Merchant on Trinidad wrote to Lord Hobart complaining about her influence on Justice in the island.

Hobart Papers, D/MH M93, Smith to Lord Hobart, Trinidad, September 1, 1802.

It was not unusual as the Church Baptismal records for the Port of Spain show for British Officers and officials to form a relationship with native women but this was something that met with Mrs Fullerton's total disapproval.

Colonel Fullerton wrote in a letter to Mr Sullivan that "I was received by General Picton with great politeness and with all the attention which Lord Hobart had been pleased to direct” but this cordiality did not last long as on the 12th February prior to the arrival of Captain Hood, Colonel Fullerton demanded in council that “ There be produced certified statements of all the criminal proceedings which have taken place since the commencement of the late government together with a list , specifying every individual of whatever country , colour or condition who had been imprisoned , banished, fettered flogged , burned or otherwise punished also specifying the s of their respective commitments , trail sentence , period of confinement, punishments, and of all thosewho had died in prison” and on his first visit to the prison at Port of Spain, the executioner presented Fullerton with his bill of accounts, listing all punishments carried out at St. Joseph PRO, CO 295/5.

This was a direct slur on the administration of Governor Picton and 22nd February 2003 on the arrival of Captain Hood he resigned. Within six months of the arrival of Colonel Fullerton on Trinidad he had laid charges with the Privy Council against General Picton for instituting a reign of terror using the list obtained from the jailer as evidence. Shortly after Captain Sir Samuel also resigned and in his letter to Earl Camden, Secretary of State for the Colonial Department he accuses Mr Fullerton of making false statements, using his wife to collect evidence and to try get Captain Hood to support her Husband. He concludes by writing “I this in saying, the upright and just measures adopted by the late governor saved the island and I rest assured his character cannot be spoken of too highly, or traduced by the artful measures of an old intriguing politician”. Shortly after the Commissioner Government system advocated by Fullerton was found to be totally incompetent to carry out the administration of the island and Lieutenant General Hislop was appointed as Lieutenant Governor on the recall of the Commissioners.

According to the Chronological History of the West Indies by Southey written soon after the events Brigadier General Picton was presented with a sword by the people of Trinidad on his resigning as their governor and leaving the island on the 23rd April 1803. Picton went to Barbados where General Grinfield enlisted his help in retaking the islands of St Lucia and Tobago. When Colonel Fullerton found out he was very critical of General Grinfield and accused him of only employing Brigadier General Picton as he was a good friend of Commander Sir Samuel Hood. On June 21st the attack on St Lucia took place with General Grinfield and Commander Hood in command. Brigadier General Picton commanded the Sixty eighth regiment which was in reserve. The Island was recaptured the next day. The 30th June the attack on Tobago was launched with Brigadier general Picton heading the advance column which advanced as soon as landed. General Berthier commanding the French garrison quickly surrendered. According to the dispatch of General Grinfield “the French garrison marched out with the honours of war laying down their arms after passing the guard of honour under the command of Brigadier general Picton. The general orders state “The advance march of the first column consisting of two companies of the Sixty-fourth regiment and five companies of the Third West India regiment under Brigadier general Picton which was in all probability the cause of the speedy surrender is entitled to military commendation”. General Grinfield then appointed Brigadier General Picton as commandant of the island of Tobago but shortly afterwards Picton had to leave for England as he had been informed That Fullerton and his supporters had already arrived there and laid thirty six criminal charges against him.

In October Picton arrived in London to find that Fullerton was conducting a pamphlet campaign against him detailing the charges and enlisting his Whig supporters and the general public to force the Government to hold an inquiry into the allegations.

In December 1803 he was arrested by order of the Privy Council and promptly released on bail set at £40,000 Picton much to Fullerton's surprise was able to give surety for half of this two West Indies plantation owners covered the remainder. Fullerton had hoped to see him confined in Newgate prison. although Privy Council's hearings were held in secret Fullerton ensured that the majority of the documents and information presented at WhiteHall found their way into print

The charges were considered by the Privy Council and although Fullerton had submitted charges of excessive cruelty, and executions, to Fullerton's dismay only one was considered for future proceedings. The Privy Council had taken into consideration Picton's argument that either the laws of Trinidad - then still the laws of the former Spanish colonial power - or 'the state of the garrison' justified the immediate execution in the cases specified. Fullerton was desperate to enforce the views he had expressed in his pamphlet on the treatment of the native population and determined to ruin Picton who he considered had thwarted his plans for the Commission to govern Trinidad.

The one case to be considered at a trial at the King's Bench was a misdemeanour of having signed the order for the torture of Luisa Calderon a young free mulatto who was alleged to have assisted one of her lovers to steal from the house of the man she was living with. Picton was charged under 42 G III, c.

58, the Criminal Justice Act, providing that any person in His Majesty's service abroad who commits an offense in exercise of his official duties may be tried in England. There was a considerable delay before this trial as information had to be obtained from Trinidad which was applied for in a mandamus in 1804 returnable at 1805 and the trial did not take place till 24th February 1806. The original warrant was based on the oaths and depositions of Luise Calderon, Raphael Shando, Pedro Vargas and Juan Montes brought to England by Fullerton, but when the mandamus arrived back suggested their depositions were not to be relied upon “Luise Calderon lived with a man to whom she was inconstant and whom she ultimately became an accomplice in robbing.

Raphael Shando once convicted of stealing and sent to the galleys, “and not to be believed on his oath”

Pedro Vargas swore he was a Spanish lawyer, and was accordingly brought forward to explain the Spanish laws at the trial but his evidence was so full of prevarications and falsehood that the judge was upon the point of committing him for wilful and corrupt perjury.

Juan Montes, a deserter from the Havannah and generally believed in Trinidad to be a spy to the Spanish government”

Meanwhile in 1804 The Whig government of Henry

Addington who had advocated peace with Napoleon was replace by William Pitt and Fullerton lost much of his power base.

But Fullerton was not satisfied. He laid a criminal indictment against General Picton “For the application of torture to extort confession from Luise Calderon, a girl under fourteen years of age, respecting a robbery supposed to have been committed by Carlos Gonzales against Pedro Ruiz, stated to have been frequently employed as an agent by General Picton which accusation he repeated in his pamphlet William Fullerton, A Refutation of the Pamphlet which Colonel Picton lately Addressed to Lord Hobart London, 1805, Eventually the trial was held in the court of the King's Bench on the 24th of February 1806 when Picton was charged with with "inflicting torture, in order to extort confession of Luise Calderon, one of his Majesty's subjects in the island of Trinidad, in the West Indies. According to the prosecution statement "In December, 1801, when this crime was perpetrated, Louisa Calderon was of the tender age of ten or eleven years. At that early period she had been induced to live with a person of the name of Pedro Ruiz, as his mistress" "While she lived with Ruiz she was engaged in an intrigue with Carlos Gonzalez, the pretended friend of the former, who robbed him of a quantity of dollars. Gonzalez was apprehended, and she also, as some suspicion fell upon her in consequence of the affair. She was taken before the justice she denied having any concern in the business. The magistrate felt that his powers were at an end this officer of justice resorted to General Picton and I have to produce, in the handwriting of the defendant,

"Appliquez la question A Luise Calderon

T H Picton"

In English

Apply the Question to Luise Calderon

The method of Questioning used was one described as "piqueting" used in the British army as a punishment in which the prisoner was suspended by one elbow from a beam and the other arm and opposite ankle secured together behind the prisoners back. The other foot was allowed to rest on wooden stake "with its end cut to a round and blunt point."

This questioning lasted the first time for just over fifty minutes and Luise Calderon confessed but she did not reveal what had happened to the money her lover accomplice had taken so she was questioned using the same method the next day for twenty four minutes. Under English law at the time she would have been hanged but she was just held in prison for eighteen months and then, just before Fullerton arrived, released.

Influence on the jury was made by the display of the water colour drawing of the young half naked girl being suspended and questioned. There was also the question as to whether Governor Picton was acting under English Law or Spanish Law but the Court believed after assurances by Pedro Vargas the alleged Spanish Lawyer provided as a witness to the Court by Fullerton that torture was not allowed in Spain. General Picton was found Guilty but immediately appealed on the grounds that he was acting under Spanish Law and Spanish Law did allow torture.

“The question of torment is to be applied for confirmation and proof, there not being sufficient” Curia Philipica

“And in the same crimes for which the torment is applied to the delinquent, in case an evidence is of low vile character and bad morals is admitted the delinquent is to testify under torment otherwise the evidence is of no validity” Law de Partida

Also torture of slaves was permitted in most of the British West Indies, as indeed was their summary execution for a number of reasons- for example having attempted to resist arrest and stealing.

The case was retried in the King’s Bench and it found torture to be legal in Trinidad at the cession of the island to Britain, and Picton not to have been influenced by malice against Calderon "independent of the illegality of the act" as based on British law.

Fullerton was dismayed at the verdict as the crusade he had waged was defeated. He died in 1808.

General Picton meanwhile had been presented to the King at Court by Lord Castlereagh, Secretary of State for the War and Colonial Department The Times May 29th 1807

In the Gazette of the 25th of April 1808 the announcement was made of his promotion to Major General. He was appointed to the staff of John Pitt Lord Chatham the Commander in Chief of the Walcheren expedition in July 1809 and after the capture of Flushing on August 15th was appointed Governor of the town. Unfortunately this expedition was a failure as the British Forces began to catch malaria as much of the low-lying land was fever ridden. Twenty percent of the army was suffering within one month. Nearly 4000 died of the disease and many others were still seriously ill a year later. The expedition was called off in September but some forces stayed on till December. Major General Picton though had caught malaria and was returned to England by ship with other patients. Eventually he spent some time at Cheltenham and then Bath to recover.

He was still recovering when in early 1810 he was ordered to join Lord Wellington's staff in Portugal. The headquarters of Wellington's army was at Viseu and General Picton was immediately appointed to command the Third Division which consisted of the 1st Battalion of the 45th Regiment 74 Regiment 1st Battalion of the 88th Regiment 5th Regiment 2nd Battalion of the 58th Regiment 83rd Regiment and the 1st Company of the 5th Battalion of the 60th Regiment. They were quartered around Celereco. He was for the remainder of the Peninsular War one of Wellington's principle Generals although according to the 1911 Edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica he was never to have the "confidence that he gave to Beresford Hill and Craufurd" His division was near to Craufurd's division when they became involved in action at Coa on July 24th 1810 but Picton refused to support Craufurd as Wellington had specifically ordered they were to avoid an engagement saying "not desirous of engaging in an affair beyond the Coa." Craufurd had been surprised by a far superior force under Marshall Ney but instead of following the orders of Wellington and retreat across the river Craufurd engaged and was fortunate to narrowly avoid disaster. At Busaco shortly after on the 27th September Picton's division was one of those drawn up on the ridge when the French attacked. Picton used the ridge top road to move his men and when the French reached the ridge they were met with the concentrated fire of the 88th and 45th Foot with two Portuguese Battalions in a concave line. The French were not able to form up into line because of the intensity of the fire and fled Picton then moved some of his men along the ridge to help repel an attack by General Foy. Again the French were driven off the ridge.

Wellington then withdrew his forces for the winter to the lines at Torres Vedras.

Between the 3rd and 5th of May 1811 the French tried to relieve the siege on Almeida. Wellington decided to stop the French advance at a little town Fuenterrabia. The first attack on the town by the French was beaten off but then the French General Drouot launched a second attack and forced the British to fall back until the French had seized almost the whole town.

Wellington ordered units from the 1st and Picton's 3rd Division with the Portuguese 6th to drive the French out of the town, which they did.

Picton was appointed to the local rank of Lieutenant General in September and the 3rd Division won great glory by its rapid and orderly retirement under severe pressure from the French cavalry at El Bodon

In October Picton was appointed to the colonelcy of the 77th Regiment but that month also he heard of the death of his Uncle of whom he was very fond at the age of 84 and from the reply he wrote to his brother it was evident he was very distressed.

With the new year came the storming of the breaches of Ciudad Rodrigo. The British attack opened on January 8th with the taking of the Greater Teson and on January 16th the Lesser Teson. Then on the night of the 19th Lieutenant General Picton, 3rd Division attacked the larger of the breaches losing men to the two cannon which the defenders had mounted in the breach but finally overcoming the defense while Major General Craufurd's Light Division attacked the smaller breach. In this attack Major General Craufurd and Major General Mackinnon were killed. Major General Mackinnon when a mine exploded in the larger breach. He was initially buried in that breach but his body was later moved.

The next major action was in March 16th 1812 when Wellington started siege operations against Badajoz which was heavily defended. It was not until April that breaches had been made in the walls which gave hope of a successful attack although there were strong defenses behind them which would still have to be overcome. Two divisions assaulted these breaches on April 6th while Picton's 3rd Division attacked the castle and part of the undamaged wall by escalade. This attack was not really expected to have any hope of success but would divert part of the garrison from the real points of attack. The attacks on the breaches were repeated for over five hours unsuccessfully but the Picton's 3rd Division had successfully captured the Castle and the part of the undamaged wall the ladders against which Picton, who had been wounded in the groin, was encouraging more men to use to get into the town. In a debate in the House of Lords on the 27th April 1812 Lord Liverpool said "The conduct of General Picton has inspired a confidence in the army, and exhibited an example of science and bravery, which has been surpassed by no other officer. His exertions in the attack on the 6th cannot fail to excite the most lively feelings of admiration."

Meanwhile Picton was ill with a severe fever as well as problems with the injury he had received at Badajoz. At one time it was thought he would die. Command of the 3rd Division was transferred to General Pakenham. On the advice of the doctors Picton returned to England and to convalesce at Cheltenham and then he visited Wales.

In 1813 Picton was determined to return to rejoin his old command but before he could leave England his Royal Highness the Prince Regent created him a Knight of the Bath and he was invested at Carlton House on 1st Feb 1813. He returned to the Peninsular War in April 1813.

Soon after his return Picton who had previously held only the local acting rank of Lieutenant-General was on the 4th of June promoted to the substantive rank of Lieutenant – General.

At the Battle of Vitoria on the 21st June, Wellington attacked in 4 columns and after a hard fight General Picton's 3rd Division were able to cross to the south side of the river breaking the French centre. According to Picton his force was pounded by 40 to 50 French cannon but they held.

Hansard records

Thanks of the House to Sir Thomas, Picton.

HC Deb 11 November 1813 vol 27 cc81-381 Lieutenant General Sir Thomas Picton

Knight of the most honourable order of the Bath, being come to the House, Mr. Speaker acquainted him with the Resolutions of the House of the 7th of July last, and of the 8th instant, respecting his services in the battle of Vittoria, and in the subsequent operations of the allied armies in Spain and Mr. Speaker gave him the Thanks of the House accordingly, as followeth

"Lieutenant-general Sir Thomas, Picton

"In this House your name has been long since enrolled amongst these who have obtained the gratitude of their country for distinguished military services and we, this day, rejoice to see you amongst us, claiming again the tribute of our thanks for fresh exploits and achievements.

"Wherever the history of the peninsular war shall be related, your name will be found amongst the foremost in that race of glory by your sword the British troops were led on to the victorious assault of Ciudad Rodrigo by your daring hand the British standard was planted upon the castle of Badajoz, when the usurper of the Spanish throne who driven to make his last stand at Vittoria, your battalions met the centre of that formidable line, before which the veteran troops of France fled in terror and dismay and by your skill, prudence, and valour, exerted in a critical hour, the enemy was foiled in his desperate attempt to break through the barrier of the Pyrenees and raise the blockade of Pampluna.

"For the deeds of Vittoria and the Pyrenees, this double harvest of glory in one year, the House of Commons has resolved again to give you the tribute of its thanks and I do therefore now, in the name and by the command of the Commons of the united kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland in parliament assembled, deliver to you their unanimous thanks for your great exertions upon the 21st of June last near Vittoria, when the French army was completely defeated by the allied forces under the marquis of Wellington's command

"And also, for the valour, steadiness, and exertion, so successfully displayed by you in repelling the repeated attacks made on the position of the allied army by the whole French forces under the command of Marshal Soult between the 25th July and 1st of August last."

In early 1814 he declined the command of the British forces on the side of Catalonia but served with Wellington till the final victory over France.

At the end of the Peninsular War the 3rd Division was broke up and many of the Regiments sent to America. The officers of the Division with the exception of those of one Regiment gave General Picton a valuable service of plate.

For his services the House of Commons gave him their grateful thanks for the seventh time. Many Generals were raised to the peerage but General Picton was not among them. There was a suspicion that it was the court case that had come to haunt him. General Picton then retired to his estates at Iscoed near Ferryside in Carmarthenshire and spent his time attending to his estate and devising plans for the improvement of the surrounding area. His health was not good but although he did not pledge allegiance to any political party, was very active in carrying out his parliamentary duties to the benefit of his constituents and country.

Early in 1815 he was elevated to Knight Grand Cross of the Order of the Bath but despite his long service for the realm this was the last honour which was conferred upon him or his family

He was not allowed to spend much time at home as Napoleon returned from exile in Elba

My dear Tyler his aide de camp

You must get ready as soon as you can and you will be so good as to communicate to Captains Chambers and Price that I have received orders for Flanders.

Look out for some active horses, not above fifteen hands but do not purchase without the opinion of Mr Price who I dare say will give you all the assistance in his power. I shall bring up the old horse and the mare, and there is one in London. Three others will be about my mark. I shall be in town during the course of the next week.

Yours faithfully

Th. Picton

Carmarthen 26th May 1815

Captain Tyler, 93rd Regiment

Davies Street, Berkeley Street, London

On June 11th he and Captain Tyler left London and that evening dined at the Fountain Tavern in Canterbury. The dinner was given to them as a mark of respect by some of the people of the town.

They sailed from Dover the next day and arrived at Ostend on the 13th and Brussels on the 15th. General Picton was immediately appointed to command the reserve consisting of ten thousand men but it was understood that his particular command was the Fifth Division consisting of the 8th Brigade, 9th Brigade, and the Hanoverian 5th Brigade a total of 6,815 men.

On the 16th General Picton and the 5th Division left Brussels for Quatre Bras and General Picton when he heard of the sound of the guns at Quatre Bras pushed his Division forward and were the first to arrive to reinforce the Prince of Orange. As soon as the Fifth Division and the Brunswickers had taken up position they were attacked from French artillery and the French infantry who were met with a rolling fire from Picton's Division. The French infantry were beaten off but then the French cavalry charged and the division formed squares and beat the cavalry off. Picton then ordered a charge leading it himself and drove the French from their positions.

Wellington then appointed Picton to command all the British Forces at Quatre Bras while he liaised with Blucher

On the 17th Wellington ordered the whole of his forces to assemble at Waterloo where he felt the major battle would be. That night the forces were in position but were ordered to "sleep on their arms" as an attack was anticipated at any time.

"A man of no great prepossessing appearance came rambling amongst our guns, and entered into conversation with me on the occurrences of the day. He was dressed in a shabby, old, drab greatcoat and a rusty round hat. I took him at the time for some amateur from Brussels of whom we had heard there were several hovering about, and thinking many of his questions rather impertinent, was somewhat short in answering him, and he soon left us. How great was my astonishment on learning soon after that this was Sir Thomas, Picton!" Captain Mercer the eve of Waterloo

The morning of the 18th dawned wet but cleared later General Picton with his Division was positioned on the road to Wavre behind a broken hedge from the farm of La Haye Sainte to Ter la Haye.

The French forces mounted a major attack against this position and the British artillery put down a very destructive fire but still the columns of French advanced until they got close to the hedge. Picton ordered Sir James Kempt's brigade forward and then General Pack's brigade to advance as well. Picton himself led them forward

According to Wellington's despatch "This was one of the most serious attacks made by the enemy on our position"

General Picton was waving his men on when a musket ball struck on the temple and he fell back dead.

After the victory General Picton's body was removed from the field and then it was found that his old coat was torn on one side. It then became apparent that he had been wounded at Quatre Bras on the 16th when a musket ball had struck him and broken two of his ribs with other resulting injuries

The following brief report of General Picton's death was made by General Gascoyne to the House of Commons on the night of the 29th June-

"In the battle of Quatre Bras previous to the great Victory of the 18th, he had been dangerously wounded. From the moment he had left this country until he joined the army he had never entered any bed – he had scarcely given himself time to take any refreshment so eager was he in the performance of his duty. After the severe wound which he had received he would have been justified in not engaging in the action of the 18th. His body was not only blackened by it, but even swelled to a considerable degree those who had seen it wondered that he should have been able to take part in the duties of the field. He had afterwards fallen gloriously at the head of his division, maintaining a position which, if it had not been kept, would have altered the fate of the day, and its issue might have been different from that which now occasioned such well- found rejoicing”

His body was brought home to London and buried on the 3rd of July in the family grave at St George's, Church

FINALLY

To H.R. Robinson, Esq.

London August 28th 1835

Dear Sir

I have received your letter and have the greatest satisfaction in giving you the assurance that not only I was not on bad terms with the late Sir Thomas, Picton, but that in the whole course of the period during which I was in relation with him I do not recollect even a difference of opinion, much less anything of the nature of a quarrel.

My first acquaintance with Sir Thomas, Picton was when he joined the army in the Peninsula as a general officer on the staff. I had solicited his appointment, because I entertained a high opinion of his talents and qualities, from the report which I had received of both from the late General Miranda, who had known him in the West Indies. I never had any reason to regret, on the contrary, I had numerous reasons to rejoice that I solicited his appointment. It was made at a moment at which an unmerited prejudice existed against Sir Thomas, Picton, the recollection of which was effaced by his services.

I afterwards solicited his appointment to the staff of the army of Flanders than which I cannot give a stronger proof not only of my sense of his merits and former services, but likewise that I never was otherwise than on the best terms with him. The country was deprived of his valuable services on a glorious field of battle, in a short time after he joined the army and there was no individual in that army or in England who lamented his loss more sincerely than I did

I have the honour to be, dear Sir,
Your most obedient humble servant

Wellington

Poyer John . 1639 Bailiff of the borough of Tenby
Arch Camb 1853

Poyer John d. 1649 , mayor of Pembroke , was a leading Merchant of that town. He was active in local affairs and in command of the trained Band . On 17 Feb. 1642 he wrote to Sir Hugh Owen of Orielton, Member of Parliament for Pembroke borough , to draw his attention to the undefended state of Pembrokeshire in view of the insurrection in Ireland , whence refugees were arriving daily in the county. Later in the year, on the outbreak of the Civil War , he organized the defence of Pembroke town and castle , forcibly retaining the office of mayor and becoming governor of the castle . He was joined by Rowland Laugharne and Rice Powell and together with them vigorously maintained the Parliamentary cause. When the Royalist commander in west Wales , Richard Vaughan entered Pembrokeshire in Aug. 1643 , he failed to induce Pembroke to capitulate. It became the base for the Parliamentary offensive when opportunity offered and a retreat when difficulties arose. Poyer himself is only recorded as having been the leader in one attack when he captured Carew castle 10 March 1644 . His activities involved him in serious disputes with the members of the county committee, some of whom he accused of being half-hearted in the cause. He was in London in Dec. 1645 defending himself against charges of not giving a proper account of moneys he had received and other allegations made by his opponents. He appears to have remained there for several months. When general hostilities ceased in 1647 Parliament decided to reduce its military forces by disbanding supernumeraries. The men who had fought in west Wales were included in this order. General Fairfax sent colonel Fleming to take over the governorship of Pembroke castle from Poyer as part of this policy. Poyer refused to hand it over. He seems to have regarded the possession of it as an important asset in view of his quarrels with members of the county committee and the claims he was putting forward for payment for disbursements and arrears. Fleming showed a willingness to treat with him but Poyer proved obdurate. There is no doubt that he was encouraged in his defiance by Royalist agents . He was in touch with prince Charles and received a commission from him issued at S. Germain's on 3 April 1648 . Poyer's action led to a widespread, opposition to disbandment and Rice Powell, took command of the resistance. After the defeat of the combined ex-Parliamentary and Royalist forces at S. Fagans 8 May 1648 a remnant escaped to Pembroke where the siege was conducted by Oliver Cromwell . It did not surrender until 11 July , when the garrison was greatly reduced and there was no prospect of help from the Royalists . Poyer was shot at Covent Garden on the morning of 25 April 1649 . His wife, Elizabeth petitioned Charles II for a grant on the ground that her Husband had lost £8,000 in the Royal cause. She was given a sum of £3,000, payable at the rate of £300 a year.

Prendergast Family -- Pembrokeeshire /Ireland

Today Prendergast is a suburb of Haverfordwest but where did the name come from?

The name appears on the Roll of Battle Abbey of those who fought on William the Conquerors side. but his army was a cosmopoliton group of men from many parts of France including Flanders. It could be that the Prendergast family were Flemish. Thierry says (Conquest of England by the Normans book iii)"In Henry the First's time , Richard Count of Eu, conquered the Welsh province of Diot, or Pembrokeeshire"

Maurice de Prendergast who held land near Haverfordwest was one of the Norman who supported the part of the Invasion of Ireland led by Fitz- Stephen. Actually he and his followers of "ten gentlemen of service and a good many archers" is recorded as landing at Bannow Bay on the day after Fitz

–Stephen 1169. According to Giraldus who would have known him personally he was “a lustie and hardie man, born about Milford”. He was awarded a large area of land in Wexford which his son Philip de Prendergast inherited and whom married the heiress of De Quiency one of Stongbow’s supporters and his standard bearer. Maurice de Prendergast in 1177 gave his castle at Prendergast in Pembrokeshire to the Knights of St John of Jerusalem and eventually joined that order becoming Prior of Kilmainham near Dublin. He died in 1205

The family died out through lack of a male heir although the name lingered on through the younger son of Philip who acquired land in Tipperary until in Cromwell's days they moved to Connaught .

Pritchett Delabere 1714-1801 a clergyman, was born at Narberth, Pembrokeshire, where his father practised many years as a physician. Being invited by Precentor Hill to settle at St David's , Mr. Prichett was appointed master of the Free School, and successively vicar-choral and sub-chanter. He was soon afterwards collated to the small vicarage of Carew, in his native county, this being his only preferment. Moved with compassion at the wretched state of the poor of the very extensive parish of St David's who were sixteen miles away from the nearest doctor, he applied himself to the study of medicine and surgery, which he afterwards practised with great success and without making any charge. By reason of his integrity and fidelity as a clergyman, his ability as a medical practitioner, and his general beneficence, he was held in the highest esteem. {Gent. Recorde Robert c1525 a very eminent mathematician, was born at Tenby, in Pembrokeshire. He was the son of Thomas Recorde, Esq., by Rose, daughter of Thomas Jones of Machynlleth, in Montgomeryshire. He entered at Oxford about the year 1525, and was elected Fellow of All Souls, in 1531, being then Bachelor of Arts. Applying himself to the study of physic, he went to Cambridge, where he took the degree of Doctor in that faculty in 1545, honoured by all that knew him for his great knowledge in several arts and sciences. Robert Recorde was the first original writer on arithmetic in English the first on geometry the first person who introduced the knowledge of algebra into England the first writer on astronomy in English the first person in this country who adopted the Copernican system the inventor of the present method of extracting the square root the inventor of the sign of equality= the inventor of the method of extracting the square root of multinomial algebraic quantities. He was resident in London in 1547, and followed his profession as a physician. Having fallen into pecuniary difficulties, he was imprisoned in the King's Bench, where he died in 1558, not long after making his will which is dated June 28. Eminent Welshmen –R Williams 1852

Rees George , 1776-1846 , a medical writer, was the son of a clergyman in Pembrokeshire, and received his medical education at St. Thomas' and Guy's Hospitals. For some time he was house surgeon at the Lock Hospital. He graduated M.D. at Glasgow in 1801, and began practice at Soho Square, London. Some time afterwards he established a private lunatic asylum at Hackney, and later on acted as medical superintendent of the Cornwall Lunatic Asylum at Bodmin. He subsequently resided in Euston Square, London, where he died.

“Dreadful accident and loss of lives at Pembroke Dock

Pembroke 23 July 1866

The town of Pembroke was, on Monday evening last, the scene of one of the most alarming accidents which have occurred here for many years past. From the particulars which have been ascertained it appears that about six o'clock in the evening a party consisting of women and lads and children about 14 in number, were returning from a hay-field in Lamphey Lane in a waggonette drawn by one horse. The horse and vehicle were the Property of Mrs Truscott of the White Hart Inn and when they had arrived nearly opposite the Dragon Hotel the belly band gave way and the horse began to kick. This so alarmed the women and children that they began to scream and by this means so frightened the animal that it took off at a furious pace down towards the Lion Hotel and from there up by the Old Castle. Here P.C. Davies No 24 attempted to stop the animal but was unable to do so and also got much hurt in the attempt, the shaft having struck him in the side. From thence the animal continued its career over the steep and sinuous Westgate Hill and eventually struck the vehicle against the old parapet wall of the Calvinistic methodist Chapel when both horse and vehicle got turned completely over.

In this terrible crash a young woman about 17 years of age named Dorcus Ann Truscott, a daughter of Mr W H Truscott of the " Red White and Blue" Inn Quay Pembroke was killed on the spot, while her younger sister, named Olwin Lavinia, age 14 years received a frightful scalp wound, sustained such other serious injuries that she is not expected to survive. Ann Moy, a widow , about 60 years of age - so dread fully injured that her death is momentarily expected. A lad named John Haran who was driving the horse at the time and his sister - both seriously injured. A woman named Elizabeth Williams - much injured. Lettice James , a woman who jumped out before the vehicle was turned over, very seriously injured. The whole of the other occupants including an infant in arms, are more or less injured. Dr. H P Jones and Dr Reid were at once in attendance and rendered all the medical assistance they could Extract from the Haverfordwest and Milford Telegraph newspaper July 25th 1866"

Richards William 1749 , LL.D. was born in the parish of Penrhydd, in Pembrokeshire, in the year 1749. His father was a respectable farmer, and when his son was nine years of age, removed to St. Clear's in Caermarthenshire. In 1773, he placed himself in the Baptist Academy at Bristol, where he continued two years, at the end of which period he became assistant to Dr. John Ash, the minister of a congregation of Baptists at Pershore, in Worcester shire. In 1776, he accepted an invitation from the Baptists of Lynn, in Norfolk, to become their minister, and he accordingly arrived there in July. He died at Lynn, on the 13th of September, 1818, in the sixty-ninth year of his age. Eminent Welshmen—R Williams 1852

He seems to have died in that year for in the next year we have an account of his lands at Roblinston, and at Great and Little Hamborth, his heir being a minor."

Robelyn Joan 1324, the heiress of the house, later married John ap Owen, whence came the Bowens, of Camrose.

Robelyn Adam 1366 mis-called, in Jones and Freeman's History of St David's Rokelyn was archdeacon of St David's

According to Lewys Dwnn,"

Robelyn William 1349 of Kestington Keeston married Eleanor, daughter of Sir Walter Malefant

Another branch of the Robelyn s held lands at Cosheston. We first hear of them in 1246.

Robelyn William, on his death (1349Thursday n.a. St Trinity 23 Edward III) According to Chancery Misc. Inquisition No 168 Writ dated 6 June Edward III, (1353) Inquisition at Pembroke 6 April 27 Edward III, before Thomas de Aston.

Robelyn William , who died in 1349, held at Cosheston of the Earl by military service and suit at the court of the Castle gate at Pembroke " also of Sir John de Carew three bovates of land at Le Thorn, in Cosheston the marriage of his heir, Robert, then aged thirteen years, was worth £20, which means that the possessions of the Robelyn s were of importance.

Robelyn Robert died in 1362, holding at Maynowiston Cosheston ? of the Earl, at Oggeston Hodgeston of Walter de la Roche at Jameston of the Lord of Manorbier, at Williamston, and Redbard Redbertli of the Master of Slebech and of Thomas de Northwode, and at Jorbardeston Yerboston of John de Carew " his heir was his brother

Robelyn David 1362 of whom John de la Roche held at Snelston Snailston in 1376. The last we find of the Cosheston family was

Robelyn Henry 1447 who was dead in 1447

Robjoy Walter

1405 Brother - Prior of the Benedictine priory of Pill near Milford.

Little is known of this priory till the 14c. It was founded by Adam de Rupe or de Roche and had the old parish church of Hubberston as part of its endowment.

In the 15c tongues began to wag at the scandalous doings of the Prior, and the matter came to the ears of the Bishop of St Davids . He conducted a visitation in 1405, as a result of which the Prior was sternly admonished to mend his ways. So hardened was the Prior that he appears to have taken not the slightest notice of his superior, who, a year and a half later was forced to write to him-

"We say it with grief that Thou, Brother Walter , prior aforesaid has not troubled to observe in your persons such injunctions.... but has lightly presumed daily and dost still presume to infringe and violate them... to the scandle of thy order".

Then followed a long catalogue of the Prior's Misdeeds.....

The Bishop pointed out that although it is written "maintain parents" it does not mean that the Prior should take them to live with him in the priory, and spend the income of the priory on them. Still less should he entertain quarrelsome friends there and "wickedly consume the goods of the said priory with Joan Moris, wife of John Hicke, thy paramour, whom thou has held in adulterous embraces for some years" So lavishly had the Prior converted the priory's income to his own use that it had become heavily in debt, and he "sorely oppressed" any of the monks who criticised him and allowed those who meekly acquiesced to go in or out just as they pleased without question. 1405, 3 June.

1406, 21 November.

Robert Raulyn, bachelor in decRees Canon of St Davids , vicar general in spiritualities of the reverend, etc., Guy, etc., now engaged in distant parts, to the religious man brother Walter Robjoy, , prior, etc., sendeth greeting in the Son of the Glorious Virgin and that you firmly obey these presents.

Whereas in a visitation . . . and fatherly in the said priory now late in time judicially and in very deed carried out by certain commissaries, with sufficient authority of the said reverend father, there having been previous complaints made, we have found clearly by legal documents plain evidence, strong presumptions, and notoriety of fact, which cannot be hid by any prevarication, that thou brother Walter , prior beforesaid, hast wickedly consumed the goods of the said priory with Joan Moris, wife of John Hicke, thy paramour, whom thou hast held in adulterous embraces for some years, to the great peril of thy soul, a pernicious example to many, the scandal of thy order, and the grave damage of thy said priory, and prodigally wasted these by gifts to thy pimps and fautors favouring thee and the said paramour in such crime of adultery and to several secular jurors in order that they should feloniously indict brother John Baker thy fellow-monk, in his lifetime, and maliciously oppress other of thy fellow-monks according to the ordering of thy will, to the grave damage of them and thy priory and the scandal of the order, so that thy said priory in consequence of the premises and other excesses, not at present set out here on account of a feeling of reverence interceding for thee in this behalf, is burdened with an enormous debt. In order therefore that by the help of the Divine mercy such defects may be reformed, we, by authority of the said father whose powers we bear, send specially to thee by these presents the injunctions, monitions, precepts and mandates written within, in addition to other injunctions specially sent to thee and thy fellow monks jointly under this same date. Seeing that we are to abstain not only from evil but from all appearance of evil we enjoin on thee on pain of deprivation and removal from the office of thy priory beforesaid not to go in person to Joan herself or her house, openly or in secret, nor to have speech with her in anything likely to cause suspicion and we inhibit thee under the penalties abovesaid from entering into any contract of purchase, sale, accommodation, or loan, in respect of goods of thy priory or doing anything in the way of charging thy priory, without the express consent of all thy fellow-monks or the greater part of the same we admonish thee also, once, twice, thrice and peremptorily, that thou obey our said injunctions, monitions, precepts and mandates, and humbly observe these, on pain of the greater excommunication which, in view of the delay, the fault and the offense, which have gone before, we pass in these writings and publish, from now as from then and from then as from now, against thy person if thou obey not the same zenith effect.

In witness whereof etc.

Dated in our inn at London, 21 November, 1406, and the tenth year of our consecration.

Robjoy, Walter , prior

Geffray John 1406, October 21.

Also on 21 October, in the year abovesaid, at London the bishop admitted Sir John Geffray chaplain to the parish church of Hubberston In Ros vacant by the death of Sir William, last rector, to which he is presented to him by the religious men brother Walter Robjoy , prior of the priory of St. Mary, Pylle in Ros, and the brethren of the same house, true patrons of the same, and instituted him etc. And it was written to the archdeacon of St. Davids etc.

Brown History of Haverfordwest

The annals of crime in Pembrokeshire present a some what singular history. For ninety years past not an execution has taken place. The last was one that excited a good deal of sympathy. Roblin a man who was found guilty, first of manslaughter, and that verdict being refused by the presiding Judge, afterwards of murder, though it was very generally felt that the first verdict would have satisfied justice, was hanged on Easier Monday 1821. In those days it was a short shrift, as he was only tried on Good Friday. So great was the horror occasioned by this execution, that the hangman was never known.

Roch de la Roche De Rupe

Roch Nicholas 1675 of Richards on in Roose High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

Roche Pembrokeshire/Ireland

Today Roch is a village near Haverfordwest well known for its castle perched on its rock.

The rock gave its name to a family who held a large amount of land in Pembrokeshire. In French deeds the family are referred to as “de la Roche” and in Latin deeds as “de Rupe” We know that family members took part in the Invasion of Ireland because both Adam who endowed Pille Priory Milford and Eustace were awarded large grants of land. It is probable that part of the family settled over there as in 1291 Sir Thomas de Rupe “de Wallia” was residing on property that he held in Ireland according to records of the time. The residence of the Roche s in Ireland was at Astramount in the county of Wexford. From records of the mid 1200’s Sir Gerald Roche possessed 5 Knights fee’s in County Wexford and a large estate in County Cork. His descendants were the Viscount Roche ’s of Fermoy

According to Old Pembrokeshire Families Henry Owen

The family of the Rock were called in Norman French, de la Roche and in charter Latin, de Rupe. They took part in the Pembrokeshire conquest of Ireland, which has so often been referred to in these papers, and founded a family there who afterwards called themselves Roche and of whom the heads were the Viscounts Fermoy.

It was from one of the Irish family, de la Roche George 1299 that Sir John Wogan of Picton procured in 1299 a grant of his rights at Castle Maurice to found the Wogan chantry at St David's .,

de la Roche David 1358 lord of Fermoy, appointed his Pembrokeshire kinsmen

de la Roche William 1358

de la Roche David 1358

de la Roche Richard 1358

his bailifs, to take seisin for him of the manors of Manorbier and Penally,' to which he had succeeded on the death of Avice de Barri this seems to be the same person as the David de Barri mentioned in the Barri paper, and in the Irish records we hear of a William Roche de Barri, which shows that the two families had got somehow mixed up. The Pembrokeshire family in time called themselves Roch and passed through Rickerston to Clareston and to Butter Hill, Llether, and Paskeston.

Flemings took a large part in the conquest of Ireland, and it has been before observed that Fenton's statement that the colony consisted of the " lower orders " cannot be accepted the men of rank among them speedily adopted the language and usages of their Norman allies.

Godebert, "a Fleming of Roose", held lands in that district in 1131, his two sons, Richard and Rodbert, took part in the Irish expeditions. Richard was one of the first invaders, and is called in the Norman-French poem, "The Song of Dermot and the Earl, a "Knight from Pembroke." Rodbert, who gave lands in Roose to Slebech, acquired, according to the same authority, some Irish Property which had originally been granted to Maurice of Prendergast, one of the numerous founders of Pembroke families in Ireland." Rodbert's three sons, David, Henry, and Adam, took the name of de la Roche as appears from the charter by which they gave the Bishop of Exeter in Wexford harbour, with the church built thereon, to St. Nicholas Exeter, for the soul of their father Rodbert, the son of Godebert the witnesses to the charter are Maurice above mentioned, and other Pembroke allies."

There were two principal branches of the Pembroke family, settled respectively at Roch Castle and Langum Fenton has confused them they were united by marriage, as will be seen later on. Fenton also states that there is reason to believe that one of the family had charge of the province of Roose, and held the hereditary office of Comes Littoris, but as he does not give the reason, we need not believe.

The first of the Roch Adam late 12c Castle family was Adam, who founded Pill Priory at the close of the 12th century in the general words at the end of his charter he gives the churches of all the lands he had acquired he must have added considerably to the family acres, for he gives to St. Mary, St. Budoc, and the order of Tiron, the land on which the Priory was built, other lands in Roose and at New Moat, and the churches of St.

Cewydd now St. Peter at Stainton, St. Mary of Roch St. David now St. Peter of Little Newcastle, and St. Nicholas of New Moat." We learn from the charter that his wife's name was Roch Blandina late 12c he was a witness to Robert Fitz Elidor's grant to St David's , " his charter to the church and Canons of St David's , " was witnessed by Peter de Leia, bishop of that see from 1176 to 1198, who began the building of the present cathedral.

Roch David 1224 the son of Adam, confirmed his father's charter to St David's of a pension of 2s. yearly, payable on St David's Day, out of lands of Roch held by Wobald, the son of Ernebald more Flemings among the witnesses is William the Precentor the confirmation was soon after 1224, when the first precentor at St David's was appointed.

de la Roche Adam 1219 was witness to the Marshall charters to Haverford in 1219 and some eight years later he seems to have been lord of Roch as the charter of Thomas mentioned below, suggests that there was an Adam the younger.

The next was

de la Roche John 1251 but whether he was the son of David or of Adam the younger there is nothing to show he held of the Earl in 1251 one fee and one third of another fee in the barony of Roch . " He married

de la Roche Matilda 1251 the niece of Thomas Wallensis Bishop of St David's 1248- 1256 , who was a Carew, and received from the bishop a grant to himself and his wife, and their heirs, of the manor of Eglwys Cummin," which manor the bishop himself held of Guy de Brian it was to this marriage that the building of Roch Castle by Laugharne is due.

de la Roche Thomas 1274 the son of John and Matilda, confirmed and enlarged the charter to Pill of the founder, whom he calls Adam the elder his grant included lands at Suthoc South Hook in Herbrandston, Denant and a share in the mill there , Stodhaze Studdolph , Windsor by StrickemersHille Dredgman Hill , Redeberch Redberth, now in Walwyn's Castle parish , Thorneton misspelt Porneton , villa Ledelini Liddeston , and castrum Vydii, which seems to refer to the " Castle Hill abutting upon Stainton Highway " mentioned among the possessions of the Priory at the dissolution he also gave the right of wreck in the half carucate of land at Neugol, on which had been built the chapel to St. Caradoc to commemorate the resting-place of that saint's body on its way to burial at St David's , also the churches of St. David at Hubertston Hubberstoi and St. Madoc de Veterivilla" Nolton . One of the witnesses to this charter was Nicholas Martin, lord of Kemes, who died in 1284.

There is a charter by Roger Mortimer son of Henry , granting Thomas de la Roche a carucate of land at Pill Rhodall by Milford , and in 1274 a fine was made between him and Sir William de Boleville Bulwell as to lands at WestField held of the manor of Burton." In 1295 William de Valence, Earl of Pembroke, and Joan his wife brought a suit against the bailiffs of Queen Eleanor, lady of Haverford, alleging that they had forcibly taken the barony of Roche of which Monsier Thomas de la Roche was lord from the earldom the suit failed the Thomas mentioned in the pleadings was a minor in the custody of the lord of Haverford at the time of his father's death in 1301 he signed the barons' letter to the Pope as lord of Roche .

It is not clear whether the above documents refer to one Thomas or to two, father and son.

de la Roche John 1314 The will of John, the son of Thomas is extant, it is dated 1314 and proved in the same year, and he tells us something of the family history the testator of those days generally made his will on his death-bed, which was to the advantage of holy church John seems to have postponed it rather late, as he says at the end that he cannot give any more thought to it, and his executors must dispose of the residue. Among the bequests are his soul to the Blessed Mary and his body to be buried at Pill Priory he is careful to add with a due regard for economy 40 shillings to the convent of Pill, and a like amount to the Friars Preacher of Haverford to his mother, the Lady de la Roche Margaret 1314 mother of John, half his farming stock at the manor of Pill, with the option of buying the other half at its market value to his sisters de la Roche Elizabeth 1314 sister of John, de la Roche Johanna , 1314 sister of John de la Roche Lucia 1314 sister of John --20 marks each as a marriage portion, and to his brother

de la Roche Thomas 1314 brother of John his armour which he had left at Pill there are also legacies to an old servant and of a book called The Sirculus to the Lady of Courtenay."

John had in 1313 grants from Sir John Wogan of Picton in Llysyfran and Lambston," which latter Wogan had obtained from John's father. John's successor was his brother Thomas who was lord for some ten years in 1315 he obtained a grant, for himself and his wife Elizabeth, from Nesta wife of Roger Corbet, and one of the co-heiresses of Robert de Vale, of lands at Castell Loyth Wolf's Castle and Rinaston " in 1317 he was commanded to return apparently from Ireland to his domain in Wales for its defence in 1319 there was a fine between him and John Cole in the court of Aymer de Valence, lord of Haverford and Earl of Pembroke , as to land at ZeimsHille" DeemsHill in Steynton . There are also two charters"" to Thomas one from Adam Baret of a Carmarthen family who held in the county , of land at Gibbrick's Ford now Ford by Tref garn , in which his wife Nesta, who must have been a second wife, is mentioned, and the other from Philip, the son of Thomas Martin the fuller, of a fulling mill at the same place, therein called Gilbert's Ford to the latter, William Martin, lord of Eemes, is a witness. It is stated in an ancient extent cited in the Black Book of St David's , " that Vadum Gyhrygh Gibbrick's Ford was held by a Geffrey de Rupe as half a fee. And it may be mentioned here that George Owen gives two charters of lands in Roose to "Master Tankard de la Roche ", to one of which Gilbert of Musselwick, who was one of the executors of the will of John above mentioned, was witness Tankard was a witness to the grant of Redwalls"" by John, the son of MauRice to Adam, the son of Hugh Cole and Sarah his wife, the daughter of William Philbeach." But who Tankard was there is no evidence.

Thomas left a son

de la Roche William 1324 who succeeded him, also four daughters, the second of whom, de la Roche Johanna, 1324? , married Sir David de la Roche of Langum. Leland" mentions a "William de la Roche who married the daughter and coheiress of Peter Delamere he would be a contemporary, but there is nothing to show that he came from this county.

There are several charters referring to William, and we have now happily reached the time when these documents are dated, a custom which began about the reign of Edward II but some of these charters appear to refer to a second William. In 1324 he held of the Earl one fee at La Roche worth £20 in 1326 he held of the bishop Lysurane Llysyfran in capite as one fee and half a fee at Oweynston Eweston , and also at Neugol"

Newgale in 1327 he was one of the court of the conspiracy trial - in 1330 he founded a chantry in the chapel of St. Thomas the Martyr by Pill Oliver Dead Man's Lake , for the souls of his parents and of his family generally in 1334 there was a fine in the court at Pembroke of Isabel, Lady of Clare the guardian of the earldom during the minority of Lawrence Hastings , between him and Walter Alex, clerk probably a trustee , as to land at Ayllwarston Alleston and Kingeston in 1336 John de Stackpole, chaplain, granted him £400 yearly rent out of the manors of Burton and Hodgeston " in 1353 he granted a lease of a messuage and land at Roch to John Baret the son of John and Johanna, , his wife " in 1358 he was appointed one of the bailiffs of David, lord of Fermoy, as above mentioned and in 1367 he granted a lease of another messuage and land at Roch to Henry, son of Thomas Baret, for life, at a nominal rent but Henry is to guard the castle and the prisoners, to do all necessary Mason or carpenter work for repairs, and to dig stones for certain works, which then seemed to have been in progress there, the tenants of the manor to provide the carriage. But it is probable that these two last documents refer to another William, a son and successor and in 1298 we have a grant from Philip of Angle to de la Roche William 1298 of lands at Angle, Sepin Ilond Sheep Island, and the windmill at Angle." The explanation may be that William the second left as his heiress his sister Margot, whose only child Margaret married Sir Roger de Clarendon, and died without issue in 1382, when the barony of Roche was divided among the representatives of the co-heiresses daughters of Thomas, and Roch Castle and some lands in county Tipperary fell to Thomas de la Roche of Langum, who was descended from the David above mentioned, who married Johanna, .

The barony of Roch consisted of the present parishes of Roch Nolton, Camrose and Trefgarn, and we have seen how widely their possessions were distributed in other parts of the county. There was doubtless a fortress at Roch from early times, but the present castle was built at the close of the 13th century there are later additions and some Tudor windows and there is evidence that the building was not completed." It does not appear that the de la Roche's lived there after they had attained to their great position, most of their charters are dated from Pill. They probably also occupied Benton Castle, a small fortress in their manor of Burton of the same as Roch . There is ample evidence that the de la Roche s of Langum were a branch distinct from the lords of Roch until they were united by the marriage of David and Johanna, their residence was either at the Castle House at Langum or at a house where now Grant Nash stands. They were buried in the de la Roche Chapel in Langum the family of Roch Castle were buried at Pill.

The first we hear of is de la Roche Robert 1219 who was a witness to the Begerin charter, which shows that the three sons of Rodbert, son of Godebert, the Fleming, took the name of de la Roche . It is not too much to conjecture that he also had adopted the Norman custom, and he may have been the son of Richard, Rodbert's brother, above mentioned but of this there is no evidence. This Robert was granted Talbenny" by William Marshall, earl of Pembroke, who died in 1219. His son was de la Roche Geffrey,1241 who granted lands at Penvey to the monks of Whitland," which he warranted against all lawful men, Normans, Flemings, English and Welsh, , which shews the mixed character of the inhabitants of the district in thosedays he was a witness to the charters of Thomas Wallensis and Tankard de la Roche and to a Kernes charter" in 1241 he was one of the Pembroke magnates who, in 1244, sent to John de Monmouth, chief bailiff of South Wales, an account of their attack upon Cardigan," and in 1251 he held two fees of the Earl. His successor was de la Roche Gilbert 1268 , probably his son, who in 1268 was present at the fine between Philip de Stackpole and William de Crespyn," and in 1298 joined in the petition of the four co-heiresses of Robert de Vale one of whom he had married to the King's bailiffs at Haverford to do them right and justice as to Robert's Property."

In 1287 Gilbert granted, by a deed dated at Langum, the farm called Russelsland to Philip, the son of Roger, and to Alice his wife for their lives." Among the witnesses to this charter was David de St. Patrick.

Among the charters to which Gilbert's name appears as witness, are those of William de Valence to Tenby, and those of Philip of Angle, Roger Mortimer, Philip the son of Thomas Martin and Geffrey of Uzmaston, above mentioned in the later ones he is described as a Knight.

The heir of Gilbert was de la Roche David 1303 as appears from a charter of Geffrey Hascard in 1303 as to a right of distress at Johnston."

In the same year, as lord of Landegam and Mayncloch Langum and Maenclochog, he granted to the abbot and convent of Whitland the right of pasturage for seven years on his lands at Precelly and other mountains and deserts in part payment for a horse" the abbot would seem to have got the best of this deal and in 1306 he granted to Alan, rector of Talbenny, a lease for his life of Talbenny Hall and a Garden at le Brodemore" Broodmoor Alan was to keep the Hall in the same state of repair as it then was, and apparently that state was not good. David was also a witness to charters in 1324 he held of the Earl a tenth of a fee at Osbarneston Yerboston, and, about the same time, of the bishop two carucates of land at Hendref Cradoc in the patria of Llawhaden."

He must have died soon afterwards, for in 1326

de la Roche Adam 1326 held of the lord of Kernes three fees at Maenclochog, Monington and Llanychaer respectively." This is the only notice of Adam which I have found. It is probable that he was the eldest son of David, and that he was succeeded by his brother, the de la Roche David 1326 who married Johanna, de la Roche of Roch Castle.

The son of the last David was de la Roche Robert 1334 who was present at the above mentioned fine of 1334. He was a Knight, as was also his son de la Roche John d1376 who married Isabel de Bromwich, the heiress of Castle Bromwich in Warwickshire, and the widow of William de Peto. Dugdale, in his History of Warwickshire,' gives a short pedigree of the de la Roches.

Sir John died in 1376 his inquisition is extant" and we can learn the possessions of the Langum family. He held of the Earl the manor of Ladayn ? in free burgage, and land at Yerboston by military service of the lord of Kemes, the castle and 200 acres of land at Maenclochog of the lord of Walwyn's Castle, the manor of Dale and lands at Snelleston Snailston and Raymes Castle Ramas Castle, called by ignorant compilers of ordnance maps, Roman's Castle of the barony of Roch land at Freystrop, parcel of the lordship of Stackpole of the lord of Haverford, the manors and advowsons of Langum and Talbenny, with other lands of the lord of Carew, land at Marteltwy, also parcel of Stackpole of Isabella, widow of Sir John Wogan of Picton, land at Guilford, near Langum also lands at Herbrandston.

de la Roche John elder son of John, who died under age, and a younger son, de la Roche Thomas 1382 succeeded In 1382 the custody of Thomas and of the manor of Langum in Wales, and of his share of the inheritance of the barony of Roch by the death of Margaret de Clarendon, , was granted by the King to Sir Thomas de Bermingham," whose daughter Elizabeth afterwards married his ward. Margaret died on the 9th September 1382, and ten years afterwards Richard II, lord of Ireland and Haverford, issued a writ to the sheriff of the county of Haverford to partition the inheritance of the Roche s, of Roch Castle, between the representatives of the four daughters of Thomas de la Roche of Roch Castle, that is to say, David Fleming, Thomas de la Roche of Langum, Sir Warine Archdekyn, and Eleanor, the wife of Robert Verney.

The proceedings in the partition are fully set out in a roll of two membranes among the MSS. of Sir Alexander Acland-Hood, Bart. From the extent of the Property we learn that there were in Roch Castle divers buildings in a ruinous state, and that the demesne consisted of seventeen messuages and six carucates of land worth eight pounds there were also six cottages, and the pasture of the moat was worth two marks. The buildings at the mansion of Castle Pill were partly standing and partly in ruin it had large Gardens, and the demesne there was four carucates and thirty acres that is to say, 158 acres . The demesne lands, rents, and services, were divided into four parts, and a share of "les colpyttes", the profits of Burton ferry, and other dues, was allotted to each. From the pedigree given in the roll it appears that Eleanor was the daughter of Lucia de la Roche and William Levelance.

Lewys Dwnn" has called this name Le Velans, and his editor has gravely noted that this Le Velans was William de Valence, Earl of Pembroke, who died some hundred years before, and who certainly did not marry a de la Roche .

As before stated, the de la Roche s still held lands in Ireland, to part of which Thomas succeeded upon the death of Margaret de Clarendon he was taken prisoner by the Welsh, in Owen Glyndwr's rebellion in 1405, and he must have died before 1413 at a comparatively early age , as we then have his widow Elizabeth mentioned."

He left two daughters and co-heiresses, who were both married to men of mark Eleanor to Edmund, Lord Ferrers of Chartley from whom were descended the Devereux of Lamphey, Earls of Essex and Elizabeth to Sir George Longueville of Wolverton, co. Bucks. Fenton" says that they soon sold the Property, but this is not correct, for in the reign of Henry VIII Lord Ferrers and Sir John Longueville held Roch Castle, and in that of Elizabeth the Earls of Essex and the Longuevilles still held de la Roche Property.

Roch Castle was held for the King in the civil war," and was even then called "a very considerable stronghold."

It then became the property of the family of Walter , and eventually passed through Harries of Trevacoon to Stokes of Cuffern.

There are other members of the family whom we meet in the records who cannot be identified, for instance,

Roche Walter de la 1317 of Woganston, who was on a jury in.1317

death on 20 Apr 1850 is taken from Ann Rogers' biography
"On the way across the ocean, a young man fell in love with Grandmother's sister, Elizabeth and asked her to marry him but she refused. One night when they were some miles beyond St. Louis, Aunt Elizabeth saw Grandmother to bed then went out on deck of the steamer in the moonlight. Here the young man found her and again asked her to marry him. When she refused, he became angry and strangled her to death. *Mormon

Rosse Philip 1406, March 22 .Also on the 22nd day of the same month, the same reverend father granted to Philip Rosse, rector of the parish church of Maynorberys licence of non-residence in his said church for one year. And he had Letters in the usual form.----- Rosse Philip 1408, 21 March.

On 21 March in the year abovesaid at Haverford by force of a commission of the reverend etc., Richard bishop of London, directed to him on this behalf and his own ordinary authority, the same vicar Master John Hiot Bishop of St David set forward the underwritten exchange in form following Sir Philip Rosse, rector of the parish church of Manorbier of the diocese of St David's and Sir John Heyward, rector of the parish church of St Martin Pomeroy, of the city and diocese of London, resigned their benefices aforesaid for an exchange, to be made with one another etc., and the vicar admitted the said Philip to the latter church on the presentation of the prior and convent of the priory of St Bartholomew, Smethfield, true patrons of the church and instituted him rector and admitted the said Sir John Heyward to the church of Manorbier on the presentation of the King patron for the turn by reason of the alien priory of Pembroke being in his hands on account of the war between him and his French adversaries and instituted him as Rector.

Rowe William 1402 . Guy Bishop of St David's etc. to William Rowe and Margaret Hylton, etc.

We have received Letters of the venerable father in Christ Francis, by divine compassion cardinal priest with the title of St. Susannah penancer general of our lord the pope, presented on your behalf, containing this series of words

To the venerable etc. the bishop of St. Davids or his vicar in spiritualities Francis etc. as above , greeting etc.

On behalf of William Rowe and Margaret Hilton, a wedded couple of your diocese, a petition has been offered to us containing that some time ago they not being aware of any impediment existing at the present time according to the custom of the country, and consummated this by connection of the flesh and begat offspring. But afterwards it came to the knowledge of this couple that they are united with each other within the fourth degree of consanguinity. And verily since if there were to be a divorce made between them grave scandals in all probability would result there from, the same wedded persons have caused humble supplication to be made for provision to be mercifully made for them upon these points by the apostolic see. We therefore desiring provision to be made for the saving of their souls and for the avoiding of such scandals, by authority of the lord pope, the care of whose penitentiary we bear, and by his special manhereon made to us by the oracle of the living voice, commit it to your circumspection that if it be so, if the said woman have not for this cause been ravished from any one, to deal with these married people that not withstanding the impediment of such consanguinity be legitimate.

Dated at Rome at St. Peter, 29 April, in the eleventh year of the pontificate of lord Boniface IX the pope.

We mercifully grant you a dispensation according to the form and effect of the before written Letters, by the authority committed to us in this behalf, in order that notwithstanding the impediment of such consanguinity you may lawfully remain in your marriage at another time in fact contracted between you, decreeing the offspring begotten and to be begotten of the marriage itself to be legitimate.

In witness whereof etc. Dated in our manor of Lantefey, 21 September 1402, etc.

And he had Letters in the usual form.

Scudamore John 1474, 8 July Exemplification, at the request of John Scudamore, Knight, of the tenours of the following-

1 A Petition of the said John in the Parliament at Westminster, 6 October, 12 Edward IV, that whereas beginning of the reign he had the rule and the keeping of the Castle of Pembroke in South Wales, and the King appointed the lord Ferrers and Herbert to take deliverance of the castle in his name and the said John delivered up the castle to them and was admitted to the Kings Grace and notwithstanding this at the first Parliament of the King,, at Westminster, 4 November, 1 Edward IV, he was put in the Common bill of Attainder and afterwards his name was taken out of it, but nevertheless at the latter end of the said Parliament it was ordained that he was convicted of high treason and forfeit all his lands and possessions, saving only his life and his goods, although at the time he was at home in his country trusting to the promise of the said lords, the King should now ordain that the said Act and others should be in no way prejudicial to the said John, and that the latter should be restored to his possessions.

2 The response of the King, at the request of the Commons by authority of Parliament. - Soit fait come il est desiree.

3 A schedule English annexed to the said petition notifying that William, Lord Herbert, by the authority granted to him by Letters of privy seal d 13 May last past, has received the said Sir John Skydmore, Knight, into the King's Grace. *Pembroke, 30 September, X Edward IV. Shirburn - Craddock's/Newtons of Angle

Acc to Old Pembrokeshire Families Henry Owen

See also the Newtons of Llanstadwell

Fenton' derives this place-name from the Latin Angultis, but it is obviously from a Norse word, meaning- a bay, which appears in Anglesey. There was an old Norse colony here, as at Langum. It was formerly called Nangle the "N" may be a survival of the prefix atten, which explains some English place-names beginning with that letter the superfluous "N" remains in Narberth, Norchard, and Nolton, formerly Arberth, Orchard, and Olton.

Fenton, in the same passage, states that the Shirburns were the ancient lords of Angle but there was a family there before them who, as was the custom before the adoption of surnames, were called from their place of residence and styled in charter Latin de Angulo. They took part in the Pembroke'shire conquest of Ireland Gilbert of Angle was granted a large tract in co. Meath, lost it by rebellion, was pardoned in 1207, and granted lands in Connaught,' where his descendants, becoming "more Irish than the Irish", took the name of Mac Hostilo, since corrupted into Costello.' Jocelin, his brother ?, was granted Navan, in Meath,' and founded the great Irish house of the Nangles, lords of Navan.

There are also Irish grants in 1215 to Walter and Philip of Angle, the grant to the latter being confirmed in 1232." Ireland became the principal home of the family, and the county records of them are scanty. In 1247, Richard of Angle held of the Earl a Knight's fee at Angle then there was a Stephen, whose son and heir Philip, in 1273, granted various lands, demesnes, and services, in and about Angle, together with "wreck of the sea", to of Shirburn Robert 1273 , with remainder in default of male issue to his Robert's daughter, of Shriburn Joan 1273 , wife of Robert de Castro, with remainder to the right heirs of Robert of Shirburn." This was the Philip who, in 1298, granted to William de la Roche the charter.

from this charter we learn that the name of Philip's mother was Isabella. Thereafter the Nangles became Irish lords only, for although in 1314 and 1375 we find Philip of Angle and his son John holding a fee nominally of the Earl, it would seem that the domain was the Shirburns.

The Shirburns held Angle for some two centuries, and the ruins of their habitation are still to be seen there.

The first of the family of whom we hear was Shirburn John 1298 who, as sheriff of Pembroke, witnessed the confirmation by Nicholas Fitz Martin of the grant of Fishguard to St. Dogmael's. As his son, Shirburn Robert 1298 above mentioned, was also sheriff of Pembroke see the de la Roche charter of 1298 it is evident that the Shirburns were high in the favour of the Earl and it may be that John came to the county in the train of the great Earl, William de Valence. The home of the Shirburns was in Lancashire.

The next

Shirburn Walter 1327 , who was a juror at Pembroke in 1327 and 1331 after him came

Shirburn Nicholas 1340 apparently his son. This Nichohis received in 1340, from Lawrence Hastings, the then Earl, a general pardon for offences, committed probably during that Earl's long minority, with the saving clause that he should come into the Earl's court if any man had aught against him
the document is extant, with a seal, having on one side the figure of the earl on horseback, and on the other the Hastings arms." Nicholas died in 1350 his wife's name was Shirburn Margaret 1330 and his son Shirburn John 1350 whose marriage was worth twenty marks was then 18 years of age he held of the Earl 53s.. rent at Scorlageston, and in Angle 2 carucates worth 100s., and 100s. rent." John was a juror at Pembroke in 1357, and in the next year Sir William de Carew held of him, by military service, ten messuages, five carucates, and three bovates of land at Angle. '

John died in 1362, his daughter and heiress, Shirburn Alice 1352 was then ten years old he held of the Earl John Hastings, then a minor thirty acres at Coedrath, worth 4s., by service yearly, and three burgages in Pembroke worth. by service of 3s., but it is to be noted that he held the rent at Scorlageston, and half a Knight's fee there of Edward, Lord le Despenser, lord of Glamorgan." Of Alice, and indeed of the Shirburns, we find nothing further except that, as late as 1447, Nicholas Carew held lands at Angle of Shirburn Edward 1447 by military service, and suit of Edward's court at Angle." This Edward was the founder of the chapel of St. Anthony at Angle.

Fenton" says that Robert Cradock, lord of Newton in Roose, Newton Noyes, married a Shirburn heiress if this be so, Alice must have died without issue. The Cradocks were a family who came from Ystrad Towy, and had been settled at Newton for some generations they had intermarried with the leading families in the county. John Cradock was a witness to the Angle charter of 1273. John Cradock of Newton was a juror in 1327, and William Cradock, also described as of Newton, was a debtor to Roger Mortimer in 1331. Another John held lands in Castlemartin in 1347," and died in 1350, holding of the Earl lands at Newton and Coedrath the jury said that Roger, his son, being then of the age of 17 years, married Marjory the daughter of Nicholas Shirburn on the morrow of his father's death, and that his marriage was worth twenty marks." This is the person whom Fenton, following Lewys Dwnn," calls Robert Cradock.

Nicholas Shirburn died, as we have seen, in the same year, and his daughters, on the failing of issue of his son John, would have inherited but what share the Cradocks had in the Shirburn inheritance does not appear. Roger was buried at Angle.'-

John Cradock, the son of Roger, married the daughter of Peter Russell," who held lands in Hay's Castle John was a juror at Pembroke in 1377. In the same year, his brother David was justiciary in South Wales, and in the next, seneschal of Haverford.'

In 1430, there was a fine in the court of Sir Roland Lenthal, lord of Haverford, between Richard Cradock and Emma his wife, and John Crespyng and others, as to lands in Southill. This may have been the Richard Cradock who was a juror at Pembroke in 1447 but before that the head of the house had changed his Welsh, surname for the territorial designation of the home of his fathers.

This was the famous lawyer. Sir Richard Newton grandson of the above John Cradock, who was appointed justice itinerant of Pembroke" for 1426-7, recorder of Bristol in 1430, judge of the Common Pleas in 1438, and Lord Chief Justice of that court in 1439 " he died in 1448 and was probably buried at Yatton," in Somerset, where he had acquired an estate, and where some of his posterity remained." The descendants of his younger son became baronets of Barr's Court" in Gloucestershire the title became extinct in 1743. Sir Richard was twice married first to Emma, daughter but not heiress as Fenton" states of Thomas Perrot of Haroldston and secondly to Emmota Harvey, of London who was buried at Yatton. He had issue by both wives. The writer of his life in the Dictionary of National Biography makes Sir Richard to be the son of John Cradock of Newton, in Montgomeryshire, but most authorities have followed the better opinion that Newton was in Roose, and that the Lord Chief Justice was a Pembrokeshire man."

According to Fenton," Sir Richard disposed of his Property in the county but the Newtons remained. In 1500 there is an inquisition as to the bounds between the lands of Richard Newton in Jeffreyston and of Isabella Wogan at Langonet Landigwynet. The will of this Richard Newton is extant, and is d in that year." He seems to have had considerable property in the shire of Pembroke and in the lordship of Haverford ". He endows the chapel of St. George the Martyr," "of the Nangill," to augment the stipend of a priest to pray for the souls of the Shirburns, and provides for a stained glass window over the altar in the chapel, depicting the life and history of the saint. Among his bequests are those to the Cathedral church of St. David, " my moder church," to the high altar of St. Nicholas Monkton, to the prior and convent of Monkton, and to his servants. These last are to be rewarded " a gentilman as a gentilman, and a Yeoman after his degree". He left two daughters, but no legitimate male issue, and was probably the last of his name and race.

To all and singular etc. Hugh etc

Whereas we etc. to whom sole and entire the right of conferring the grammar schools in our city and diocese of St David's as well of right as of custom is well known to pertain, have appointed our beloved in Christ Richard Smyth master in arts, chaplain in our church of the Blessed Mary, Haverford, of our diocese, to be master of the grammar schools in the said Haverford and to rule the same grammar schools, and to inform unlearned youths in grammar and the other liberal sciences, by the tenour of these presents, therefore, we inhibit and admonish, once, twice, and thrice, that no one put under or subject to us by diocesan right dare contrary to this our appointment to rule such schools in the said town of Haverford and any place within a circumference of seven miles of the same town without obtaining the licence of the aforesaid master, or in any wise whatsoever presume to attempt anything about the premises to the prejudice of the aforesaid Master Richard, under pain of contempt and the greater excommunication to be pronounced against contemnners and violators of our present appointment.

In witness whereof etc. d in our manor of Lamphey 8 May in STACKPOLE.—The effigy of Sir Eliodore Stackpole, a Crusader, is to be seen in Cheriton Church. It is the surname of an old Irish family, from whom the "due de Stackpole," a French nobleman, descends.

Stacpoole Richard 1066 , Sir knighted by William the Conqueror, married Margaret, daughter of Sir Richard Tuberville of Glamorgan and lived at Stackpole, now called Stackpole Court, but not so in the older records. He was succeeded by his brother

Stacpoole Robert whose son,

Stacpoole William 1138 Sir, married a daughter of Hywel ap Ithel, Lord of Roos, and commanded troops under King Stephen he was defeated by King David in the Battle of the Standards in 1138.

William's son,

Stacpoole Richard 1138? Sir married a daughter of Henry Vernon of Haddon, and his son was Stacpoole Elidor, 1169 Sir who went to the Crusades with King Richard I. in 1169, and whose tomb and effigy are in Cheriton Church. He married Elsbeth, daughter of Sessylt ap Llewellyn ap Mereddig, and their daughter, Elsbeth, became heiress of Stackpole.

Stacpoole Elsbeth married Sir Rhys, an old Knight of War

then followed Grufudd, then Rhys ap Grufudd then a daughter, Sioned or Joanet, who married William Vernon of Harliston in Staffordshire, son of Sir Richard Vernon. She died in 1368, and her son, Sir Richard Vernon, succeeded. He married Benedicta, sister and heiress of Sir Fulk Pemburge ? of Pemburge Castle, and of Tong, in Staffordshire. He was living at Stackpole in 1400, but there is no trace of Vernons resident there later.

Then followed Sir William Vernon, Constable of England for life, he died 1467 then another Sir William, who married Margaret, daughter of Lord Ferrers, and was Lord of Haddon Haddon Hall in Derbyshire. Then Sir Henry, Governor and Treasurer to Prince Arthur, son of Henry VII. he fought at Bosworth Field in 1485. After him came Sir Richard, who died 1518 then Sir George, called "the King of the Peak", from his extravagant hospitality.

He died 1565 and left two daughters, co-heiresses of whom Dorothy eloped with Sir John manner, son of the Duke of Rutland, and took Haddon as her portion, and Margaret married Sir Thomas Stanley, son of the Earl of Derby, and took Stackpole and Tong. She appointed as her steward at Stackpole, George Lort, son of John Lort of Knowlden, Staffordshire, who was born about 1530. He, in Lady Stanley's lifetime, changed from steward to owner, probably by purchase.

George Lort's son Roger, born about 1555, married Bertha, daughter of his father's second wife, who was the widow of Hugh Bwrrw. Roger was Sheriff in 1607, and died 1613. There is a quaint verse on his tomb in the Memorial Chapel at Chenton Church

Worne out with lingering sickness here I lye,
My body rather, whence my soul did Eye,
As out of prison to Heavens joyes,
Make these sure, reder, all things els are toyed.

Henry Lort succeeded in 1613, and was Sheriff in 1619. He had three sons Roger, who succeeded to Stackpole, Henry, of Prickeston now a farm on the Stackpole estate, and Sampson, of Eastmoor, Manorbier. Henry died in 1646, and Roger succeeded, who took a very leading part in the Parliamentary wars on Cromwells side he was a most bitter opponent of Rowland Laugharne and John Poyer, , the gallant defenders of Pembroke Castle in the great siege. They on one occasion caught Roger with White and others, at - Henllan, near Pwllcrochan, and besieged them there but they contrived to escape. Roger was Sheriff in 1652, and was created Baronet by Charles II. in 1662 he died in 1664, and his son John succeeded, whose wife was Lady Susanna Holles, daughter of the Earl of Ware. Their only son, Gilbert, died in 1698, and his sister Elizabeth became heiress of Stackpole she was then a widow, having married Sir Alexander Campbell of Calder, or Cawdor, in Nairnshire, in 1688, who had died in 1697. The eldest son of Sir Alexander Campbell and Elizabeth Lort, Gilbert, died young the second, John, succeeded his mother at Stackpole, and his grandfather at Cawdor in 1716. He married Mary, daughter and co-heiress of Lewis Pryse of Gogerddan he was Lord of the Admiralty and afterwards of the Treasury. He added to, and improved the mansion at Stackpole and made the library. His eldest son, Pryse, predeceased him, having married Sarah, daughter of Sir Edmund Bacon their son John succeeded his grandfather in 1777. He married Lady Catherine Howard, daughter of the Earl of Carlisle, and was made Baron Cawdor of Castlemartin in 1796. He died in 1821, his son, John Frederick, was made Earl in 1827, and married Lady Elizabeth Thynne, daughter of the Marquess of Bath he died in 1860. John Frederick Vaughan, his son, married Sarah Mary, daughter of General the Hon. Henry Compton Cavendish she was Maid of Honour to Queen Victoria he died in 1898, and was succeeded by his son the third Earl. Lort Roger of Stackpole Court 1607 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

Lorte , Roger, was the eldest son and heir of Henry Lorte , esq. of Stackpoole in Pembrokeshire, where he was born in 1608. At the age of sixteen he became a gentleman commoner of Wadham college Oxford, where he took one degree in arts, in 1627, and then left the university. He was considered a good English poet, and about 1647, he published a volume of poems, in 4to. In 1662, he was created a baronet, and living several years after, left at his decease a son named John Lorte , who succeeded to his honours and estate, and died in 1677.

There was another member of the same family, named William Lorte , who lived in the reign of James I. and was esteemed in his time a good poet, and many verses of his composition are printed in several books. Wood's Athen. Oxon.

Campbell John Early 1800s later Lord Cawder of Stackpole and Mirehouse John, of Brownslade drained huge marshes and converted them into fruitful grain growing fields and improved the breeds of cattle and sheep.

Campbell Eric Octavius The Honorable, DSO & Bar, Lieutenant-Colonel. Stackpole Elidor

First award was awarded in the London Gazette of 23 March 1915. He gained a Bar to his Distinguished Service Order in 1918, and was also Mentioned in Despatched twice. He had been invalided home, and died on 4 June, 1918. He is buried at Stackpole Elider Churchyard, in the Cawdor plot.

Stephney Family -- Prendergast

The connection between Prendergast and the Stephney or Stephneth family came about through the Stephney Alban 1565 .marrying the daughter of Thomas Gaddarn or Catharn, of Prendergast Plas Alban sat in four Parliaments for Haverfordwest and the counties of Cardigan and Pembroke and was High Sheriff of Pembrokehire for several years . By his first wife, he had no children for his second partner he chose a daughter of William Philipps , of Picton Castle, who bore him two sons and three daughters. Alban was succeeded by his son Stephney John 1621 , who was created a baronel in 1621.

Stepneth Johannes 1620 of Prendergast. Justice of the Peace in Pembrokehire in 1620.

His brother

Stephney Thomas 1621? Knight, was once instrumental in saving the life of James I. he was also cupbearer to Charles I. He married the daughter of Sir Bernard Whetstone, of Woodford, Essex, and became ancestor of the famous George Stepney.

Stephney, or Stepney John 1643, the third baronet, nephew of the second, who it is said only enjoyed the title for three years, was Sheriff of Pembrokeshire and had to enforce the of the hateful 'ship-money." In 1643, he was Governor of Haverfordwest, and was surprised by the Parliamentarians, made prisoner and not released without much personal discomfort and financial vexation. The tithes of Little Newcastle were in 1645 owned by Sir John Stepney of Prendergast, Pems. Bart., who was MP., for Haverfordwest in 1640. Sir John had been taken prisoner at the capture of Hereford in December 1645 by Col. Birch, the parliamentary commander and was imprisoned in the Compter, Southwark.

Sir John alleged that he had not been in arms against the Commonwealth but had arrived in Hereford three week before his capture, and was waiting there for a pass from the wife of Major General Laugharne. This defense however proved of little avail, and Sir John was fined £1230. He represented Pembroke in the "Short" and Haverfordwest in the ' Long' Parliament.

Stephney John the fourth baronet, married a daughter of the great painter, Sir Henry Vandyke, Bart., a portrait of whom, painted by himself, is still in the possession of the family. Two of his family became nuns and afterwards abbesses of a Brussels Convent.

Another of the Stepneys—

Stepney Theodora —married the grandfather of the poet

Cowper.

Stepney Arthur Sir was the lineal descendant of Patrick Ruthven, son of the Earl of Gowrie and is thus related to the Royal family through the Tudor line by descent from Henry VII. He was also of Royal descent by the marriage of Stepney Thomas, 1744 Sir the fifth baronet, with Margaret Vaughan, of Llanelly, daughter of Thomas Howard, Duke of Norfolk Sir Thomas died in 1744.

Stepney Thomas 1697 Sir of Prendergast High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

A distinguished member of this family was

Stepney George 1663, scholar, poet and diplomatist. He was a friend of Liebnitz. Walpole alluded to him as "that accomplished minister and poet." He was buried in Westminster Abbey and a Latin epitaph records his many excellences an English poet and statesman, was a member of this ancient family settled at Prendergast, in Pembrokeshire. He received his education at Westminster school, whence he removed to Trinity College, Cambridge, in 1682, and there, being of the same standing with George Montague, afterwards Earl of Halifax, a strict friendship grew up between them. After the revolution he was nominated to several embassies. In 1692, he went to the court of the Elector of Brandenburg, as envoy in 1693, to the Imperial Court, in the same character in 1694, to the Elector of Saxony and two years after, to the Electors of Mentz, Cologne, and the congress at Frankfort. He was employed in several other embassies and in 1706, Queen Anne sent him as envoy to the States General. He was very successful in his negotiations, which occasioned his being constantly employed in the most weighty affairs. He died at Chelsea, in 1707, and was buried at Westminster Abbey, where a fine monument was erected to his memory. Eminent

Stone George -1880 , an actor, was a native of Tenby, Pembrokeshire, and began life as an assistant in a draper's shop. His first appearance on the stage was at the Theatre Eoyal, Cardiff. He represented a Welsh, man in an English piece, and his dialogue, consisting of a mixture of English and Welsh, , was a remarkable concoction. He also sang a Welsh song, and created so favourable an impression that he was ultimately engaged by the manager of the Gaiety Theatre, London, and his success there in " Faust Up to " was very marked. He was particularly gifted as a dramatist, and his affection for Wales remained after he had gained his Metropolitan fame. Bye Gone. 1889, p. 262. Eminent Welshmen 1908

Tanceed Tancred or Tankard of Haverfordwest was castellan of Haverford, and was probably one of the original Flemish settlers.

The name survives in Tancredston, in Brawdy parish. Gerald hints that it was owing to the favour of St. Caradoc whose body Tancred tried to detain within the lordship of Haverford that Fitz Tancred Richard c1130 outlived his elder brothers and succeeded to the inheritance. although he resisted
some of Gerald's high-handed measures, both he and his son Robert were donors to Slebech. The church of Garlandstone, given by the former, may have been a destroyed church in Skomar Island which was in the lordship, where the name is still preserved. Richard was granted two fees of the episcopal barony by bishop David Fitz Gerald.

Fitz Tancred Robert 1195 the son of Richard, does not seem to have been the villain mentioned by Gerald," for Robert was the founder of Haverford Priory, and was employed in important matters by the King. In 1195 he received from Richard I £213 6s. 8d. for the King's business" in 1207 he obtained a confirmation of the privileges of himself and his ancestors in the Port of Milford, and of a market in Haverford in the following year he found the Welsh, mariners for the King's expedition to Ireland, and was given the custody of the Castle of Cardigan." In 1204 Richard Mangonel, and Walter son of Cadivor, claimed to oust Richard from Haverford," but failed, as Robert continued at Haverford until his death in 1213, when William Marshall, Earl of Pembroke, re-claimed the lordship as held of his fee."

Tancred Tanceed, Tankardcastellan of Haverford,1130 was probably one of the original Flemish settlerssee also Fitz Tancred

Fitz Tancred Tancard Richard 1130 surviving son of Tancred .outlived his elder brothers and inherited. Documents record him as being lord and governor of Haverfordwest 1171and lord and governor of Haverford 22 March 1188.

Fitz Tancred Tancard Robert- son of Richard was the founder of Haverfordwest Priory He died in 1213

Thomas Benjamin c1830 about eight years old, worked in the Broadmoor Colliery at Begelly in Pembrokeshire hauling skips of coal.

Thomas Benjamin 1835-1893 "Myfyr Emlyn," a Baptist minister and author, was born in the parish of Eglwyswen, Pembrokeshire, of humble parents. His early education was of an elementary kind, and when aliout 15 years of age he removed to Tredegar in search of work. In 1852, he was baptised by the Rev. James Rowe and admitted into membership at Shiloh Baptist Chapel. He returned to his parents in the same year, and soon commenced to preach. Then, he was admitted to Haverfordwest College, and in 1858 to Bristol College. Two years later he was ordained minister at Newcastle Emlyn. His fame spreald rapidly, so that before he was 33 years of age he was in the front rank as preacher, lecturer, and poet. In 1873, he accepted the pastorate of the English Baptist church at Penarth, and, later, removed to Narberth. Eminent Welshmen 1908

Thomas David 1813-1894 , a Congregational minister and author, was the son of the Rev. William Thomas of Vatson, near Tenby, Pembrokeshire. He started life in a commercial career, in which he achieved a rapid success. He was already giving his Sundays to preaching, and was prevailed upon to give up his business prospects in order to devote himself wholly to the ministry. He entered Newport Pagnell College to prepare for the ministry, and afterwards became pastor at Chesham. In 1844, he removed to Stockwell, London, where he remained until 1877, when he retired. He was the originator of the Working Men's Club and Institute, of which Lord Brougham was first president and of an insurance plan for the benefit of widows of ministers. Eminent Welshmen 1908.

Thomas Urijah Rees 1839-1901 , a Congregational minister, the eldest son of the Rev. Dr. David Thomas editor of the Horn Hist, was born near Tenby. He entered Cheshunt College in 18.57, and studied there for five years. At the close of his course, he accepted an invitation to become the first pastor of Redland Park Church, Bristol, and to that church and to the city of Bristol he devoted his life. There he fulfilled a long pastorate of .59 years with conspicuous success, the building having to be enlarged twice. In 1895, he was chairman of the Congregational Union of England and Wales. Eminent Welshmen 1908

Haverfordwest State of Prisons in England Scotland and Wales by James Neild Esq

Thomas William D 1842-1899 , a self-made man, was born in Pembrokeshire, of humble parents. While a mere lad, he was compelled to become dependent on his own efforts for a livelihood. He emigrated to America settling in Pennsylvania, where he followed the occupation of mining contractor. He became a Justice of the Peace, and rose to a position of considerable influence. He took great interest in Eisteddfodic movements in Welsh, literature, especially poetry, as well as in the welfare of his fellow countrymen. {The Cambrian, 1899.Eminent Welshmen 1908

Toker James 1488 20 March Pembroke.

Toker Hugh 1486, June 2 .On June 2 in the same year, in the manor of Lantfey, one Sir, Thomas Williams chaplain was admitted to the perpetual vicarage of the parish church of the Blessed Mary Kairiw, vacant by the death of the Sir Peter Toker last vicar there, on the presentation of master Hugh Raglan rector of the said church. And he had Letters in the usual form.

Toker James 1488, 20 March .On 20 March in the above year in the parish church of Lantfey, before the Reverend father Hugh etc. then sitting there for judgement, with some learned in the law as assessors with him, one Stephen Hall of the parish of St. Michael, Pembroke, cited and accused by one Master Hasley, then rector of St. Florence, also present there, of heretical pravity maintained publicly by the said Stephen in the presence of some in the house of James Toker at Pembroke, appeared personally and, being there sworn to answer to interrogatories and interrogated, confessed among other things that, on Monday after Quinquagesima Sunday last, in the house of the afore-said James , in the presence of Master Hasley and some others there, he burst forth in these words, namely that the Second Person in the Godhead, our Redeemer, was not omnipotent before his resurrection from the dead and that, as he asserted, he has heard from the preaching of Master Smyth late archdeacon of St David's and bishop of Llandaff and not of his own invention or wit and this article indeed with all other erroneous articles and heresies he then abjured in writing, promising also that henceforward he would never maintain such and this in form following-
In the name of God, Amen!

I Stevyn Hall of Seint Michael's pishere in Pebroke here afore you Hiw by the Grace of God bishoppe of Seint David that article by me errantly holdyn and fortified before Masta Hasley parson of Seint Florence late at Pembroke in the howse of Jamys Toker in grete audience that is to say that the second person in Trinity the Son of God our Redema was not omnipotent before his resurrection which article in especiall with all other errores heresis and articles contrary to the determination of holy church by this my dede or writyng expressly renounce revoke and abjure mekely beseechyng you' reverend fatherhood in way of charite from the censur of the church in which I stand in for my for offensis deon ayenst God and the church to assoyl me Submyttyng myselfe for my for offens by me openly holdyn to you reformacon correccion and punishment as the law of the church will to your discrecion"

And after that he had been absolved in due form and a penance publicly laid upon him by the reverend father, the same abjured withdrew with Letters containing his penance.

Tolmode John 1404 24 November Also on 24 November, at London, in the year above-said, Sir Thomas Mulward, priest, of the diocese of St Davids was presented to the reverend father aforesaid to the parish church of St. Petroc within the lordship of the manor of Stakpoll of the same diocese, by the discreet men John Tolmode and John Boterell, priests of the diocese aforesaid, lords of the said manor of Stakpoll, co. Pembroke, with the advowsons of all churches that are within the manor, and the other things pertaining to it, by a feoffment of the lady Joan Vernon, late lady of the said manor, patrons of the said church, now vacant by the death of Sir John Griffyth, last rector of the same, and belonging to the presentation of the said John and John. And the aforesaid reverend father committed to Master John Kermerdyn, official of St Davids to enquire upon the vacancy of the said church and the other articles usually enquired of, in proper form and if such inquisition find for the said presented to admit him to the said church, institute him and cause him to be inducted in the same, first taking of him the accustomed oath of obedience. And he had such his commission in the usual form.

Tudir John 1486, 17 November .On 17 November in the year as above, at the manor of Lantfey of the diocese of St. David's, Master John David otherwise Kidwely of the diocese of St David's rector of the parish church of St.Telion

Cronwere of the diocese of St David's and Master John Tudir rector of the parish church of Hampstede Marchall of the diocese of Salisbury, surrendered their said benefices in the hands of the reverend father Hugh bishop of St. David's, because of an exchange to be made, which bishop indeed after the causes of the exchange had been heard examined, and plenarily discussed, and found to be true and lawful and approved, by his own authority as well as that of Thomas by divine permission bishop of Salisbury, committed to him in this behalf of which commission the tenour appears below, admitted the aforesaid Master John Tudir to the parish church of St. Telion, Cronwere of the aforesaid diocese of St David's and Master John Kidwely to the parish church of Hampstede Marchall of the diocese of Salisbury, and canonically instituted them in the same, Master John Tudir on the presentation of the religious man William abbot of the monastery of St. Albans of the diocese of Lincoln, and Master John Kidwely on the presentation of the King. And they had Letters of which the tenours follow-

Hugh etc. to our beloved in Christ Master John David otherwise Kidwely of our diocese, priest greeting etc. Having regard to the merits of thine uprightness, that thou mayest hereafter bear fruit in the church of God, we admit thee to the parish church of Hampstede Marchall vacant by the free resignation of Master John Tudir last and immediate rector of the same and we institute thee in the person of Sir John Vernon, rector of Stacpole of our diocese, thy proctor, canonically, as perpetual rector etc. d in our manor of Lantfey 17 November.

Hugh etc. to our beloved in Christ Master John Tudir, bachelor in decrees, greeting etc. Having regard we admit thee to the parish church of St. Telion Cronwere, of our diocese, vacant at the presentation of William abbot etc., and we institute thee perpetual rector of the said church and invest thee canonically in the same etc.

Tudor Edmund 1456

1457, 28 January. Henry Tudor born at Pembroke Castle. Edmund Tudor had married Lady Margaret Beaufort she about 13 he died in captivity in Carmarthen Castle in 1456. His brother Jasper Tudor, Earl of Pembroke, took Margaret to Pembroke Castle. She was pregnant and the baby born was future Henry VII.

Ancestry linked him to the royal house of Plantaganet although he had no direct claim to the throne. His mother was the great granddaughter of John of Gaunt by his marriage to Catherine Swynford. She had been his mistress for many years and after the death of his second wife he married her and by a special decree enacted during Richard II's reign all their children were declared legitimate with the promise that none should ever succeed to the throne of England.

He was descended through his father from Ednyfed Vaughan, Llywelyn Fawr's seneschal. His grandfather, Owen Tudor of Anglesey, squire of the Body to King Henry V, and Clerk of the Wordrobe to the Queen Dowager, Katherine de Valois, whom he married secretly in 1425. They lived together for 11 years and had 5 children including Jasper and Edmund. In 1436 marriage was discovered. She was sent to Bermondsey Abbey where she died within the year her children were cared for by the Nuns of Barking. Owen was betrayed and imprisoned in Newgate, he escaped and returned to Anglesey till Henry VI came of age when he and Jasper fought for Henry at the Battle of Mortimers Cross. Henry and the Lancastrians were defeated. Owen was captured and beheaded at Hereford but Jasper escaped.

Jasper and Edmund had been declared legitimate by the Act of Parliament. Edmund was created Earl of Richmond, Jasper became Earl of Pembroke. Henry Tudor was educated at Monkton Priory by the monks but at the age of 12 had to flee abroad.

Blows up Sleeping Wife and Child and Himself Received Mortal Injuries." John Vaughan of Cuckoo, Haverfordwest, the crippled Husband of a reputedly unfaithful wife, had written in a notebook "JaS Lewis done all this, JaS Lewis caused all this. Hang him, hang him." On another Page, of the notebook was an order for gelignite. The newspaper, after giving an account of the explosion at Cuckoo where John Harries had poisoned two wives just over one hundred years earlier, commented "a fit of mad jealousy on the part of the Husband is responsible for this horrible deed". John Vaughan, because of his disability, was unable to remove himself in time after lighting the fuse which ignited the gelignite and was killed by his own bomb. (His wheel chair got stuck in the mud outside the door – One story suggests that JaS Lewis was actually upstairs with the wife but escaped out of the window – and that it was common for him to go upstairs with the wife while the Husband was chairbound with his war injuries downstairs

Voyles of Underdown.Near Pembroke.

In the 16th century this was home of the Voyle family. In 1788 Captain Charles Tyler, R.N. lived here with his wife Margaret, daughter of Abraham Leach of Pembroke with their large family. He ended up being Admiral Sir Charles Tyler of Cotterell, Glamorganshire, and died in 1835. Colonel Owen Lowless, was living here in 1977 but sold it in the following year to Mr. James Barrett who turned it into a private hotel.

Walker William Sidney 1795-1846 , a poet, was born at Pembroke. He was named after his god-father, Admiral Sir William Sidney Smith, under whom his father had served. He entered Eton in 1811, but on account of his theological opinions had to resign, afterwards becoming a Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge. At ten years of age, he translated many of Anacreon's odes into English verse in 1813, when 17 years old, he managed to publish, by subscription, the first four books in a volume entitled " Gustavus Vasa and other Poems." At Eton, he learnt the whole of Homer's two poems by heart, and wrote Greek verse with unusual correctness and facility.

Lucy Walter was the daughter of William Walter of Roch

Castle, co. Pembroke, and Mr. S. Steinman, in his "Althorp Memoirs" privately printed, 1869, sets out her pedigree. Roch Castle was taken and burnt by the Parliamentary forces in 1644, and Lucy was in London in 1648, where she made the acquaintance of Colonel Algernon Sidney. She then fell into the possession of his brother, Colonel Robert Sidney. In September of this same year she was taken up by Charles, Prince of Wales.

Charles terminated his connection with her on October 30th, 1651, and she died in 1658, as appears by a document administration entry in the Register of the Prerogative Court met with by the late

Colonel Chester. William Erskine, who had served Charles as cupbearer in his wanderings, and was appointed Master of the charterhouse in December, 1677, had the care of Lucy Walter, and buried her in Paris. He declared that the King never had any intention of marrying her, and she did not deserve it. Thomas Ross, the tutor of her son, put the idea of this claim into his head, and asked Dr. Cosin to certify to a marriage. In consequence of this he was removed from his office, and Lord Crofts took his place Steinman's "Althorp Memoirs".

Lucy Walter took the name of Barlow during her wanderings.

Described as the "The Rhosmarket Siren" in "Rosemarket - A Village beyond Wales," a lecture by Geffrey Nicholle who suggests that she was born at the Big House, Rosemarket.

Lucy was "wife or mistress" to Charles II, mother of the Duke of Monmouth, great granddaughter of Morris Walter and an ancestor of the late Princess of Wales Diana. He says Richard Fenton and all other established sources of Pembrokeshire history give Rosemarket as Lucy's birthplace. More recently Roch Castle has been suggested, possibly because of its more romantic appeal to lady novelists. The Walter family owned both properties, but the Roch claim does not appear to be based upon any fresh evidence. He gives a typical Pembrokeshire accepted view of Lucy Walter

In the History of Haverfordwest - John Brown writes "It is an historical question of unreal doubt" I am quoting the words of a gentleman who devoted a considerable amount of research to the matter "whether Lucy Walters was lawfully wedded to Charles II. There were some very singular circumstances connected with Court intrigues which favour the supposition. That Charles, when questioned on the subject, gravely denied it, is true but His Majesty was not distinguished by a very strict regard to truth. It is matter of fact that the reigning house had lasting and grave doubts upon the subject. It is further recorded that Katharine of Portugal, the wife of Charles, had a firm conviction of the legitimacy of the unhappy Monmouth, and earnestly interceded with James II. for his life. There is another very remarkable circumstance connected with the affair. Some time antecedent to the middle of the 18th century, under high warrant from the Home Office, the marriage register of the Parish of St Thomas Haverfordwest, where the family of the Walter's resided for some time, was sent for to headquarters. No reason was assigned for the requirement by those who applied for these documents, but it was afterwards asserted, and with considerable confidence, by some who were likely to be well informed on the matter, that the register contained a record of a marriage which was solemnised a century before, which, if it had been proved, would have been of some consequence as regards the succession of the House of Brunswick. It is now, of course, only a romance of history, but the register was never returned!"

In her book "South Pembrokeshire" - another local author Mary Mirehouse, refers to Lucy Walters, as the daughter of Richard Walters of Treffgarn and Roch, - no mention of Rosemarket but says she became the mistress some say the wife of Charles II. She was then eighteen.

There seems to be in my mind strong doubt as to where Lucy Walters was born but all agree she became the mistress or wife of the future Charles II. But how did a girl of respectable family in Pembrokeshire get to meet the future Charles II?

Again confusion....

Mary Mirehouse, says "In 1645, John Barlow of Slebech was taken prisoner in Pill Fort, near Milford Haven, by the Parliamentarians. Later, John Barlow accompanied the Marquis of Worcester to the Court of the exiled Charles II in Paris, and with him went his young kinswoman, Lucy Walters, daughter of Richard Walters of Treffgarn and Roch, who assumed, on arrival in Paris, the name of Barlow" That she did use the name Barlow is an established fact.

Geffrey Nicholle suggests that, "Lucy's aunt, Margaret Gosfright, who after the Restoration took possession of some of the Walter land at Rosemarket, took her to Holland. Lucy's parents had separated and her aunt was married to a Dutchman. Whether Lucy and Charles met first in Holland or before is uncertain”.

So many conflicting stories.....

According to notes in The Diary of Samuel Pepys for October 1662.

"At that time there was speculation that young Croft is the lawful son of the King , the King being married to his mother." So even at that period of time there was suspicions as to the legitimacy of the future Duke of Monmouth.

James , the son of Charles II. by Lucy Walter , daughter of William Walter, of Roch Castle, was born April 9th, 1649, and landed in England with the Queen-Mother, July 28th, 1662, when he bore the name of Crofts, after Lord Crofts, his governor. He was created Duke of Monmouth, February 14th, 1663, and married Lady Anne Scott, daughter and heiress of Francis, second Earl of Buccleuch, on April 20th following. In 1673 he took the name of Scott, and was created Duke of Buccleuch.

Then there is a footnote to the Dairy entry saying that “There has been much confusion as to the name and parentage of Charles's mistress. Lucy Walter was the daughter of William Walter of Roch Castle, co. Pembroke,..... Roch Castle was taken and burnt by the Parliamentary forces in 1644, and Lucy was in London in 1648, where she, at the age of seventeen was the mistress of Algernon Sidney a Roundhead officer. In September of that year in the Netherlands she met his younger brother, a Royalist exile, Robert Sidney, and this same year she was taken up by Charles, Prince of Wales.

A son was born in April 1649 called James whom Charles acknowledged as his. although as the relationship had been off and on during the period there could have been some doubts. Certainly there was over the daughter Mary born in 1651 as she had relationships with two other members of the Court at that time. Charles terminated his connection with her on October 30th, 1651. The Queen-Dowager taking charge of her two children.

In 1655 Lucy was pensioned off with an annuity of £400.

In 1656, the year Richard Walters, was High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire, Lucy came to London, where she was arrested as a spy and put in the Tower. She was soon afterwards released, and eventually went entirely to ruin abroad.

She died in Paris 1658 as appears by a document administration entry in the Register of the Prerogative Court aged about 28. She was buried in the Huguenot Cemetery Paris and Letters of Administration were granted 6 Dec 1658

As Pepys said – “How true this is, God knows”

- I certainly don't as there are so many conflicting records.

Her two children-

Crofts James later Scott was born in Rotterdam on the 9th April 1649 Charles Prince of Wales later Charles II acknowledged the child as his and he was later given the title 1st Duke of Monmouth. but Charles never admitted that he had been married to Lucy in fact he denied it twice to the Privy Council. James Croft Duke of Monmouth married Anne Scott and by her had children -- He is also reputed to have fathered several bastards. After the Monmouth rebellion he was beheaded on Tower Hill 15th July 1685.

Walter Mary daughter of Lucy Walter born 6th May 1651 was never acknowledged as his child by Charles and was born after he and Lucy had separated -- she was probably fathered by Theobald Taaffe 1st Earl of Carlingford although Lucy had a liason with Henry Bennet 1st Earl of Arlington at the time . Mary married first William Sarsfield and second William

Fanshawe -- she died in 1693.

On 30 July 1486 at Lamphey a letter, the tenour of which follows, was exhibited to H. bishop of St. Davids.

To the venerable father in Christ etc. the bishop St David's or his vicar general in spiritualities.

Julian by the mercy of the Lord bishop of Ostia sendeth greeting and sincere charity in the Lord. A petition offered unto us on behalf of Walter ap John of Stacorse layman of your diocese contained that by the instigation of the devil he lately killed one Roger Walter , priest of the said place, his Spiritual father who had baptized one of his sons, on which account he falls under the sentence of excommunication pronounced in general terms against such as do these things, upon which things he has caused supplication to be humbly made, setting forth the same, for a due remedy to be mercifully provided for him by the apostolic see. We therefore by authority of the lord Pope the care of whose penitentiary we bear and by his special man upon this made to us by the oracle of the living voice

commit to your prudence that if this is so when he shall have gone by all the larger churches of that place where so great a crime was perpetrated, naked and unshod with only his breeches on, bearing a rod in his hand, and a yoke about his neck if he can with safety and caused himself to be beaten before the doors of the churches aforesaid and with the priests of the same singing a penitential psalm, when the multitude of the people in these is greatest, publicly confessing his sin, and when he shall have adequately satisfied, if he have not already done so, the church which the murdered priest served, and when he and his heirs have been deprived for ever of any fee or right of patronage he hold of the church and lest the memory of the punishment be too short let his children on this account be deemed incapable of holding an ecclesiastical benefice unless with them there be a merciful dispensation upon this by the apostolic see, you shall absolve this layman from the said sentence and such guilt and excess of priesticide in the accustomed form of the church and enjoin on him therefore by the authority aforesaid, such penance as may be to him for salvation and to others for terror.

Walter William 1822-1884 William Walters, ,, a Baptist minister and author, was born at Pembroke Dock, South Wales, and was apprenticed to a tradesman in the town. After about eighteen months of village preaching, he entered Haverfordwest College in 1842, and completed his training at the Baptist College, Bradford. In 1848, he undertook the pastorate at Leeming Street, Preston, removing afterwards to New Park Street, London. In 1853, he settled in Halifax, beginning his ministry in a cottage in Horton Street. Before long a large chapel in Trinity Road was built. Here he worked hard and successfully, his lectures to the working-men on Sunday afternoons being especially popular. During the last few years of his life he was crippled through rheumatism, and devoted himself mainly to literary work, editing tracts for the

Religious Tract Society, and publishing volumes of his own sermons and lectures. Eminent Welshmen

John Warren and Robert Griffiths To The Church Wardens and Overseers of The poor of The parrish of Eglwswrw.

Whereas Margarett the wife of David Evan of yow parish hath made oath before us John Warren and Robert Griffiths esquire, two of His Majesty's justices of the peace for the said county of Pembroke, that she is very poor and impotent and utterly unable to provide for herself and family, so that they must inevitably perish unless timely relieved, and that the last place of her legal settlement was and is in this the said parish, and that she the said Margarett applied herself to the overseers of the poor of the said parish as the law directs and was by them denied relief.

And having summoned the overseers of the poor of the said parish to shew cause why relief should not be given her the said Margarett, and they having appeared before us did not make any sufficient cause appear.

These are therefore in His Majesty's name to command you to pay unto the said Margarett a sum of sixpence per week for and towards the support and maintenance of the said Margarett and her family until such time as she the said Margarett shall be better able to provide for herself and family or that you shall be otherwise ordered to forbear making the said allowance. Given under our hands and seals.

Wheeler R E M Dec 1922 Dr.----Earthworks at Castell Fleming Some trial trenches dug by and in Dec. 1922 showed that the earth rampart and ditch were of Roman type and had enclosed at least one building of timber with slate roof and clay floor. These remains were exposed in the triangular plot mentioned above which had been preserved from the plough by piles of stone removed from adjoining ground and was covered with dense growth of bracken. Several pieces of flue tiles and bricks such as were used in hypocausts were found above the surface of a clay floor 2 1/2 inches thick. The part that was laid bare showed remains on of two raised clay hearths and a posthole about 3 inches in diameter. The floor rested a bedding of cobbles, and below this was an earlier occupation layer partly floored with clay resting on some 7 inches of fine gravel. A number of hexagonal roofing slates of characteristic Roman type were found on the upper clay floor and some fragments occurred in and below it. The minor finds included two bones and iron nail a fragment of glass and a dozen pieces of pottery of which five were "Samian". The pottery was found below the upper clay floor and points to the early part of the second century AD as the first occupation. Fentons Tours i 333 Lewis Top Dic Wales 1845 i 27 Arch. Camb. 1879 p 318 Haverfield Mil Aspects of Roman Wales 112 in Trans Hon. Soc. Cymmrodorion 1908-9

12 July 1919 The Albert Medal This very rare award was granted to Thomas Williams the Station Master at Pembroke. The citation from WhiteHall, dated, Read, "The King has been pleased to award the Albert Medal to Mr. Thomas Williams Station Master on the Great Western Railway at Pembroke, in recognition of his gallantry in saving life in March last. The circumstances are as follows— 'On the 13th March, as a train was entering Pembroke Station, an elderly gentleman, Canon Bowen, of Pembroke, in stepping aside to avoid a luggage barrow, fell off the platform on to the rails. The train was not more than thirty yards away from him when he fell, and was travelling fast. The Stationmaster, who was close by, at once jumped down in front of the engine and just succeeded in rolling Canon Bowen off the track, and held him down alongside the rails until it was safe to allow him to get up. although the brakes were applied it was found impossible to bring the train to a standstill, until the engine and two coaches had passed the spot where rescued and rescuer were lying. Had it not been for Mr. Williams presence of mind and courage Canon Bowen could hardly have escaped instant death.' The award was published in the London Gazette of 18 July 1919. <http://www.pembrokeshire-war-Memorial.co.uk/index.htm>

Williams Anna Maria,

1706 - 1783,

Williams ANNA, the friend of Dr. Johnson, was the daughter of a surgeon and physician in South Wales, where she was born in 1706. Reputedly at Rosemarket where her grandfather was Vicar. Her father, Zechariah Williams was a man of parts and great ingenuity he had devoted himself to the study of mathematics, and having discovered, by a kind of intuitive penetration, that the variations of the magnetic needle were equal at equal distances east and west he entertained a sanguine hope, that he had attained the means of ascertaining the Longitude. In hopes of a splendid recompence, he determined to leave his habitation and business for the metropolis. Miss Williams accompanied him, and they arrived in London in 1730, with an apparatus of mathematical and nautical instruments of his own invention. His first business was, to lay before the commissioners of the Longitude the fruits of his studies, but upon a due examination, they all proved abortive no proportion of the reward could be assigned him as his due, and the only recompence which his journey and imagined discovery procured was an admission as a pensioner at the Charterhouse. He eventually lost the benefits of this asylum, when arrived at the age of seventy-five, in consequence of either an infraction of the rules, or some other misconduct. In a narrative, published in 1740, he complains of his expulsion as an act of injustice. He published afterwards in 1755, a book entitled " An account of an attempt to ascertain the Longitude at sea, by an exact theory of the magnetical needle " this is in Italian and English, supposed to have been written by Dr.

Johnson, and translated by Baretti. His daughter, about ten years after her arrival in London, lost her sight by a cataract, but she had previously acquired a knowledge of the French and Italian languages, and made great advances in literature, which, together with the exercise of her needle, at which she was very dexterous, as well after the loss of her sight as before, contributed to support her under her affliction. In 1746, with the assistance of two female friends, she translated from the French of Pere La Bletrie, the Life of the Emperor Julian. About this time she became acquainted with Dr. Johnson, who was so much pleased with her conversation and society, that a strict intimacy soon took place between them. She became an inmate of his dwelling, and continued to enjoy his friendship till her decease. In 1755, her pecuniary circumstances were improved by the profits of a benefit-play, granted her by Mr. Garrick, from which she received two hundred pounds and in 1776, she published by subscription a quarto volume of "Miscellanies in Prose and Verse " and thereby increased her fund to three hundred pounds. She was a woman of enlightened understanding, plain in her person, and easily provoked to anger, but possessing, nevertheless, some excellent moral qualities, among which none was more conspicuous than her desire to promote the welfare of others, and of this she gave a signal proof by her solicitude, in favour of an institution for the maintenance and education of poor deserted females in the parish of St. Sepulchre, London, supported by the voluntary contributions of ladies, and as a foundation stone of a fund for its future support, she bequeathed to it the whole of her Fortune. She died at the house of her friend, in Bolt Court, Fleet-street, whither they had removed about the year 1775, on the sixth of September, 1783, aged seventy-seven years. Boswell's Life of Dr. Johnson.

Williams Benjamin Thomas 1832 - 1890 , a lawyer, was a son of the Rev. T. R. Williams and was born at Merryvale, Pembrokeshire. He was educated at the Carmarthen Presbyterian College and Glasgow University, where he took his M.A. degree, and was senior logic prizeman and silver medallist in metaphysics. He was intended for the Congregational ministry, but joined the Unitarians, studied law, and was called to the Bar in 1859, and joined the South Wales circuit. He speedily distinguished himself in his profession, and became Queen's Counsel in 1875. In 1872, he was appointed recorder of Carmarthen, and from 1878 to 1881, sat in the House of Commons as representative of the Carmarthen Boroughs. In 1881, he was appointed judge of the Glamorgan

Williams Waldo 30 September 1904 – 20 May 1971 wrote under the Welsh Bardic name of Goronwy. Was a Welsh language poet He was born at Haverfordwest, his father was a primary school teacher and in 1911 was appointed headmaster of Mynachlogddu where Waldo learned Welsh. He attended the grammar school at Narberth and then at Aberystwyth University where he studied English. After graduating in 1926 he trained as a teacher . He married in 1941 but unfortunately his wife died in 1943 Waldo in 1953 joined the Society of Friends Quakers and he was a pacifist. During the Korean war refused to pay his income tax. Despite being sent to prison he continued campaigning till the end of compulsory military service in 1963. He stood as a candidate in the 1959 election for the Plaid Cymru party. After serving two terms in prison for non payment of tax he resumed teaching in 1963. He died at St Thomas's Hospital Haverfordwest and was buried in Llandysilio - Memorial Mynachlogddu.

Winter George born in Milford and originally was an actor appearing in such films as Scum and All Quiet on the Western Front. He also had leading parts in drama's for TV including “Knights of God”, “Merlin of the Chrystal cave” and “The Bretts”. In the West End Theatre he played the lead in “The Corn is Green” with Deborah Kerr at the Old Vic. Unfortunately he developed a debilitating illness which prevented him from carrying on with his acting career. He therefore decided to study art at Bristol University as a mature student and obtained a BA Honours Degree. His paintings and drawing have been exhibited in several West of England galleries. Married to Christine and lives in Somerset. They have four children.

Wogan Family of Pembrokeshire.(see also Woogan)

Wiz or Wizo the Fleming c1114 founded the Pembrokeshire Family .Wizo seems to have chosen an existing Iron Age enclosed settlement or rath as the basis for his castle.

A large conical earthen motte was thrown up across the bank of the earlier settlement, and a gateway was created on the north-eastern side of the rath defences. The unusually large bailey of Wizo's stronghold probably served to house the borough occupied by the first group of settlers. The prehistoric defences would have provided them with ready-made protection against the newly-dispossessed Welsh , . It would originally have been a timber and earth motte and bailey castle. By the 14c the castle which by then had a stone keep was abandoned the Wogan family who had become lords of the manor. Their principal residence was at nearby Picton Castle, though a cadet branch of the family built a manor house just beyond the east side of the Wiston earthworks. This developed into a substantial Tudor mansion

-----Wyzo or Wys the Fleming who gave his name to Wiston had conquered the present hundred of Daugleddy except the episcopal lordship of Llawhaden, which was held as a barony under the earl by the service of two and a half Knight's fees

 Wys, or his son

Walter , gave the advowsons of the churches in the barony to the Hospitalers of Slebech, whereon there was afterwards a quarrel between the authorities of Slebech and of St. Peter's, Gloucester, and St Mary's, Worcester." Walter son of Wizo the Flemish lord of Wiston Clarbeston Pembrokeshire Parsons.

Walter , after William FitzGerald had battered his new castle of Wiston in 1148,' married the daughter of William 's brother, David FitzGerald, Bishop of St David's , and received from his father-in-law certain lands near Llawhaden, for the seizure of which Wys had been excommunicated. Walter left two sons,

-----Walter son of Walter succeeded Walter grandson of Wizo the Flemish lord of Wiston Clarboston Pembrokeshire Parsons.

Philip Gwys ,son of Walter and succeeded his brother Walter , and was, in 1193, captured in Wiston Castle, with his wife and two sons, by Howel ap Rhys ap Gruffydd.' One of these sons, Henry Gwys succeeded his father, and was a benefactor to Slebech. There is some mystery as to who Henry married or even if he did marry as in 1220 the barony was under the care of the Earls of Pembroke as guardian for the infant heiress of Henry. Was it his daughter, a sister or a niece?

and who married

de Herford Sir Walter , who held the barony in 1247. This Sir Walter came of a family said to have been settled in West Wales in the time of Rufus. He held lands in Ireland which, with Wiston, passed to his daughters, who married representatives of the family of Wogan and of Stainton. He was a witness to Earl Walter Marshal's charter to Gilbert de Vale 1241-5, and was one of the Pembroke magnates who sent to John of Monmouth in 1244 the account of their attack on Cardigan. He held, on the partition of the Marshal inheritance, three Knight's fees, a holding exceeded only by the Martins of Kemes, the De Barris, Carews and Stackpoles. It may be that part of his holding was of the lands conquered by the Marshals in Cardigan.

Wogan John 1635 of Wiston Castle High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire Wogan John, in his old age, was one of two members of Parliament for Pembrokeshire firmly associated with the Parliamentary cause. his mother was Sybil, daughter of Sir Hugh Owen of Orielson, he was educated, at Jesus College, Oxford his wife was Jane Colclough of Tintern Wogan John of Wiston represented the county. in the Parliament to meet King Charles on April 13, 1640 This Parliament for once and all declared that the levying of ship money was illegal.

Wogan Thomas 1649 captain, served in the army of the Parliament son of John Wogan and Jane Colclough, one of the regicides of 1649.

Wogan John 1779

The Wogans continued at Wiston until 1779, when, on the death of John Wogan, the old castle and the borough which had grown up under its protection, passed to his daughters Eleanor and Susanna, and from them by purchase to the first Lord Cawdor.

Wogan Lewis the grandfather of this John Wogan 1779, had married Martha, the daughter and heiress of David Williams of Hen Castle, which passed to Thomas Stokes on his marriage with Susanna Wogan

Wogan John 1465 Sir was killed at the battle of Banbury in 1465, fighting by the side of his uncle, William Herbert, Earl of Pembroke. This Sir John had married the heiress of Jenkin Clement, lord of Tregaron in Cardiganshire, and his descendants were sheriffs of that county in 1540, 1554, and 1562. His grandson, another

Wogan John Sir 1557 who married the heiress of Stonehall, died in 1557 this Sir John had a grandson, yet another

Wogan John 1567 who was sheriff in 1567 and 1572, and married Came Cecil, daughter of Sir Edward Came of Eweny their son

Wogan William 1603 married Owen Sibyl, daughter of Sir Hugh Owen of Oriulton is mentioned in George Owen's list of the commission of the peace in 1603.

Wogan John 1636 the son of Sir William Wogan was sheriff in 1636 and sat for the county of Pembroke in the parliaments of 1614, 1625, and 1640 he had an elder son, Wogan Thomas 1646 M.P. for Cardigan in 1646. This Thomas who succeeded to Wiston and the Wogan Irish estates, which were confiscated in 1662, but afterwards restored to his brother Roland, was one of those who signed the death warrant of King Charles I. At the Restoration he escaped to Utrecht, where he is heard of engaged in plots in 1666. Fenton gives the tradition how he afterwards returned to the county and lived on charity in the church porch of Walwyn's Castle, where he was one morning found dead. see Wogan Judge

Wogan Roland 1662 brother of Thomas had estates restored

Wogan John of Wiston 1745 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

Wogan Judge, Walwyn and the Roundhead

Judge Wogan was one of the fifty nine Regicide Judges and officials who in 1649 conducted the trial and execution of King Charles I.

After the restoration of Charles II to the throne in 1660 these regicides were excepted from the Amnesty granted by royal authority to all other political offenders. That year ten were pronounced guilty nine of which were hanged drawn and quartered and one hanged. Two years later three more were hanged drawn and quartered while nineteen served life imprisonment. A few were pardoned but even the graves of those that had died were desecrated.

Some escaped abroad to countries in Europe or to the American colonies. One who is listed as escaping to Holland is Judge Thomas Wogan. Originally he had been held at York Castle until 1664 when it is recorded that he escaped to the Netherlands. Previously three of the regicides who had escaped there had been arrested by the British Ambassador. returned to England and executed so it seems a very unsafe destination to head for.

But what has this to do with Pembrokeshire, I could not find many reference to a Thomas Wogan of around that time but Brown in his History of Haverfordwest with that of some Pembrokeshire Parishes originally written about the 1880's but revised and published in May 1914 by subscription has an interesting story and I quote

“Well, it must have been some years after Cromwell had passed to his long account, and the countryfolk were beginning to forget the troubles the land had suffered—for this part of Pembrokeshire, from its vicinity to Milford Haven, had had its full share in the struggles, and now a new generation was growing up,— that an aged man appeared in the neighbourhood one day, and sat down on that same old bench in the church porch, with the air of one who was weary of life and its surroundings. It may have been that at first a feeling of curiosity, not unmixed with awe, crept over the rustics as they observed the weird appearance and strange manner of a visitor who was evidently used to other scenes and ways of life. Pity, in time, would lead them to proffer him some simple service, but he needed none. He seldom quitted the quiet resting-place he had chosen day and night still found him there sad, silent, and alone. The summer's heat and winter's cold seemed to pass over him unheeded. But one morning the stranger "was not"— only that which men, often using the phrase without noting its significance, call "his remains." The tenant had quitted the worn dwelling and departed to the undiscovered country. And who, think you, was this mysterious personage who was consigned to Mother Earth by the simple rustics, with the beautiful and universal expression of the hope of our Church, though he was entirely unknown to those who in charity buried him? Long afterwards it was discovered that he was one of the Regicide Judges, who, feeling that he needed mercy at the hands of the Judge of the whole earth, and cowering under the terrible responsibility which he had once assumed, chose this obscure spot to hide his head and die!

The Wogans of Picton is said to have come from the marriage of

Wogan John 1295? said to have been the son of Mathew Wogan of Wiston, and Avice Malefant of Upton with de Picton Joan, daughter and heiress of Sir William de Picton, but the earlier Wogan pedigree is very confused

Wogan John is said to have been the famous Justiciary of Ireland, which is probably true.

Sir John Wogan was Justiciary of Ireland with a few intervals from 1295 to 1313, In 1302, Sir John Wogan, who then styles himself dominus de Pykton et capitalis justiciarius de Hibernia, founded the Wogan chantry in the chapel of St. Nicholas in St David's cathedral. The chaplains were to pray for the souls of Sir John Wogan and his patron William de Valence. He died about 1319

John Wogan, Francis Meyrick, John Phillipps, Hughe Butler And William Warren
To The Mayor And Aldermen Of The Town And County Of Haverfordwest .Whereas John Johnson of Newe Castle upon Tyne, master and owner of the ship named The Danyell, being pressed lately at Bristoll for the carriage of two hundred soldiers for Her Majesty's service into Irelande, and being enforced by contrary and tempestuous winds to land in this haven of Milford, made special petition unto us whose names are subscribed for the placing of the said two hundred soldiers in some meet and convenient place during their abode here

where they may be relieved with necessary vitual and provision until the wind serve for their passage hence into Ireland, we, considering that there is no place more convenient for the placing of them than the town and county of Haverfordwest, where they may be both relieved with vitual and kept best together by those that are officers over them, do therefore pray and entreat you to receive the said soldiers into your said town and to place and divide them according to your directions as in like case you have formerly done. So we refer care hereof unto you, not doubting but you shallbe allowed of all such money as you or any of you shalldefray herein, as heretofore you have been.

We betake you to God.

Wogan Thomas 1376 20 November Former tenant I P M 248 f10549 Edward III.

Wogan Thomas 1663 BUT About the time of the Restoration, a belief seems to have existed that the advowson was owned by Thomas Wogan of Wiston, the Regicide, as a warrant was issued on 15 Sept., 1662, for a grant to the bishops of London and Winchester, Sir Robert Hyde and Dr. William Thomas of the rectory, tithes, &c., of Wiston, co. Pembroke, 'lately belonging to Thomas Wogan, attainted of high treason, in trust for the maintenance of a minister there, if requisite, or of ministers in and about London or elsewhere.' - State Papers. Presumably this grant was never proceeded with, as the same records state that in May 1663 a grant was made to Col.

Robert Werden and Charles Parker, of the estate, manor, and rectory of Wiston, and barony of Dungleddy, co. Pembroke, forfeited by the attainder of Thomas Wogan. If Thomas Wogan did own the Property it seems most probable that the latter grant took effect, and that the purchase by Werden and Parker was made either on behalf of the Wogan family or else that the Wogans acquired the interest of the grantees therein. It seems however much more likely that Thomas Wogan did not own either the Wiston estate or the advowson of the church, because although Thomas Wogan was evidently alive in 1664 - a proclamation having been issued on 27 July in that year State Papers for his apprehension, he, having with others escaped from the Tower of London - we find that his nephew Henry Wogan by his will d 7 Feb., 1662, and proved in London on 9 Feb., 1662, devised all his lands in Wiston, with all rents and tithes belonging to the rectory thereof, to his wife and his mother for their lives, with remainder to his uncle Rowland Wogan. - l Laud, fol. 30

Wogan William 1678-1758 , Diet. Nat. William Wogan was born in 1678 at Penally. At the time his father Ethelred Wogan was rector of Gumfreston and vicar of Penally, a descendant from the Wogans of Wiston near Haverfordwest. His father died when he was about seven years old and his uncle assisted with his early education at Swansea Grammer School, Westminster school, where he was admitted on foundation in 1694 and Trinity College in 1700. He then accepted the post of private tutor to the family of Sir Robert Southwell and then in 1710 became clerk to his son , secretary to the Duke of Ormond , Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. In early 1711 he went to Ireland and the following year entered the army as a lieutenant in the infantry. December 1718 he married Catherine Stanhope who was related to the Earls of Chesterfield. She died on 19th June 1726 leaving him with an only daughter. William Wogan then settled at Ealing Middlesex where he spent his time writing religious books and tracts. Yong Thomas, 1507 D.C.L a learned prelate and civilian, was the son of John Yong, of Pembrokeshire, by Ellanor his wife, and was born at Hodgeston Topographical Dictionary of Wales 1834, in that county, in 1507. He was entered at Broadgate's Hall, now Pembroke College, Oxford, in 1528, and having applied himself to the study of Civil Law, he took a degree in that faculty in 1537, being then in holy orders. In 1542, he was made Principal of his Hall, and in 1547, Precentor of St David's , "where being much scandalized at the unworthy actions of Robert Ferrar, Bishop of that place, he did, with others, draw up articles against him which being proved before the King's Commissioners, the said Bishop was imprisoned in the time of King Edward VI." In the reign of Queen Mary, Thomas, Yong was obliged to flee from the Kingdom for religion sake, and he remained in Germany in an obscure condition during her time. On the accession of Queen Elizabeth, he returned to England and on the deprivation of Bishop Henry Morgan, he was consecrated to the bishopric of St David's, January 21, 1559. He presided over this see only until February, 1560, when he was translated to the archbishopric of York, and about the same time he was made President of the Queen's Council in the northern parts of England. In February, 1564, he was created Doctor of Civil Law, and he died on the 26th of June, 1568, and was buried at the east end of the choir of the cathedral church of York. He married late in life Jane, the daughter of Thomas, Kynaston, of Estwick, in Shropshire, by whom he had issue George Yong, who was afterwards knighted, and was living in York, in 1612. (Wood's Athen. Oxon.) Eminent Welshmen –R Williams 1852

Young Thomas 1548 the precentor and Rowland Meyrick father of the 2nd Earl of Essex's household steward 1548 with Constantyne opposed Bishop Ferrar's attempt to re-organise the Diocese of St David's supported by the Devereux and the Barlows, whom Ferrar had estranged in turn, the Barlows by challenging their claims to the farm of the prebend of Brawdy and the lease of Monkton and accusing them of withholding tithes that ought to have come to the Bishop from Carew and the Devereux by seeking to recover Lamphey. Dugdales Monasticum p 322 onwards 1823 version in 6 Vol. Edit. by Caley, Ellis and Bandinel.
